THE PATTER OF BABY'S FOOTSTEPS.

BY WILLIAM SIDNEY HILLYER.

I love to hear the melody that's in the song of birds,
I love to hear the music of the poets' tender words,
I love to hear the break and roar of waves upon the strand,
I love to hear the music played by orchestra and band;
All these do I delight in, but there's something I love more,
'Tis the patter of baby's footsteps coming o'er the floor.

A sweet half hesitation, as if baby were afraid
Of her own timid essay, and in another moment's laid
Her little head of golden curls upon my parent knee;
Then all her little sorrows cease and all her troubles flee.
I love the strains of singers, but there's something I love more,
'Tis the patter of baby's footsteps coming o'er the floor.

Sometimes, when plans go wrong and I'm filled with deepest gloom,
Silent and sad I sit alone within my quiet room,
And meditate on troubles, ills and a great load of care,
And then I feel the weight of woe and darkness of despair;
But there's a sound which cheers and makes me smile once more,
'Tis the patter of baby's footsteps coming o'er the floor.

It follows me when I go forth, and meets me on return,
And for that music, all day long, my heart doth ever yearn;
I crave not many favors, but for this I often crave.
May that pattering follow me for many a long day.
Long may I be sweetly thrilled to my bosom's very core
By the patter of baby's footsteps coming o'er the floor.

But these footsteps will grow apace into a woman's stride,
And baby's form—a woman's grown—be by another's side;
Then little forms will come, I hope, and cluster 'round her knee,
And look up smilingly at her, as she now does at me,
And her dear heart be filled with bliss, as mine was filled before,
By the patter of baby's footsteps coming o'er the floor.

LITTLE KITTY.

ADAPTED FROM THE GERMAN OF EMILIE LUDWIG.

BY E. L.

ONE fine day, in a restaurant in Montreal, two gentlemen, who looked like English or American clergymen, had seated themselves at a small table standing apart.

The younger was apparently absorbed in a late edition of The Telegraph, the elder held another Boston newspaper before him.

"I suppose," said the elder now, "they've already a complete report of the affair. Sure enough, there it is in black and white, in letters big enough for a blind man to read! Great Burglary in Tremont Street—Jewels Worth a Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars Stolen—Arrest of Suspicious Individual—Police Already on the Track! Ha! Ha! How stirring they are, and how cunning! But what's the matter, Fred?"

The companion thus addressed, in reading The Telegraph, had uttered a suppressed cry of fright, and stared, very pale and disturbed, at the sheet, which trembled in his hand.

"The devil!" exclaimed the elder, surprised; "what's the matter? Do you see a ghost in broad daylight? Do speak a word! You look as if the Weasel already had you by the collar! Out with it—are they on our track?"

"I think not," said Fred, sadly. "But my little girl is dying. There, see!"

He pointed to a "personal" in the paper, and read in a low tone:

"'To Fred! Little Kitty is very ill, dying, and continually asks for her daddy. Can you come home, somehow? Jane.'"

"As for going home, that, of course, is out of the question!" exclaimed the elder, irritably.

"It seems so," said the man, dejectedly, and with an uncertain voice; "but it would really be too hard if she should die without my being able to see her once more."

"After all, it may be a trap," said the other. "Yes, it certainly is one! Who is Jane? the child's mother?"

"No, my sister. I left the child in her care, knowing she would be well treated. My wife died, poor woman, two years ago."

"So, before you belonged to the profession?"

"Yes, when I was still honest, and starved with her. On leaving I charged Jane to inform me through The Telegraph of everything important that might happen. My Kitty was already by no means well, but I didn't think it was anything serious, otherwise no power in the world could have taken me from her. She is my only child. Oh, I wish it was a trap, but I'm afraid the notice is true!"

"Well, that may be," muttered the other. "But you can't think of going there, of course."

"Yes, I shall go, Tiger; I must see my child."

"What, you don't mean to say—nonsense, man, you can't be crazy! You are sure of twenty years if you set foot in the United States before the affair blows over! You must consider that the Weasel is certainly spying out for us. But—oh, now I know, you probably want to squeal and help yourself out of it by betraying me! Is that your intention?"

Fred shook his head.

"I am not such a man—that you know very well! I only wish to see my little girl—and I must see her! Yes, Tiger, I must see her, come what may! Nothing can keep me from going."

The other looked at him, shaking his head; then he said, with the air of a person who stands helpless before something incomprehensible:

"Well, we'll let the matter drop for today. Sleep over it, and tomorrow morning you will be sensible again, I hope."

But Fred Bathom did not sleep a moment the whole night. Before daybreak he awakened Tiger, who slept soundly and sweetly, like a righteous man.

"You, Tiger, listen—I'm going now!"

"What—what's the matter?" stammered the old burglar, sleepily.

"I'm going home, back to Boston, to see my little Kitty, and the devil himself couldn't stop me! Do you hear?"

"You must be stark mad!"

"Maybe," said Fred; "but that's just what I shall do! All night long I saw my sweet Kitty in her little bed, and heard her call me 'Daddy! Daddy!'"

"Well, of course," snorted Tiger, "go—go by all means; squeal, and let yourself be pardoned! I didn't think that of you, man!"

"And you oughtn't to think it, after the business we've done together; where we always helped each other out of great straits. Never fear; whether they catch me or not, you can be easy!"

And he stuck to his resolution in spite of all the abuse and remonstrance from Tiger.

An hour later, dressed very plainly, with a beard and wig, he got on the early train for Boston. He looked like a New England farmer in his "Sunday-go-to-meetings."

The consciousness of seeing his dear little girl soon put him in an almost cheerful mood; but then the anxious doubt stole upon him: shall I find her still alive? And when the train reached American soil, and rushed on and on, and brought him nearer and nearer to Boston, there associated with this anxiety another, that he might be prevented from seeing her once more.

Oh, what a trip! At every station in Massachusetts where the train stopped he timidly and cautiously looked out of the car window, to see whether the Weasel, the feared detective, might not be wandering about and suddenly pounce upon him before he had reached his little Kitty.

On arriving in Boston he slipped into a cab, and ordered the driver to let him alight at a church near his destination. He trembled now with the fear of being recognized and seized, and as often as the cab passed a gaslight he shrank back on his seat.

Unfortunately, in front of the church where he got out, there was also a gas light. He approached it to see the fare, and when, after the payment, he turned around quickly to proceed on his way he almost knocked down a lank man with sharp features, bushy brows and lurking glances.

The burglar murmured an apology and wished to hurry away; but then he saw by the gaslight the face of the other, and a cry of terror escaped from him, for which he the next moment would have liked to tear out his tongue.

The one he had run against was none other than Inspector Casely, the most feared detective of the Boston police force, nicknamed the Weasel.

Had he really not recognized Bathom under his disguise? At all events, he did not seem to mind him, and the unhappy father hastened onward, now only filled with the wish to gain, in the probably worse case, a start of him or his men.

At first he mixed with the passers by, then he stole into a side street; but this meeting had robbed him of what courage and coolness he still possessed, and he soon ran along at full speed, like a hunted deer, till he had left the animated part of the city behind him.

He thought he might now venture to moderate his pace, but just then it seemed to him as if he heard the steps of a pursuer, and again he flew along, until exhaustion compelled him to stop.

With every step that brought him nearer to his object his longing increased, his mortal terror grew; a policeman might spring out of any dark corner and hinder him from seeing his dying child.

He was already close to his sister's house, but he did not dare to approach it without further ceremony. He was certain that Casely had recognized him, and then his men were surely concealed in the neighborhood, in order to throw themselves upon him when he walked up to the entrance.

On the corner of the street which was his goal he stood still and waited till he had convinced himself that not a soul was to be seen anywhere about him.

Now he skilfully climbed the fence of some building lots, hastened over the latter, also cleared several other fences, and so reached over a few yards the rear of the house in which his sister lived.

It was a mad undertaking, for, in spite of the darkness, he must be noticed; but he thought only of getting into the house and to his child before he was arrested.

Trembling, he looked up at the bedroom window. Thank God, it was closed and faintly lighted. Kitty was still alive; for, he reasoned, if his little girl were dead the window would be open and the room dark.

Now the weary man climbed up to the roof of a low, adjoining building, and from there, like a cat, up the gutter-pipe, till he was close to the window.

He threw off beard and wig, which made him unrecognizable, then clasped the gutter-pipe with his knees, and bent the upper part of his body toward the window.

The next moment he had noiselessly pressed in a pane, turned back the catch, and swung himself in the window.

A weak, joyfully excited voice greeted him.

"Daddy, it's daddy!" sounded from the corner, in which a small bed stood. "Ah, at last, at last you've come!"

Poor little Kitty! Many long days and nights she had pined for her father, and even called him in her sleep.

"I knew you would come," she said. "I longed for you so much, daddy!"

And the burglar, who knelt at her bed and saw the happy smile of the child, felt only the bliss of having come at the right time; for he perceived but too distinctly that he had a dying creature before him, and that the feeble light of life might go out at any moment. She looked so wretched, so emaciated, so superterrestrial; not even a shadow was she now of the once rosy little thing.

Just as Fred sprang into the room his sister had been called down to the street door by a violent ringing of the bell, accompanied with an imperious knocking. When she now, returning, saw her brother kneeling at the bedside of the child she was in the utmost consternation.

"Oh, if I hadn't called you here!" she whispered in his ear. "They have just come to search the house for you, and I was so glad I could say, as I believed, that you were not here. But now you must go at once. Go through my room; from there you can escape over the roofs. But make haste, make haste; they are below on the ground floor and only let me come back here because the child is so sick! But do make haste!"

Bathom had risen, but before he had time to answer his excited sister Kitty's weak voice called him back to the bed.

"Daddy, papa!"

"Yes, darling," he said, softly, bending over her. "What do you want, dear?"

"You ain't going away again, daddy?"

"I shall be obliged to, I fear, Kitty, my love!"

"But not yet, daddy, not yet! Oh, I want to see you so much! Not yet—not yet!"

So feeble and expiring was the touchingly beseeching child's voice that the man was compelled to incline his ear close to the pale mouth in order to understand the words.

"No, not yet!" he said, after a pause, and then called his sister to him.

"Try to detain them awhile," he whispered. "Lock yourself in the closet downstairs, in the passage, and decoy them there by a noise; they need some minutes to break it open. I must gain time."

The woman wrung her hands.

"You can't stay, Fred; they will surely come up and catch you! Listen to me—go at once!"

Instead of answering the burglar looked down at the child, who now, as if she guessed the tenor of the soft dialogue, seized her father's big, rough fist and grasped it with both her wasted little hands.

"Quick, go downstairs and do as I told you!" cried the man, hoarsely, and the sister withdrew.

Kitty now spoke no more. Utterly exhausted, with closed eyes, she lay there, the glimmer of blissful repose and contentment in the little white face.

The father began to believe she was already dead, and held his breath to hear if she breathed.

From below the tread of heavy feet penetrated the silent room, then the sound of ringing blows from the breaking of a lock.

Fred had still time to flee over the roofs; the next moment it would be too late. He stooped and kissed the colorless, peaceful face, and wished to draw his hand gently from those of the child, when the latter's lips opened once more.

"Daddy!" came like a breath from the pale mouth, and scarcely perceptible, only for the father.

The little fingers closed like a vise over the burglar's hand. No more thought of flight; for nothing in the world would he have wished to free himself from this fetter.

A few minutes later the policemen entered the room. They had expected a desperate resistance, and were, therefore, not a little surprised when they saw the man kneeling quietly at the bedside of the child.

Irresolute, they stood at the door; the majesty of death inspired them with awe, so that they did not dare disturb the unhappy father and dying child.

Minutes passed. The man still knelt and looked fixedly into the little, calm face.

Suddenly he stood up, pressed a kiss on the child's cold brow, withdrew his now no longer retained hand, and turned to the policemen, among whom he recognized Inspector Casely:

"All in order, Inspector! Here I am—she is dead! I have nothing more to live for!"

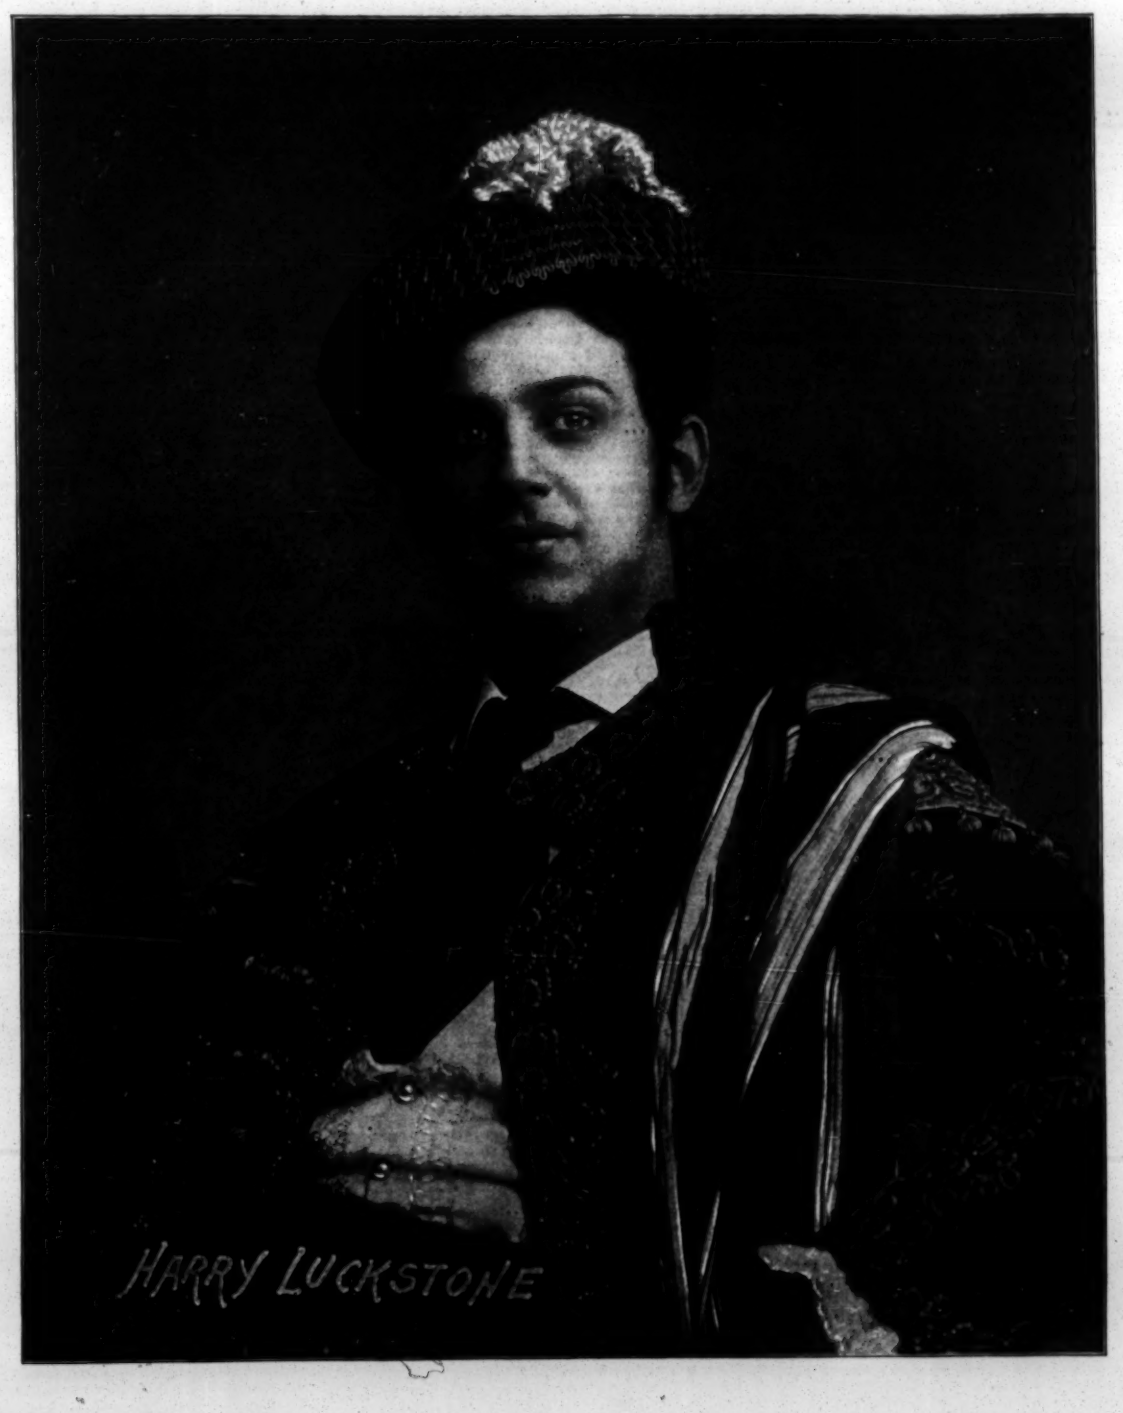
Old Tiger, who lives in Mexico as a wealthy man, reads there The Telegraph. When he read about Fred's arrest and the particulars he began to swear:

"Fool! madman! it served him right!"

But then he added:

"In spite of that all honor to him! He would rather go to prison for twenty years than squeal on an old pal—thinks something of his flesh and blood, Fred's a solid man, every inch of him!"



GLAD, ANYHOW.

"I beg your pardon. I thought this was Mr. Chucksley.

"I am Mr. Chucksley."

"Then I am glad to find that when I thought I was mistaken I was mistaken in thinking I was mistaken."

"Hey?"

"I say when I thought I was mistaken I was mistaken in thinking I was mistaken, and, being mistaken in thinking I was mistaken when I wasn't mistaken, I was glad to find I was mistaken when I thought I was mistaken, because I wasn't mistaken or, rather, I was mistaken when I thought I was mistaken, and so I couldn't have been mistaken—well, at any rate, I am glad. Looks as if we were going to have snow, doesn't it?"—Chicago Tribune.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

LONDON, Eng., April 29.

This has been a busy week for the critics, and a wide variety of new theatrical fare has been placed before the public. The West End productions have been "In the Days of Old," at the St. James; "Change Alley," at the Garrick, and "A Good Time," at the Opera Comique, and tonight will see "Great Cæsar," at the Comedy. The suburbs have seen the initial performances of "The King's Outcast," at the Metropole; "The Merry Go Round," at the Coronet, and "The Man in the Iron Mask," at the Lyric (Hammersmith). There were also two new plays, "Ambition" and "A Jealous Mistake," produced at a matinee at the Globe, April 27, and the new ballet, "A Day Off," was put on at the Alhambra.

ST. JAMES' THEATRE.—"In Days of Old," a romantic drama, in four acts, by Edward Rose, produced 27. The author and his work are harmonious on this occasion, for Mr. Rose's play deals with the "Wars of the Roses." There is a well developed doubt as to whether it will score a box office success, and from a critical point of view it is hailed with sufficiently faint praise to effectually damn it. Pictorially it is very attractive, and there is a wealth of armor, and of "alarums and excursions" and combats, but the human interest is not very great. Mr. Alexander worked like a Trojan as the hero, and Fay Davis was very nice indeed as the heroine, while H. B. Irving, as the desperately wicked villain, acted so like his father, Sir Henry, that the resemblance was at times startling. Julie Opp is well described by one critic as "large and languishing as Lady Eva," and, take it all in all, the performance of this romantic costume show was better than the play deserved.

THE GARRICK THEATRE.—"Change Alley," a comedy, in five acts, by Louis N. Parker and Murray Carson, was produced April 25. I need not go into any details about this play, as it is known on your side, having been exploited without success by E. H. Sothern. It is beautifully staged at the Garrick, but I greatly doubt if it will score much better than it did in the States, and, in fact, so promptly was it "slated" as a mere "panorama" of rather disconnected scenes that the newspapers today announce that "Mr. Brickwell, profiting by the press criticisms on the first performance of 'Change Alley,' has induced the authors to make certain important changes in the play, which will be presented to the public in its new form this evening." If it does not draw Dr. Conan Doyle's play, "Halves," which is doing very well indeed in the provinces under Mr. Brickwell's management, can be brought to town at very short notice. I should say that a feature of the first night of "Change Alley" was the speaking of the prologue by Mrs. Beerbohm Tree, who, as a sort of "chorus" in pink and white draperies, was well described by the admirer who said she looked as sweet as a "strawberry ice."

OF THE OTHER PRODUCTIONS of the week "A Good Time" is well known in the States as "Skipped by the Light of the Moon," and, as the musical and the farcical elements are in good hands (Kitty Loftus is the Mary of the cast), it may succeed on its revival. "The Merry-Go-Round" is on the same plan as "The Seven Ages," in which H. E. Dixey figured some years ago, and "The Man in the Iron Mask" is, of course, a new variation on that well known theme. "The King's Outcast" is "an original play, in four acts, by Gayer Mackay," and was produced 24, at the Metropole, Camberwell. It shows a lot of good work, and not a little promise for so young an aspirant for playwriting honors, Mr. Mackay being a young man who is a clever actor, and he figures in the cast as Captain Haverley. The basis of the play is the escaped convict incident in the opening chapters of Charles Dickens' story, "Great Expectations," and the part of Richard Faulkner (the stage reproduction of the convict of the Dickens' novel) is splendidly played by Charles Cartwright. His crime was that of forgery, and in the course of the play he prevents his son—a scampish young squire—from inducing a friend to forge a check. The convict dies in the end, and the play, which is strong and virile, was very well received.

NOTES.—Sarah Bernhardt's London season will begin June 8, at the Adelphi. "Hamlet" will be one of the novelties, and Mme. Mellot will play Ophelia to Bernhardt's Hamlet.....The case of May Cook, the cornettist, who received a poisonous snake in a box of flowers at Rochester, N. Y., has been cabled here, and has attracted considerable attention. There are numerous instances on record, however, of English actors having seen snakes on opening bottles.....The Prince of Wales has named one of his yearling race horses "Lord Quex," after the hero of Pinero's latest comedy. If it runs as well as the play promises to it will be a stayer.....It is said that Little Tich gets $200 a performance in Paris, and that he frequently appears nine times a week.....Stock Exchange gossip credits half a dozen prominent managers and actor-managers with a desire to "float" themselves as limited liability companies.....The estate of Dunsinane, in Perthshire, Scotland, on which tradition has it that Macbeth killed himself, has been sold for £72,000. .....A London weekly speaks of Nat Goodwin's play, "Nathan Hale," as "a strong domestic drama."....Liane de Pougy, the Parisian demimondaine, who has been in London with the ostensible object of selling a ballet, remarked, in the course of an interview the other day, "I never buy gems or jewelry, but I am ready, as a rule, to accept them as homage." Well, rather.....E. S. Willard has returned to London from the Continent with health restored, but he will not return to the stage until the Autumn. He says he has not decided whether to begin his next season in London or in the United States.....Wilson Barrett is said to contemplate the production of "Pharoah" at the Lyceum in case the new modern play which he has written does not succeed when tried in the provinces. In the former case he wishes to play the part of the crippled dwarf, called "the Bat," in which Franklin McLeay scored such a success in America when a member of Barrett's company. The play has never been given in England.....It is not improbable that Sunday concerts will be given at Covent Garden Opera House in the Autumn, under the auspices of the National Sunday League....William Archer, the dramatic critic, who has been in the United States preparing a series of articles on the theatres for The Pall Mall Magazine, says in the course of a letter that he was told that the difference between English and American life was the absence of the family circle mode of living among the latter. His experience has been that his English informant was quite wrong, and he writes: "It has been my good fortune here in New York to spend an evening in a household which suggested a chapter of Dickens in his tenderest and most idyllic mood. It was the home of an actor and actress. Two daughters, of about eighteen and twenty respectively, are both on the stage, acting in their father's company, but the master of the house is a bright little boy of seven or eight, known as 'the Commodore.' As it happened, the mother of the family was away for the day; yet in the hundred affectionate references made to her by the father and daughters, not to me, but to each other, I read her character and influence more clearly, perhaps, than if she had been present in the flesh. A more simple, natural, unaffectedly beautiful 'interior' no novelist could conceive."....J. C. Williamson, senior partner of the leading Australian theatrical firm of Williamson & Musgrove, whose venture it was to launch "The Belle of New York" in London, has lately been sued for divorce by his wife. Mrs. Williamson is known professionally as Maggie Moore, and she and her husband were both members of the California Theatre Co., in San Francisco, in the early seventies. They were married there in 1873 and went to Australia with a play called "Struck Oil."....It is said that "The Dancing Girl" will succeed "Carnac-Sahib" at Her Majesty's, with Mrs. Brown Potter as Drusilla Ives. It may have a new last act, or it may be played so as to conclude with the third act, as was done at a recent matinee. Mr. Tree's next season is likely to open with a revival of his splendid production of "Julius Cæsar." The difficulty of finding an actress whom he thinks can do justice to the part of Constance is said to be the reason he hesitates over his production of "King John."....Loie Fuller has leased a house at Passey, on the outskirts of Paris, for five years.....George Edwardes has engaged May Buckley, an American actress, for the Chinese comic opera which will follow "A Greek Slave" at Daly's Theatre here, in case Edwardes wins his legal fight with Daly over the possession of the theatre.....In spite of the fabulous success of "Cyrano de Bergerac" in Paris Coquelin is said to have made comparatively little money out of it, as when the play was produced he sold the house for 300 performances, at a fixed sum per performance, to a speculator, and the latter divided the lion's share of the profits with the author.....The Sharkey-McCoy fight is drawing very well at the Aquarium and the pictures are much better worked than at first.....M. Rube, the oldest of French scene painters, is dead, aged eighty-four, and another veteran who has passed away is William Sharp, who in his youth was employed as a dresser by Charles Kean. He died at Edinburg, Scotland, aged eighty-five.....Albert Gilmer has succeeded Harry Lundy as manager of the Oxford Music Hall. He was at one time manager of the Alhambra..... I must again return to the bankruptcy of Oscar Barrett and "correct my correction." He owes more than £15,000 above his assets. His principal losses were £6,500 over three provincial pantomimes, £6,756 over "Cinderella" at the Garrick in 1897-8, and £6,387 over "Dick Whittington" at the Adelphi, 1898-9.....Isaac Cohen still controls both the Pavilion Theatre in the East End and the Crown Theatre at Peckham, although it has been widely published that he has given up the former.....Morris Cronin, the club juggler, who recently returned from the States, has been winning applause at the Alhambra.....Colby and Way, who won a genuine success here and who have gone to South Africa, will be back in London early in August. They are booked to open at three big halls Aug. 7, and say that they have engagements on this side for three years ahead without a break.....The story that a variety theatre would be run in connection with the famous Kennington Road pub., "The Horns," seems to have been a fairy tale..... Alexander has been suffering from laryngitis, brought on by overwork.....A new theatre is projected for Leicester Square, on the side facing the Alhambra. With the new circus nearly completed this will give the Square five important places of amusement, and as two very handsome hotels and cafes have just been completed there the place has become one of the gayest centres in London.....Rose Harvey was thrown from a carriage the other day, but escaped with a shaking that was put right by a week's rest.....Mlle. It is an innocent little paper of the class that thrills Suberbia with household hints for happy honeymooners, and tells young wives how to make piano covers out of second hand garden wheelbarrows, or dispenses other equally useful information of a like nature. Well, Home Chat said that Maud was married, whereat she took umbrage and the result is the following advertisement in The Daily Mail, another of the countless Harmsworth publications: "Miss Maud Jeffries—An apology.—The attention of the proprietors of Home Chat having been called to the erroneous statement made in that journal that Miss Maud Jeffries had been recently married, have agreed to insert an apology for the mistake and for having unintentionally caused Miss Jeffries any annoyance, and they have also agreed, by way of amends to Miss Jeffries, to pay £20 to a charity to be selected by her." American patrons of the drama had therefore better begin to "save up" in case they want to see Madge and Willie next season; there's hardly a doubt that they will refuse any such "concession" in the land of dollars.....The two weeks' Shakespearean Festival at Stratford on Avon, under the auspices of F. R. Benson and his company, has been a decided success, and the all day performance of "Hamlet," given word for word as Shakespeare wrote it, scored a hit with the enthusiasts. The only break in the Shakespearean programme was 27, when "The Rivals" was given. The fortnight ends tonight with "The Merchant of Venice."

MERRITT AND ROZELLA.

Chas. Merritt, the clever eccentric comedian and acrobat, and his wife, professionally known as May Rozella, comedienne and singer, became partners March 17, 1898, and met with instant success in their comedy sketch, entitled "The Village Tormenta." After playing the leading vaudeville houses in the East they joined the Yousouf Vaudeville Co., under the management of W. A. Brady, and this season are meeting with success with the Broadway Burlesquers. At the close of the season they will sail for Europe, combining business with pleasure.

JOSEPH HART,

Of the popular vaudeville firm of Hart and De Mar, who are now finishing another long and successful tour of the Keith circuit, has become as firmly established in favor with latter day variety audiences as when a member of the team of Hallen and Hart he won the good graces of farce comedy devotees. His sketches, "Dr. Chauncey's Visit" and "The Quiet Mr. Gay," are classed among the brightest of current vaudeville interludes, and, while the foundation remains the same, he keeps the interlarded material continually up to date by constant injections of the products of his inventive brain, and the application of his generous gift of ready wit, as well as through a very happy faculty of realizing what variety audiences most admire. Last season he took out the Joseph Hart Specialty Co. for an extended tour of the better class of vaudeville houses, and, besides reaping a generous financial reward, established the attraction in prime favor wherever it appeared. Next season he will continue with an entirely new company, which he is now carefully selecting.

HARRY LUCKSTONE,

Who recently made his first appearance with the Castle Square Opera Company as Escamillo, in "Carmen," has been on the stage since early boyhood, when he toured this country as a member of the Young Apollo Club. His professional debut was made in the production of "Pepita," in which Lillian Russell figured prominently. Then he joined the Harrigan & Hart Company, and after a term with them was engaged by Lawrence Barrett for his production of "Rienzi." Mr. Luckstone was for eight years a member of Hoyt's companies. For the last two seasons he has been a member of "The Bride Elect" company. Mr. Luckstone is a rather striking proof of the fact that Americans may secure in this country a competent musical education. His studies have been entirely under the guidance of local teachers.

They include the entire furnishings of the great house at Whitestone, and are roughly valued at $300,000. Many of the articles to be sold were presented to the magician by the crowned heads of Europe, before whom he performed by request, and are almost priceless. In explanation of her desire to convert the goods into money Mrs. Herrmann said that, while it would be a great trial for her to part with them, she was so little at home that it was impossible for her to look after them. A large part of the furniture has already been stored at the Art Gallery, filling the entire basement and part of the first floor. Among the trinkets is a gold watch given to Herrmann by the Czar of Russia, when the magician was only twelve years old. There is a pair of gold mounted duelling pistols, given to Herrmann by the Sultan of Turkey; two tete-a-tete sets in royal Sevres, the gift of Napoleon III; a watch from the same potentate; another watch from Alfonso XII, of Spain, and another from Dom Pedro, of Brazil; a bronze inkstand from Maximilian, of Mexico; a silver mounted saddle, said to be valued at $2,000, presented to him by a former president of the Argentine Republic; a collection of ivory carvings, seventy-five pieces in all, gathered from China and Japan; a dining room set of carved Italian walnut, said to be worth $15,000; a collection of vases; an extensive list of cameos and Florentine mosaics; a collection of coins, embracing currency from every country in the world, and many ancient coins of great value.

[Special Dispatches to THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—A cool night helped the theatres a great deal, and gave the week an encouraging opening, though it is hardly to be expected that this will last throughout the week, deserving as some of the attractions are. The first local production of "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush" took place at the Broad last night, and was very well received by an audience of good dimension. J. H. Stoddart and others in the cast deserve praise for the excellent performance. Little Ruby played the child well at two hours' notice, taking the place of Gertie Robinson, who was ill.....Well filled houses were accorded the continued attractions, "Way Down East" at the Chestnut Street Theatre, "Mme. Fin" at the Opera House, and "In Gay Paree" at the Walnut.....Paul Gilmore and company appeared in "The Musketeers," at the National, and gave a splendid performance, which was thoroughly appreciated by a large audience....."Jane Eyre" was successfully produced at Forepaugh's, and good attendance resulted both in the afternoon and evening.....The stock company at the Girard did effective work in "Virginius," and did not fail of appreciation from an audience which filled the house.....The performance of "Our Strategists," at the Standard, was well attended.....A completely filled house at Keith's was delighted with the excellent vaudeville performance..... There were crowds on every floor at the Museum yesterday and many interesting features served to entertain the people.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Threatening weather cut into some extent on the business at the start of the week, but several of the houses managed to pack the seats in spite of adverse conditions. Sunday night was good, but Monday was rather light..... At the Grand Otis Skinner opened with "Rosemary," to a good house. Mr. Skinner proved himself well adapted to the part, and the pretty comedy was well received on this its second Chicago presentation. Gretchen Lyons and the rest of the company took well.....William H. West's Minstrels opened at McVicker's, to splendid business, and the show kept the audience warmed up, especially during the first part. Carroll Johnson, Richard J. Minnie Palmer and Co headed the bill at the Chicago Opera House and Haymarket, and Jennie Satterlee and company topped the bill at the Olympic.....Sam T. Jack's was filled by the Chow Chow Company.....The Great Northern does not open with the Ward & Vokes Burlesque Co. until Tuesday night, but there are indications of a good first night.....Ezra Kendall has filed a suit for $10,000 against William H West for breach of contract. He alleges that Mr West discharged him in breach of a season's contract for the reason that he would not appear in the minstrel show in black face.

BOSTON, May 16.—The week's business opened remarkably fine here yesterday afternoon and evening. At the Boston Theatre Julia Arthur had a magnificent house, and her Juliet, in "Romeo and Juliet," received warm commendation from the cultured audience present. Miss Arthur's innovation in her change of the balcony from one side of the stage to the direct centre, where the entire audience can witness the moonlight love act, met with the hearty approval of all in the house.....E. H. Sothern, in "A Colonial Girl," at the Hollis Street Theatre, was also greeted by a splendid gathering of his admirers, and the play found firm favor at once..... Viola Allen, as usual, received an enthusiastic reception in "The Christian" at the Boston Museum, and Willie Collier, in "Mr. Smooth," at the Park Theatre, made fun galore and was accorded a reception which must convince him that he holds a warm place in the hearts of Bostonians.....At the Tremont Theatre "Prince Pro Tem" is in its prime, running a fine business, and was seen last night to a beautiful house.....At the Grand Opera House "Alone in London" was seen by an audience that well filled the great house, and at the Castle Square Theatre "A Temperance Town" drew good patronage, afternoon and evening....."Ten Nights in a Barroom" attracted to the Bowdoin Square Theatre fair business and many old timers..... MILWAUKEE, May 16.—First class attractions brought out theatregoers in large numbers Sunday. Jacob Litt's magnificent melodrama production, "Sporting Life," opened to the largest house in the history of the Davidson Theatre, and, judging from the advance sale, it will break the record of this house for a week's engagement. The Londrous scenes, especially the prize fight, were received with a great deal of enthusiasm..... At the Alhambra all doubts as to the popularity of the old Salisbury Stock Co. were removed Sunday, when some of the former favorites opened at this house in a skit called "Sally's Sacrifice." Miss Aigen, Francis Byrne, John Daly, Murphy and Richard Baker received a most enthusiastic reception. Robert Downing, supported by Freda Gallick, brought down the house again and again by an artistic performance of the flower scene from "Ingomar," and in a comedy sketch, "Paris, 1793."..... At the Academy the Thanhouser-Hatch Stock Co. offered to its patrons a very pleasing play in "The Runaway Wife." It was received with great favor by a larger house than is usually out for Monday night. The close of the "Butterflies" Sunday was attended by two audiences that packed this popular theatre.....At the Bijou "Uncle Tom's Cabin" gave a proof of its still being able to draw by playing two large audiences Sunday. ST. LOUIS, May 16.—Only two of the downtown houses opened Sunday and only two of the Summer gardens. At the Columbia the vaudeville bill is clever and the opening houses were good. It is the closing week for the house. Among the features are Lizzie and Vinie Daly, Melville and Stetson, and the Pantzer Brothers.....The Olympic, which closed its season two weeks ago, opened Sunday for a few days with performances of standard plays by Lawrence Hanley and a capable support. The offerings are for the benefit of different city institutions. In the cast are: Nellette Reed, Edmund D. Lyons and Hugh Ford.....The Suburban Garden opened its Summer season May 14 with a big crowd. The vaudeville bill proved entirely satisfactory and the work of Manager Gumpertz in covering the reserved seats with a big roof makes the Suburban one of the best of the many Summer theatres here. In the opening bill are Laura Joyce Bell, Morrisey and Cameron, Charley Case, Zeno, Carl and Zelo, and Carroll, Mayer and Carroll.....At Forest Park Highlands another jam celebrated the opening of hot weather entertainments. This week's receipts are for the benefit of the Police Relief Fund. Among the best features are: The Metweep Troupe, Lew Hawkins, McAvoy and May, and the Three Mortons.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The first production in English of Henri Meilhac's French comedy, "Ma Cousine," with Mme. Pilar Morin in the principal role, which was to have occurred last night at Rapley's National Theatre, was postponed in order to give the company another rehearsal, and it is announced that it will be produced tonight..... Circus opened a two days' engagement Monday afternoon, to a packed canvas, and turned people away at night. The show is immense and gave great satisfaction.

NEBRASKA.

Omaha.—At Boyd's Theatre Richard Mansfield, in "Cyrano de Bergerac," comes May 23. "The Turtle" was presented 7, to large audiences, matinee and night.

THE ORPHEUM.—The past week the strongest and most uniform bill that has been presented this season was given, and the attendance was enormous the entire week. The leading feature of the bill was Felix Morris, who presented "The Vagabond" the first half and "Percy Pendragon" the latter part of the week. Barnes and Sisson, in their sketch, "The Matrimonial Broker," came in for more laughter and applause than any other act. The acrobatic and balancing work of the Pantzer Bros. was well liked. Hanley and Jarvis do an up to date singing and talking act that was well received. The rest of the bill was uniformally good. The bill for the coming week includes: Billy Clifford and Maud Huth, La Monts, Three Sisters Franklin, Fred Niblo, Florrie West, Bronson and Lewis, Frances McMillen and Margaret Stephen.

TROCADERO.—This house will open 14 with the following: John C. Fox and Katie Allen in the sketch, "The Flat Next Door;" Haynes and Haynes, operatic duo; Mr. and Mrs. Hughes in a society sketch; the Jolly Tar Trio, Ben Mowat and Son, club jugglers; and Gould, Westley, Gould and Veneta, the big little four. The orchestra and band will be made a prominent feature. Manager Cole has secured some fine musicians, among them three formerly with Sousa's band.

Lincoln.—At the Oliver Theatre the May Festival was given May 1, to a good house. The features of the evening were the playing of Bruno Steindl, 'cellist; Minnie Fish-Griffin, soprano, and Helen Stone, harpist. Mr. Schuacker was engaged as harpist, but owing to illness was unable to appear. Hagenow's Band and Orchestra gave a concert 4, to a packed house. The stars of the evening were H. P. Wells, clarionet soloist, and Earl Wayne, cornettist. Kelcey and Shannon, in "The Moth and the Flame," came 6, to excellent business. Richard Mansfield will present "Cyrano de Bergerac" 22, and the Bostonians will close the regular season at this house 24.

FUNKE.—This house was dark the week of 1, and week of 8 the Klimt-Hearn Co. held the boards, turning people away nightly. This company is by all odds the most successful repertory company that has appeared here this season. This house closed its regular season 13.

NOTES.—Manager F. C. Zehrung, of the Oliver and Funke, and L. M. Crawford, of the Crawford circuit, have leased Lincoln Park and will give daily concerts by Hagenow's Band and put on from time to time during the Summer repertory shows and light operas in the theatre. This will give Messrs. Zehrung & Crawford entire control of the amusement places of this city. Lincoln Park is, from its natural advantages, one of the finest Summer resorts in this State, and until last year was very popular, and under the present management the park will undoubtedly regain its old popularity.

Fremont.—At the Love "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" did fair business April 28. Vernon came to poor business May 1 and week. Coming: Katie Emmet 12, "The Moth and the Flame" 22, "Glimpses of a Great City" 25.

MARYLAND.

Baltimore.—As the suburban resorts come to the front for the Summer the theatres put up their shutters. Holliday Street Theatre and the Auditorium Music Hall closed their doors May 13, after a season of prosperity in each instance, leaving but two of the leading places of amusement open—the Lyceum, which will close this week, and the Monumental. "Incog" is the final attraction of the former, opening to fair attendance 15. "Sweet Lavender" drew well 8-13.

KERNAN'S MONUMENTAL THEATRE.—The Big Sensation Double Show came to a well filled house 15. Rose Sydell's London Belles did an excellent business all week ending 13. Next week, the Broadway Burlesquers.

ODEON THEATRE.—Engelhart and Rose, Etta Barnes, Melrose and Elmer, and Milt. C. Irwin are new 15 and week.

CLOUGH'S NICKELODEON.—New 15: Melrose and Laverne, Leroy, Jennie Hart, Leslie and Wayne, and Miss Stanley.

NOTES.—A Peace Jubilee and Trade Carnival will be held at Electric Park 22, 27, with Pawnee Bill's Wild West as a special feature.....Bollywood Park, Manager James L. Kernan's new resort at Back River, opened for the Summer season 15, with a fine concert and a good crowd.

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul.—At the Metropolitan Opera House Clara Thropp, in "A Doll's House" and "A Trued's Spouse," had only fair business May 7, 8. "The Turtle" had only fair business 9, 10. Olga Nethersole and her company played to immense business 11-15, presenting "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," "Camille" and "The Profligate." It is safe to say that no actress has been here this season who has created a greater sensation by her acting than Miss Nethersole. Her support also came in for a share of popular approval. Mme. Teresa Carreno gave a piano recital matinee 12, to a good sized audience of our musical people. Dan Godfrey's band 14. Due: Primrose & Dockstader's Minstrels 18-21, "Sporting Life" 22-25. The Neill Stock Co. begins a Summer season of several weeks June 5.

GRAND was dark all of last week except May 7, when the Minnesota State Band gave a concert. For week of 14 True S. James and his company will appear, presenting "The Royal Prisoner" the first half of the week, and the last half "Don Cæsar De Bazan." Week of 21, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." John L. Sullivan Combination comes 28, for one week, and the house will close its season June 3.

PALM GARDEN.—Business has been very good week of May 8. For week of 15: Kehoe and Rainer, Bessie Louise King, Meyers and Mason, Annie Goldie, the Cerita Sisters, Sam Green, Ed. Mahoney and John Merrell.

Minneapolis.—At the Metropolitan Opera House Primrose & Dockstader's Minstrels opened May 14, for four nights. The rest of the week is dark. On 22 "Sporting Life" will begin a week's engagement, and Richard Mansfield is underlined to follow. Olga Nethersole played to immense houses 8-10, and "The Turtle" was seen by small audiences 11-13.

BIJOU OPERA HOUSE.—The "Too Much Money" Co. ended its engagement, which was extended one day, 14, to fair business. The house is dark 15-20, when "Uncle Tom's Cabin" makes its annual visit.

HOBNER'S PALACE MUSEUM.—For 15 and week, in curio hall: Guyer, equilibrist; Tote Guyer, on the running globe; Harry Fralick, acrobat; Alberti, juggler. In the theatres: May Evans, Frankie Primrose, Swain and Newman, Blanche Murch, Will H. Bruno, and Clemens and Clemens. Business good.

THE NEW HARMONIA THEATRE.—This is a new candidate for public patronage, under the guidance of Messrs. Saunders & Colborn, lessees and managers. It promises to receive it full share of shekels from those seeking entertainment. The house opened May 1, in the Harmonia Hall building, with no red fire or flare of trumpets, but jumped at once into favor. The attractions are of the vaudeville character, but of the high class, and the management caters particularly to lady audiences. For 15 and week are billed the Malcoms, Rose Winchester, Ledeyar and Varnum, Chas. Chester, the Burgetts, Alma Rutherford, Lillian Merrill, Mamie Norris, Nellie Tuson and Geo. Clark. Business good.

Duluth.—The Lyceum was dark last week until May 13, when Primrose & Dockstader's Minstrels gave two performances, matinee and night. Otis Skinner, in "Rosemary," had a fine audience 6. The Boston Lyric Opera Co. comes 15, for one week, with a change of bill.

THE CLARA MATHER CO., at Turner Hall, closed 13. Business was fairly good. The bill was changed nightly.....John A. Shean, the second advance of Primrose & Dockstader, was here this week.....Chas. Harkinson, business manager for the Boston Lyric Opera Co., was also here, preparing for the coming of his company.

PARLOR THEATRE.—Business is big. People are: Dave and Myrtle Lee, knife and battle axe throwers; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hoffman, operatic duo; Sanford and Darlington, sketch team; Ella Hewett, vocalist; Coyne Bros., comedians; Mayne Smith, Gladys Hamilton and Wm. J. Wells, Fred Pezley and the stock. The new farce for the week is called "An Easy Snap." Manager Wells is figuring on a season of burlesque, amazonian marches, living pictures, etc., at his house this Summer.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Wheeling.—The theatrical season of 1898-99 has come to a close at both the local theatres, and the amusement lovers are turning to outdoor attractions, which so far are scarce. The first billed is the Waite Opera Co., which comes to Wheeling Park May 22-27.....The local Elks are making great preparations for their first street fair, June 26-July 1, and the indications are that it will be one of the greatest events in the history of the city.....Wallace's Circus came May 9, and, despite the fact that the electric railway is tied up owing to a strike, the tents were crowded afternoon and night. The show gave the best of satisfaction.

NOTES FROM RENN'S BIG SPECIALTY CO.—If the old saying that a bad beginning makes a good ending proves true of this show we may look forward to a prosperous season. We were billed to open the tenting season at Claflin, Kan., May 1, with a 70ft. round top, with two 30ft. middle pieces, one 14x16 cook tent, and nine 10x12 sleeping tents. Scarcely had the white tents been spread when the big top had to be lowered, as a terrific wind storm arose. For three consecutive days it blew without ceasing, and we were obliged to cancel our first town. Our next stand was Hollyrood, Kan., where we got in one show, to fair business. Again the gentle zephyrs of Kansas began to blow about 4.30 o'clock P. M. on May 5. The sky became shrouded in sombre robes, and the dust blew in such volumes that one could scarcely see his hand before his face. An order to lower the top was quickly responded to, but in vain, as a hurricane swept across the lot, taking everything before it. The tents, seats, jacks and stringers were piled up in one confused mass of chaos. Some of the people were badly shaken up, but no one seriously hurt. The next two days were spent sewing canvas and making new side poles. Everything being in order again, we moved to Fredericks, where we did a S. R. O. business for three nights. Notwithstanding bad weather and accidents the ghost made his appearance at the proper time, and everybody is well and happy. Five of THE OLD RELIABLES reach us every Monday.

PROF. GENTRY'S DOG AND PONY SHOWS, No. 3.—We are now in our tenth week of the present season. All the principal cities in nine Southern States have been visited, and thus far the show has been successful in every way. Several visitors have been entertained by us during the past few weeks. Mrs. R. J. Blake and little daughter, Bernadine, spent a pleasant week visiting Prof. Blake, at the expiration of which time she went to Cincinnati to await the arrival of the show, when the Professor anticipates the pleasure of another week's visit with his family. The wife of Prof. D'Alma spent last Sunday with him, and is also in Cincinnati awaiting his coming next week. H. B. Gentry, of the No. 4 Show, and J. W. Gentry, of the No. 1 Show, spent a day with Manager Taylor Coons at Lexington, Ky., last week. Our general agent, Dan Robinson, was back also the same day, and all expressed satisfaction at the smooth manner in which everything is running. During our tour of the "Blue Grass Region" of Kentucky our press agent, J. W. Gillingwater, interested himself during his spare time looking up his family history, and was entertained by several of the most prominent "blue grass" families, whose relationship with him dates back several generations. At Winchester he had the pleasure of seeing a portrait of his great great grandmother and grandfather, which is the only likeness of them in existence. When we cross the Ohio River at Cincinnati our Southern tour will have ended, and we enter upon what we hope to be an equally successful tour of the North. The entire Summer will be spent in the Eastern and New England States, and we return South again late in the Fall. W. A. Lindsey has been busy for some time past breaking several dogs and monkeys for new and difficult acts, which will, when the required state of perfection has been reached, be added to our already novel and interesting performance.

PAWNEE BILL'S WILD WEST had a lively experience with students of Princeton (N. J.) University, May 15. When the parade was returning to the grounds the students lined up across the street and began throwing giant firecrackers among the horses ridden by the Indians and cowboys, following this up with the throwing of eggs and vegetables, and showmen and students were soon mixed in a promiscuous encounter, during which several combatants on both sides were more or less injured. The recklessness of the students in throwing the firecrackers among the horses was especially deplorable, because the safety of several lady members of the company was endangered. The performance was given without interruption, because the president of the University took a hand in affairs, and forbade the collegians to attend. Many students were in the audience, however, but made no boisterous demonstration.

NOTES FROM THE CUMMINGS & SUTTON 10 AND 20 Cent Tent Show.—Business around Winter quarters is at its height and everything looks bright for a prosperous season. We start out May 29, opening in Torrington, Ct. Shall play three days and week stands, carry twenty-five people and a uniformed band and orchestra, which we shall feature. Our concert will consist of comedy dramas, running forty-five minutes. Fred Mortimer has been engaged to look after the stage and produce the concerts. Roster: Mortimer and Darrell, Klein and Clifton, Wesley and Krugg, Billy Hollowell, Darinello, Sara, the human fly; Prof. Gillchrist's uniformed band and orchestra of ten men.

COYLE & RUTHERFORD'S New York Museum opens the season at Chillicothe, O., May 29 (the opening of the Elks' Street Fair) for one week.

FRANK B. HUBIN writes: "I have secured a large space on a principal thoroughfare in Atlantic City, N. J., and will have a genuine Gypsy Encampment and Village there this Summer."

WM. T. HARRINGTON closed his Great American Glass Blowers at Brooklyn, N. Y., May 6, after a season of forty-four weeks, and is now at North Beach, S. I., with his privileges and attractions, and has engaged Geo. A. Florida as general manager.

NOTES FROM THE WALLACE GLASS BLOWERS.—We are now on the upper Mississippi River. We have been out since April 1, doing a very nice business. The company consists of six people. The front we put up is new Wolf banners and is very attractive. The people are: W. F. Wallace, owner and manager; Robt. Howell, E. Keeney and Prof. Wallace, glass blowers; Kate Bell, palmist; Henderson, banjo comedian. Punch and Judy and magician; Otto Gardner, lecturer and front door. Our menagerie of large snakes, monkeys, vampires, grave robbers and living dragons, when lined up are very interesting. Mr. Wallace gives daily concerts with his electric organ. Before another issue of THE CLIPPER we will be traveling and living in our own car.

NOTES FROM THE KENNEDY BROS.' BIG 10 AND 20 CENT SHOW.—We opened April 27, at Colfax, Ill., and everything has been running smoothly. We have had fine weather and good roads, and the show has proved itself to be a satisfactory winner, as the tent is being packed to the door. We give one performance each day and make mostly one night stands. We travel by wagon and will go North into Wisconsin. We carry ten head of baggage stock and twelve people all told. Everybody is well and happy and THE OLD RELIABLE is a welcome visitor.

THE COLUMBUS (O.) STREET FAIR AND TRADES CARNIVAL, under the auspices of Columbus Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, promises to be an interesting affair. The executive committee, of which Al. G. Field is chairman, has arranged an attractive programme, the events to begin July 3 and continue until July 8. Special days are assigned to the press, national trades' displays, the children, Ohio, live stock and the railroad men, and many interesting features are promised. Bostock's Ye Olde Time Faire, Hagenback's Trained Animal Show, Chiquita, Millie Christine and a host of special features will be displayed in the midway plaisance, and the street parade and carnival promise an abundance of entertainment.

H. L. BUSH, orator, is no longer connected with the Parker Sen Sen Dancing Girl Show. He has been engaged to make openings for the Sie Hassan Ben Ali Company, opening at Chillicothe, O., May 29.

E. A. HARRINGTON'S VAUDEVILLE CIRCUS will open at Princeton, Ind., June 1. Our top will be a 60ft. top, with two 30ft. middle pieces. Will have a band of two pieces. We will play three night and week stands; travel by rail through Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky under the management of E. A. Harrington.

WILL H. BARNES, of Sioux City, Ia., suffered the loss by drowning of his trained elk Ring, at Fair View Park, Dayton, O., May 13, where the team was giving exhibitions of high diving. The elk became entangled in its harness and was drowned before it could be released.

THE PROF. H. N. HOLWAY'S WATER SHOW AND FIREWORKS Co. has just ended an engagement in Dayton, O., and will play in Canton, O., week of May 15. Prof. Holway has equipped the show with entirely new properties, etc., and the season is almost all booked.

NOTES FROM THE LEHR & WILLIAMS COMEDY CO.—We arrived in Knoxville, Tenn., on May 8, in our own special cars, taking a rest until 15, on which day we will open Chilhowee Park Theatre for the Summer season. Until about three months ago Chilhowee Park was a vast wilderness, and now, through the unceasing efforts of the present park manager, James W. Kean, it has become a "thing of beauty and a joy forever" to the citizens of Knoxville, who are justly proud of their new jewel. Roster: Billy Lehr, manager; Thos. Williams, advance; J. C. NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

NOTES FROM CAPT. W. D. AMENT'S VAUDEVILLE Circus.—We are once more back in our old territory, Illinois. We played Centralia, the first town on our old route, last week, and the warm reception we received made everybody in the company feel that we were home among old friends. The people turned out en masse, and the immense business and pleasant weather brought many pleasant smiles to the manager. On our closing night in Centralia we were obliged to turn hundreds of people away unable to even get standing room, while 1600 people inside kept things pretty warm. It was a good natured crowd that seemed to appreciate every effort of the performers to entertain them. Capt. Ament is having a new 80ft. top made, with three 30ft. middle pieces, to accommodate his increasing patronage. Beahan and Deaken, who joined lately, are making good in their comedy musical sketches, while the little Beahan children, in their songs and buck dancing, never fail to delight the ladies and children. Billy Casad, in his challenge trombone solos, sets the town musicians wild with delight. Joe Casad, our comedian, becomes more popular at every performance. Prof. Rutchfield and his marine band have introduced a new fancy drill upon the public square, which never fails to elicit enthusiasm. We are giving but two matinees a week now, which gives the members plenty of time for recreation and pleasure, which they are not slow to take advantage of.

BEACH & BOWERS' MINSTRELS will close its season of thirty-six weeks at Sioux Falls, S. D. This has been one of the most prosperous seasons it has ever had. DAN. A. ANDERSON, of the team of Hughes and Anderson, has written to THE CLIPPER denying the statement made by our Fall River, Mass., correspondent that he was recently married, on the stage of Rich's Theatre, to Dollie Le Claire. Inquiry discloses that the marriage was advertised to take place, and Mr. Hughes, of Hughes and Anderson, also took special pains to inform our correspondent that the marriage would take place. For some reason the affair did not transpire as announced, and as our correspondent did not remain in the theatre to witness the entire performance on the evening the wedding was advertised to occur, he made the natural error of announcing what he had every reason to believe was a fact.

Manager Higgins has not had a minstrel co. booked at his house since early in season of 1898, and as the town has been crying a long time for a 'burnt cork' company, something that always draws big here, we can look for a good reception. We have just finished the first week through Connecticut of our Summer season, and if our business continues as it has turned out the first week it will certainly prove a big winner. Our street parade is quite a feature. In two more weeks we shall be in Maine, where the name of Tommy Donnelly is known to almost every inhabitant in that State."

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia.—The theatres still open continue to do a satisfactory business for the time of year, though the attendance continues to grow less as the weather becomes warmer and the attractiveness of outdoors takes a firmer hold on the people. One more theatre was added to the retired list on Saturday night. The local public is given its first view of "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush" this week, and for this novelty we are indebted to the untimely end of "Captain Kidd."

BROAD STREET THEATRE.—The very short career of "Captain Kidd" left a gap in the bookings for this house, and the management is fortunate in securing "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush" for the time which must expire before the engagement of Olga Nethersole. The production is under the direction of Kirke Lashelle and Fred. M. Ranken, and the cast is headed by J. H. Stoddard, who has capable support. This is the first local production. Last week was filled in by the production of "Alice in Wonderland," W. De Wagstaff's four act dramatization of Lewis Carroll's world famous story. This work had been previously presented at Carnegie Lyceum, New York City, at which place on April 10, last, it received its initial production. It was originally intended to present it at a few matinees at the Opera House, and in justice it must be said that the piece is mainly intended for children and therefore too much could not be expected of it. Under the circumstances a very fair business was done, and the production proved its worthiness in its special sphere. The young folks were delighted with the performances and Little Ruby, Clifford Leigh, Leslie Fancourt, Anna Sargent and the others in the cast, who did their work well. Next attaction, Olga Nethersole, opening Monday, May 29.

CHESTNUT STREET OPERA HOUSE.—"Mlle. Fifi" has met with success at this house. The attraction opened 8, and did a rousing business throughout the week. The same attraction is continued during the coming week. Next week, the first local production of "The Cuckoo," an adaptation from the French, presented by Charles Frohman's company. Monday, 29, Maude Adams, in "Romeo and Juliet."

CHESTNUT STREET THEATRE.—This week is the fifth of the current engagement of "'Way Down East," and it is announced as its last. Business was fairly good last week. The house will close for the Summer with the end of the current engagement.

WALNUT STREET THEATRE.—Audiences of good size attended the performances of "In Gay Paree" last week, and it is continued this week, which ends the engagement and the season for the house.

PARK THEATRE.—Creston Clarke and Adelaide Prince closed their long engagement on last Saturday evening, and are deserving of credit for their serious and effective work. The two plays presented last week, "The Ragged Cavalier" and "The Bells," were both well attended, and the engagement, taken as a whole, was very successful, probably the most profitable Creston Clarke has played here. The house is now closed for the Summer.

NATIONAL THEATRE.—For this week, which is the last of the season at this house, Paul Gilmore holds the boards, presenting "The Musketeers." "Gettysburg" was given stirring performances last week, and the audiences, which were of fairly good size, were not lacking in appreciation.

FOREPAUGH'S THEATRE.—During the current week the stock company, headed by George Learock and Carrie Radcliffe, presents "Jane Eyre." Commendable work was done in "The Little Detective" last week. Carrie Radcliffe had a part eminently suited to her abilities and she made the most of her opportunities, and the other members of the company did not fail of grasping the situations and developing them to the full. Audiences of good size were attracted. Next week, the stock, in "Don Cæsar de Bazan." Week of 29 is the last of the season and a special bill is being arranged.

GIRARD AVENUE THEATRE.—The stock company is this week appearing in "Virginius," with Walter Edwards in the title role. It is announced that the production is made from the prompt book of John McCullough. "The Sporting Duchess" was revived last week, and the revival was in every way equal to the former production. It proved to be a good card to the patrons, for they crowded the house and were liberal with applause. Next week, which ends the season, will bring a revival of "Carmen."

STANDARD THEATRE.—The stock company is engaged this week in a production of "Our Strategists." "The Arabian Nights" and the curtain raiser, "Sunset," were capably played last week and attracted audiences of fair size. The company as organized for the Summer includes W. C. Holden, Walter Horton, George T. Welch, Walter Stull, Ethel Hertslet, Marion Watts, Edith Ward, Jessie West, Emma Bell, Chas. D. Pitt and Fred Mackley. David Traitel, who has been on the road with Jermon's Black Crook Burlesquers, has returned to this house and is now in charge.

KEITH'S.—Joseph Hart and Carrie De Mar, in "The Quiet Mr. Gay," are at the top of the list this week, and the rest of a very interesting programme includes Helene Mora, A. O. Duncan, Six Sennetts, John Kernell, Brown, Harrison and Brown, Brothers Satour, Barton and Ashley, Hedrix and Prescott, King and Grey, Raymond and Clark, Coulson Sisters, Earl and Wilson, Ed Leonard, the biograph and the stereopticon.

AUDITORIUM.—Manager Gilmore announces that through a mistake he booked Gotthold's Gigantic Gathering of Specially Selected Celebrities and James Thornton's Elite Vaudeville Co. both for the same week, and by an amicable arrangement both companies will play this week in conjunction. The performance, which will begin at 7.45 each night, is as follows: LaFafalla, Delan and Lenharr, Gilbert and Goldie, Bogart and O'Brien, Kingsley Sisters, Edna Collins, Perry and Hylands, James Thornton, Bonnie Thornton, Eckert and Berg, the Wilson Family, Kelly and Banc, Blanche Ring, and Terry and Lambert. Good attendance was bestowed on the vaudeville bill last week. The acts were all good, but the production of "Her Last Rehearsal," by Frederick Bond and company, was especially clever. Next week, special vaudeville bill.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—The Bon Ton Burlesquers provide the current amusement at this house. Business was fairly good last week, and the burlesques presented and the olio were well received by the patrons.

TROCADERO.—Rose Sydell's London Belles provide the current week's entertainment, presenting "The Widow Wynne's Reception" and "Behind the Scenes" as the two burlesques, and an olio headed by Karina, the French dancer. The Gay Morning Glories returned last week, and were welcomed by the patrons, who kept the house well filled. Next week, the Monte Carlo Girls.

NINTH AND ARCH MUSEUM.—Herr Dohlen, Mons. Morella and the Georgia Minstrels continue in the curio hall this week, and a new feature is Swain's animal circus. In the theatre the farce comedy, "A Wild Goose Chase," is presented by a company headed by Larry Tooley, and the vaudeville is contributed by Mike Needham, Celeste and Bayliss, Gilbert Sarony, George Brothers, Dilks and Wade, Machett and Morris. Last Summer the public part of this house was fixed up in excellent style, and after the close of the present season, which will probably be the early part of June, the back of the stage and the dressing rooms are to be put in good shape for the coming season, under the personal supervision of Business Manager Hopkins.

He came to this city early last week to be operated on for some slight internal trouble and went to the hospital on Tuesday. The operation was performed on Thursday. He appeared to be doing well, but Saturday morning, when the nurse returned to the room after a short absence, he was dead. An autopsy revealed the cause of death. Richard Mansfield was telegraphed to immediately and Manager Gilmore, corresponding secretary of the Actors' Fund, has taken charge of the remains for burial. Mr. Leighton was born in England, but little of his personal history is known here.....Carrie Radcliffe, leading lady at Forepaugh's, has filed a libel in divorce against her husband, John H. Feeney. The papers were served on Feeney last week, while he was standing on the street. They were married July 1, 1886, at Rockton, Ill., and have one child, a boy. Absolute divorce is asked on statutory grounds.....The following telegram, which may be of interest, was received here last week: "Samuel H. Ashbridge, Mayor: Philadelphia gets the convention of the American Federation of Musicians in June, 1900. Edwin Brinton, Milwaukee, Wis."..... The season of the outdoor parks is rapidly approaching. Willow Grove Park opens Saturday, 27, with the Banda Rossa as the principal attraction. Woodside Park opens on the same day, the music being furnished by Innes' Band, and Kalitz's Band begins the season at Chestnut Hill Park on the same date.....The National Theatre will reopen for the next season about the middle of August, and during the Summer work of renovating and redecorating will be done. Joseph M. Kelly will be the manager.....The cyclorama, "The Battle of Manila," continues to draw large and interested crowds to the Cyclorama Building. .....It is reported that the guarantee fund for the permanent orchestra now amounts to $50,000, one-fifth of the sum the committee proposes to raise. On the part of the committee it is stated that they expect to double the subscriptions during the Summer, and that the first $100,000 will be the hardest to raise, but to an outsider this state of affairs is discouraging.

Pittsburg.—Only three of our theatres—the Bijou, the Grand and the Academy—remain open, though the Alvin is to be lighted up May 15, 16, on the former of which dates Thos. Whitney Surrett's new opera, "Cascabel," will be produced for the first time on any stage, and the following Monday, 22, the Jaxon Opera Co. is to begin a season of Summer opera, which will be continued so long as it proves successful.

Whitney Surette, composer, receives its first production on any stage 15, under the auspices of the Pittsburg Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and will be repeated 16, after which the house will be dark till 22, when the Jaxon Opera Co. begins an indefinite season.

Altoona.—Walter L. Main's Circus did good business May 8, notwithstanding the very disagreeable weather the show had to contend with. It rained hard nearly all day, and mud reigned supreme in the vicinity of the show grounds.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Washington.—Unusually hot weather during a portion of last week interfered somewhat with business at our playhouses, but on those evenings when the temperature was tolerable the attendance was fully equal to the merit of the attractions offered. The Academy closed its season May 13, making the third of our houses to give up. The National will be open but two weeks longer, except for a special one night for Maude Adams, in "Romeo and Juliet," June 1. The Frawley Stock, at the Columbia, continues with us till June 10. Kernan's closes on the same date, and the Bijou about the same time. The Lafayette and the Grand Opera House are already closed, so that within a month we will be without urban theatrical amusement.

RAPLEY'S NATIONAL THEATRE.—This week, Mlle. Pilar-Morin, in the first presentation in English and in America of Henri Meilhac's comedy, "Ma Cousine" (my cousin). Last week Milton Lackaye, in "Charles O'Malley," played to good business and the best of satisfaction. GOSSIP.—Larry Lund leaves this week for Mt. Clemens, Mich., accompanied by Wm. Le Campt, where he assumes charge of a Summer garden.

OHIO.

Cincinnati.—Porkopolitans are between the seasons. The theatrical doors are closed and the dramatic feast is over. Not one house remains open. May is proving as capricious as April is wont to be, and the managers of the Summer amusements find in the cool nights now prevalent small incentive for an early campaign for the nimble dollars of the seekers after pleasure.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—The season, or rather supplementary season, ended May 13, and the Forest Company had little complaint to make about the reception given "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Harry West was Uncle Tom, and a new generation wept over little Sadie Glick's Eva, laughed at Maud Burtch's Topsy, and felt their juvenile hearts rebel against the persecutors of the venerable black Tom.

WALNUT STREET THEATRE.—Among the German-American element the presentation of "The Queen of Liars" ranked as the dramatic event of the year. Just one performance of the play was given and $600 was netted for the Free Kindergartens. Bertha Fiebach-Markbreit played the role made famous by Mrs. Fiske, and she was fairly smothered in floral tributes at the close of the second act.

PIKE OPERA HOUSE.—The doors will open 15, when Sauer will be heard in one recital.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—The second of the series of post-season benefits is booked to take place 14, when Nina Diva, Bessie Lamb, Kopp and Brand, Ida Reynolds and Frankie Bernard will appear in the bill presented by the employes.

CHESTER PARK.—The vaudeville theatre will open 28, and the bill includes Harry Howard's Equine Wonders, Craig Family, Robetta and Doretta, Julian Rose and Newhouse and Woodworth. The opera season commences July 2, with a revival of "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief."

GOSSIP.—There have been no developments in the Neill-Pike.....G. Blake and Danny Robinson, of the Gentry Shows, are in town.....Fred Hutchinson, of the Wild West staff, treasurer of Buffalo Bill's show, is in Cincinnati, and he enjoyed the visit here. Business was great.....E. S. Forrest, of the Fountain Square staff, joins the Coney Island people.....Muriel Merton and his assistants, B. J. Peck and Francis Mac, put on "A Dress Rehearsal" at the recent benefit to George H. Hartford and George Schoettel, at the Fountain Square Theatre, and the sketch made a hit. It is a travesty on the telegraph scene from "Secret Service."....Hortense Holzman, Ruth Scarlett, Therece Abraham, Charles Dotzengail and David D. Abramowitz took part in a recital at Smith and Nixon's Hall 13.....There is some talk that Lizzie Hudson Collier will come to the Pike next season.....Heck's Wonder World has closed for the season.

Cleveland.—Magnificent weather is making all things possible for our Summer amusement caterers, and with the early opening dates in view improvements and changes are rapidly pushed to completion.

OPERA HOUSE.—James O'Neill, supported by a very good company, presented "The Musketeers" to a very excellent patronage week of May 8. Blanche Bates, as Miladi, was very clever. "A Runaway Girl" and May Irwin, in "Kate Kip," divide week 15. The sale of seats has already begun for the single engagement of Maude Adams, in "Romeo and Juliet," and from present indications breathing room will be at a premium.

CLEVELAND THEATRE.—"Lost in New York" was the bill 8-10. Al. W. Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" 15 and week. The bal petite given by Prof. Trostler, dancing master, of this city, assisted by a special company, headed by Mark Murphy, did nicely 11-12.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Another strong bill furnished amusement to the patrons of this house week of 8. Henry Lee, in his character impersonations, was quite the hit. The others on the bill were: The DeForeests, whirlwind dancers; Maud Beal Price, character comedienne and singer; Frencelli and Lewis, operatic duo; Romaine Brothers, acrobats, and Perry and Hughes, musical comedians. For week of 15 the bill headed by Patrice is as follows: Edward Poland and J. F. Whitbeck, in "A New Year's Dream;" Al Wilson, Kelly and Ashby, the Midgleys, Cheridah Simpson, Hanson and Nelson. Business continued extremely good throughout last week.

STAR THEATRE.—An athletic bill of strong proportions was presented by the Roeber-Crane Vaudeville Co. week closing 13. In the olio: Al. Maddox and Florence Beach, in a comedy skit, "The Butcher Boy's Debut;" Mlle. Darlett, John West, John B. Williams, John J. Murray, assisted by the pickaninnie drum major, Jas. M. Brown, in the comedy creation, "A Lively Village;" Lolla Bigger and Minnie Dreher, duetists; the Devauxs, Wills G. and Carrie M., in a musical skit; Mlle. Carolo and Mons. Laurent, in feats of strength. Business throughout the week was very good. Clark Brothers' Royal Burlesquers 15 and week.

EUCLID BEACH PARK.—The fifth season of this beautiful Summer resort will open 27 with many new and attractive features. The bookings of the theatre for this season are far in advance of that of the previous years. The olio for opening week contains the following: Edna Bassett Marshall and her street urchin quartet, Wilson and Lorain, comedy sketch; Ernie Veronee, singer and dancer; Alice Raymond, cornettist, and Snyder and Buckley. The Park has this year the services, as press and excursion agent, George Kerle, recently of The Cleveland Press.

NEW YORK CITY.

Review and Comment.—In spite of the fact that the season is rapidly waning the past week was prolific of interesting events. In fact, its prodigality was without precedent at any similar time, and few weeks during the past season have added more to the record or offered as much to stimulate interest. Foremost, in all respects, upon the list was the appearance of Maude Adams as Juliet, in Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," an event which resulted in a success second to none achieved here during the current season. The public desire to secure places for the first night of this production was so strong that it was deemed expedient to postpone new productions and revivals in other houses until a later date, and consequently two novelties, "His Excellency the Governor" and "We-Uns of Tennessee," were presented upon Tuesday night, which also furnished a revival of "Adonis," while a revival of "Erminie" occurred upon the closing night of the week. Two familiar plays of what may be called the popular sort accepted their Monday night chances, and reaped a liberal reward. With this array of new offerings added to continued attractions, firmly established in favor and still in active demand, the result was a very considerable increase in the volume of business, the distribution of which was sufficiently equitable to satisfy all. The nights were cool and pleasant, and, viewing the crowds upon the streets at theatre time, it was difficult to realize that Summer is so close at hand. Good bills were the rule at the vaudeville houses, and they shared in the general prosperity.....We are in constant receipt of letters in which the writers inform us of their longings to enter the ranks of the profession, and invoke our assistance in the consummation of their desires. These aspirants for histrionic fame have, as a rule, won some local renown, either as reciters or as amateur players, and while their aim is partly to win a larger tribute of admiration, they are by no means indifferent to the pecuniary rewards of a professional career. We have always endeavored to discourage these foolish ones who seek to enter the ranks of a profession which is already overcrowded, and which yields to its members such unequal returns. It is true that from time to time recruits to the profession are necessary to fill the places of those who can no longer simulate youth, or who have dropped from the ranks, stricken by infirmity or death, but for every such vacancy there are many scores of applicants, and, consequently, many who are doomed to disappointment, finding themselves literally ladies and gentlemen in waiting, but indifferently solaced by the honor of being enrolled in a profession in which they have but little chance of that active service upon which their livelihood depends. In all professions or callings the survival of the fittest is the rule, and they who add to natural fitness for any line of work a systematic course of instruction and training are most likely to succeed, a truth which is so self evident that it were folly to state it were it not so frequently lost sight of or ignored. Very often the same mail which is freighted with the eager questionings of sanguine applicants for admission to the ranks bears also the wails of distress of those who were once equally sanguine, but who have learned by bitter experience that theatrical business is thoroughly speculative, that the selection of players to form a company is often in the nature of a lottery, and that salary day is frequently as elusive as is the little joker of the thimble rigger. Two disasters of recent date afford apt illustration. A company closed in this city early in the current week because the attraction failed to draw money enough to pay the first week's salary, and the backer of the enterprise, whatever may have been his intention, or however great may have been his means, failed either to pay salaries due or to convince the members of the company that the necessary funds would be forthcoming. For the unfortunates it was, it is true, but the loss of a week's salary, yet the magnitude of this loss can better be estimated when it is learned that the members of the company rehearsed for five weeks, during which time, by agreement, they were entitled to no salary. The other disaster happened last week, in a neighboring city, where a new production put upon the stage by a well known manager reached complete failure at the end of one week, the brief season of the company closing with salaries unpaid. It is true there are many managers of good financial standing and thoroughly trustworthy, but it is equally true that the overcrowding of the profession forces players and performers to accept engagements from irresponsible parties. .....While speaking of loss of salary we are reminded of the case of an indifferent actor who never earned more than a small salary, and who took the cheerful view that he was better off than his higher salaried brethern, because his risk was less, and in the event of non-payment of salaries his loss would be less severe. This must be the sort of argument employed by the writer of a letter recently received by a well known road manager, and sent to us as a sort of curio. The writer, who says he is of neat appearance and refined, offers his services as advance agent at eight dollars per week and expenses, or twelve dollars per week if he pays the bills. In spite of this modest estimate of the pecuniary value of his services he was not engaged:.....The continued attractions for the week ending May 13 were: "Zaza" at the GARRICK, Julia Marlowe at the KNICKERBOCKER, "The Cuckoo" at WALLACK'S, "Shenandoah" at the BROADWAY, "Because She Loved Him So" at the MADISON SQUARE, "The Arabian Girl and Forty Thieves" at the HERALD SQUARE, "The Man in the Moon" at the NEW YORK, De Wolf Hopper at the FIFTH AVENUE, "The Great Ruby" at DALY'S, "Helter Skelter" at WEBER & FIELDS', and "A Reign of Error" at the VICTORIA.....The one week stands closing May 13 were: "The Police Inspector" at the PEOPLE'S, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the STAR, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the GRAND OPERA HOUSE, "A Runaway Girl" at the HARLEM OPERA HOUSE, and Black Patti's Troubadours at the COLUMBUS.....Variety entertainment was furnished at TONY PASTOR'S, PROCTOR'S, the UNION SQUARE, the PLEASURE PALACE, KOSTER & BIAL'S, the LONDON, the OLYMPIC, HURTIG & SEAMON'S and MINER'S BOWERY and EIGHTH AVENUE.....Maude Adams began on May 8 a fortnight's engagement at the EMPIRE THEATRE, in "Romeo and Juliet." She received a favorable popular verdict that was most enthusiastically rendered, and the consensus of written opinion was overwhelmingly in her favor.....A Female Drummer" began an engagement at the MANHATTAN THEATRE May 8.....At the ACADEMY OF MUSIC, on May 8, a Spring season was begun, with "The King of the Opium Ring" as the attraction.....The production of "His Excellency the Governor" at the LYCEUM THEATRE, of "We-Uns of Tennessee" at the AMERICAN THEATRE, the revival of "Adonis" at the BIJOU THEATRE, and of "Erminie" at the CASINO are mentioned at length elsewhere in this issue.

Lyceum Theatre.—A company under the management of Charles Frohman gave at this house, on May 9, the first presentation in this country of "His Excellency the Governor," described as an original farcical romance, in three acts, by R. Marshall. This work was originally produced on June 11, 1898, at the Court Theatre, London, Eng., where it enjoyed considerable favor. It is, we believe, the first work of its author, or at least the first to secure a production, and it is therefore not surprising that it shows many structural defects, which may, however, justly claim immunity from severe criticism in view of the overflowing measure of entertainment which the play affords. Captain Marshall, as he may rightfully claim to be named, shows in this work such playful fancy and literary skill as to arouse the hope that he may possess himself of further knowledge of form and sequence, in order that he may reap the honors that are within his reach. He is certainly entitled to much credit for his present work, and we have no hesitancy in saying that it is not only the wittiest play of the current season, but of many seasons. The story of the play is enacted in the vestibule of the Government House in the Amandaland Islands in the Indian Ocean. His Excellency and two members of his staff are shown preparing for a visit from a member of the British cabinet, his sister and his daughter. His Excellency notices an abundance of yellow dust in the place, and an explanation is made that this is the pollen of a particular aloe which flowers only once in a hundred years, and that in dying of love the yellow dust of their blossom is blown about and causes an epidemic of love wherever its rests. This statement, and the fact that the two ladies are about to visit the Goverment House, leads to a declaration on the part of His Excellency, who is a gentleman of about forty, that the only emotion suitable for officials is purely platonic friendship, and that as far as he is concerned he is entirely wrapped up in his duties, and that if a woman came to unwrap him he would die of an official chill. He counsels the two young men of his staff, one of whom is Captain Carew, that they must not marry while holding the positions they do, and he reminds them that they made just that promise when they took the positions. All goes well until a woman arrives on the scene in the person of Stella, a singer, who claims to be the Countess de Gex, who is dressed in the latest French fashion, and who is a Parisienne, at least in her ways. The moment His Excellency spies her and she him it becomes apparent they have had a former affair. For a while she upsets all the plans of the government house officials. Then the member of the Cabinet arrives with his daughter and sister. The younger woman plays havoc with the hearts of the men. His Excellency is anxious to secure her hand, and the fact that Captain Carew and the governor's secretary are also in love with her causes complications that last until the ending of the story with the giving of the girl in marriage to Captain Carew, and the winning of the Cabinet Minister by Stella. It will be seen that the story is founded upon a very pretty conceit, and there is a sort of daintiness about the entire play which is rarely found in farces. Every one behaves with propriety, and the entire absence of horseplay lifts the work considerably above the level of its class. It is true that the governor and the two members of his staff do not at all times maintain the repose of perfect breeding, but it must be remembered that they are supposed to be under the influence of the aloe's pollen, and therefore scarcely more accountable for their acts than for their condition. At any rate, whether they make love singly, in pairs, or as a trio, they constantly do it in very entertaining fashion and with widely different individual methods. The play was admirably performed. Jessie Millward, leading lady of the Empire Theatre stock company, whose recent charming impersonation of Lady Algy won for her so much of honor and regard, was again well fitted with a comedy role, that of Stella, which she played with equal skill, yet, according to its requirements, in very different fashion. She was nonchalant, merry and mischievous, piquant and seductive, winsome of face and of tone to a degree that needed no help from the aloe dust to make her charms irresistible. She again proved herself to be a most valuable addition to our stage, a versatile actress, thoroughly equipped and admirably trained. The fine appearance and well bred air, the pleasantly modulated voice and cheery manner of Guy Standing enabled him to make Sir Montague Martin a very agreeable sort of new acquaintance. Robert Edeson, of "Little Minister" fame, proved worthy as Captain Carew of the fair prize he won, and William Norris played the role of John Baverstock, private secretary, in a fashion that was droll beyond compare, and which entitled him to the highest praise. In fact, Mr. Norris' creation of the role is one that will linger in memory. Harry Harwood was correct and vastly entertaining as the Hon. Carlton, and Grace Elliston and May Robson, as his daughter and sister, respectively, completed a cast of principals that could scarcely have been better chosen. The one setting employed, the vestibule of the Government House, was of great beauty. The play was greatly enjoyed by the first night's audience, and caused many bursts of laughter. Had it been put on earlier in the season it would have secured a lengthy run, provided it had been as well acted, for due consideration must be given to the fact that the present cast, which is of exceptional brilliancy, could be had only at this time. It is here presented in full: His Excellency Sir Montague Martin, Guy Standing; the Right Hon. Henry Carlton, Harry Harwood; Captain Charles Carew, Robert Edeson; Mr. John Baverstock, William Norris; Captain Rivers, Richard Bennett; Major Kildare, E. Y. Backus; a sentry, George C. Pearce; Groves, J. H. Benrimo; a clerk, J. P. Whitman; a footman, John R. Sumner; Mrs. Wentworth Bolingbroke, May Robson; Ethel Carlton, Grace Elliston; Stella De Gex, Miss Millward.

Bijou Theatre.—Henry E. Dixey, in a revival of "Adonis," was the bill at this house beginning Tuesday evening, May 9, the house being given up to a full dress rehearsal 8. The work was revived in its original form, even the old jokes and gags being retained, and it was like taking the audience back for fifteen years and giving them an opportunity of comparing a popular burlesque of that time with the burlesque of today. Mr. Dixey was as agile, graceful and amusing as of yore, and the hearty welcome accorded him made him feel at home. Amelia Summerville, who was also a member of the original cast, was also cordially received. Adonis, Henry E. Dixey; Marquis de Baccarat, Sidney H. De Gray; Bunion Turk, Ed. Chapman; Talamea, Ruth White; Artea, Hilda Hollins; Duchess of Area, Bessie Fairbairn; Lady Nattie, Therese Renold; Lady Hattie, Maud Francis; Lady Mattie, Gracie Cannon; Lady Pattie, Adele Francis; Timmins, Thomas Kiernan; Miss Doolittle, May Engleman. Gladys Needlework, Julie Durya; Susie Magie, Julie Glover; Poor Blind Man, "Bob" Watson; Mr. Nervine, Harry Earl; Mr. Skinner, J. Wallace Black; Miss Perkins, Helen Davidge; Rosetta, Amelia Summerville. It began 15 its second week, to good business.

THE METROPOLITAN OPERA AND REAL ESTATE CO. stockholders held their annual meeting May 10. During the year the company lost by death from its membership Calvin S. Brice and Robert Goelet, the latter being one of the directors, in whose place H. A. C. Taylor was elected. Those re-elected to the board were Samuel D. Babcock, George F. Baker, George S. Bowdoin, George G. Haven, Adrian Iselin, August D. Juilliard, Luther Kountze, D. O. Mills, J. Pierpont Morgan, H. McK. Twombley, George Peabody Wetmore, and William C. Whitney. The directors took no action regarding the levying of an assessment upon the stockholders for their boxes for next season's opera, but left the matter to be decided by the executive committee. It was generally understood, notwithstanding, that the assessment would not exceed the last season's amount of $3,000. Some alterations and improvements were decided upon to be made in the opera house.

THE MADISON SQUARE GARDEN CO. stockholders held their annual meeting May 9. The directors were all re-elected, as follow: F. K. Sturgis, J. Pierpont Morgan, Charles D. Lanier, James T. Woodward, W. F. Wharton, H. I. Nicholas, H. H. Hollister, James C. Young, Stanford White, D. O. Mills and W. C. Gulliver.

EMIL PAUR was, on May 10, re-elected by the Philharmonic Society as conductor. Eight public rehearsals and eight concerts will be given. The first of the public rehearsals will be on Nov. 17.

American Theatre.—The Castle Square Opera Co. closed its season of opera at this house May 6, and on Tuesday, 9, the same management presented for the first time on any stage "We-Uns of Tennessee," a play, in four acts, by Lee Arthur. The story of the play deals with the Spanish-American war, but it is a war play without an incident relating to battle, the scenes being laid in the hero's home, a camp at Chickamauga Park, and a division hospital at the same place. The action begins in the Spring of 1898, and the scene is laid in the town of Ooltewah, near Chickamauga, a picturesque region of Tennessee. The love of Jack Gray for Lucille Courtney forms the main thread of the story. Jack is the son of Hiram Gray, Sheriff of Jenm County, who is the guardian of Lucille. During the progress of the first act Lucille is lead to believe that Jack has betrayed a mountain girl, Mandy Monroe, although Seth Thomas, an aspirant for the hand of Lucille, is really the betrayer of Mandy. Jack and Seth are contestants for the captaincy of a company of volunteers just organized in response to President McKinley's call. Seth promises to marry Mandy if she will influence her brother Lige to help him defeat Jack Gray. At command of Lige a delegation of mountaineers threaten to resign if Gray is elected captain. In consequence Jack withdraws and offers to serve in the ranks. As he bids good bye to Lucille she returns his engagement ring, and he attributes her change of manner to disappointment. Chickamauga Park is the scene of the second act, and here Seth Thomas tries to win favor with Lucille, absolutely refuses to marry Mandy, and cleverly avoids her revenge by a threat to betray her father to the revenue officers. He causes Lige to believe that the midnight visitor to his tent is Lucille, while in reality it is Mandy. Lige taunts Jack with the conduct of Lucille, and a fatal quarrel ensues. Circumstances arise to convince Jack that Lige has been telling the truth, and the act ends with Jack's denunciation of Lucille. The third act takes place at a division hospital in Chickamauga Park. Lige Monroe, on his deathbed, discovers that Seth Thomas has betrayed Mandy, and that it was she who visited the tent. He sends for Lucille and dictates a statement which exonerates Jack from all blame in the fatal termination of the quarrel. Accidently the statement falls into the hands of Seth Thomas, and Jack is led to believe that Lucille has betrayed him purposely, for, although the name of Private Gray is not written in the statement, suspicion points strongly to him. Thomas devises a plan to make certain his suspicions, but is frustrated by Lige. The act closes with the death of Lige Monroe. The fourth act takes place in the residence of Hiram Gray. Secret service officers have discovered an old coat of Jack's on which there are blood stains, and this seems sufficient proof to convict Jack of the murder of Lige. Just as he is about to depart with the officers, however, Uncle Ned, an old colored servant, claims the coat as his, and confesses that he, and not Jack, was really responsible for the death of Lige. This, of course, sets matters straight and all ends well. There are numerous faults in the play, but it has, nevertheless, the elements of success. A strong heart interest holds the attention from the middle of the first act to the fall of the final curtain, and the auditor forgets the faults, to a great extent, and applauds the merits. The character drawing, most of which is a portraiture of Southern life, is good, and the construction of the work is, in the main, satisfactory. One of the weakest spots in the play is the credulity with which Lucille Courtney believes Jack Gray to be the betrayer of Mandy Monroe. As a matter of fact Mandy does not accuse Jack, but tells Lucille the guilty one is the man who was just talking with her (Lucille). Jack has just left Lucille, it is true, but Seth Thomas had only departed as Jack entered, and as no name has been mentioned by Mandy it seems unreasonable that Lucille should condemn her lover unheard. She should at first refuse to believe it, and at least let Jack face the woman whom she believes is his accuser, and then Mandy, prompted by the threat of Seth not to marry her if she speaks, might, by her silence, convince Lucille that her lover is really guilty, and the subsequent acts would be materially strengthened. Another mistake is the presence of Seth Thomas at the death bed of Lige Monroe. Lige has just learned from his sister, Mandy, that Seth Thomas has betrayed her, and, rugged mountaineer that he is, with a high regard for women's honor nurtured in his breast, he would naturally, even in the throes of death, make an effort to avenge his sister's wrongs at sight of her betrayer. In the finale, too, it is a mistake not to make a satisfactory disposition of the hero, heroine and the man through whose machinations they have been made to suffer. The audience should see Seth Thomas arrested or banished; Mandy Monroe should be in some way provided for, and Jack and Lucille should be in each other's arms at the final curtain. The company was excellent, the work of every member deserving praise. Theodore Roberts, as Lige Monroe, carried off first honors. His performance was thoroughly artistic, and seldom has a finer example of character acting been seen on the local stage. Burt G. Clark was excellent as the bluff old Col. Poole. Archie Boyd's work as Hiram Gray was fully up to the standard of this popular actor. Robert Drouet made a manly Jack Gray and Raymond Hitchcock made the most of his chances in the role of Scank Genias. Victory Bateman gave a pleasing portrayal of the role of Lucille Courtney, which, however, did not tax her ability greatly. Georgia Waldron was thoroughly satisfactory as Mandy Monroe, and Ann Warrington made a charming widow (Ellen Champe). Jessie Mae Hall was pleasing in the soubrette role of Sapho Champe. Mrs. Chas. G. Craig, as the old colored "Aunty" Millie, was very clever. Her hearty laugh was an excellent imitation of that produced by the old colored Southern women, and her work was most praiseworthy. The cast: Hiram Gray, Archie Boyd; Surgeon Daniel Gray, Pierce Kingsley; Jack Gray, Robert Drouet; Sidney Gray, George Pauncefoot; Col. William Poole, Burt G. Clark; Capt. Seth Thomas, Stephen Wright; Scank Genais, Raymond Hitchcock; Vivian Champe, Master Harry McArdle; Lige Monroe, Theodore Roberts; Charles Webster, Robert Eliot; John Mason, H. L. Sutherland; Phil Green, Charles M. Raphun; Percye Treadway, W. S. St. Clair; Hank Williams, John E. Ince Jr.; Uncle Ned, Chas. K. French; Martha Gray, Mrs. Marion Lester; Ellen Champe, Ann Warrington; Lucille Courtney, Victory Bateman; Sapho Champe, Jessie Mae Hall; Mandy Monroe, Georgia Waldron; Aunt Millie, Mrs. Charles G. Craig; Red Cross Nurses, Sarah Whiteford, Agatha Waters. The play began 15 its second week, to good business.

"MOTHER GOOSE" ended her reign at the Four teeth Street Theatre May 10, for the simple reason that members of the company refused to work without salary. Five weeks' rehearsal without pay, added to a full week of service without salary, caused discontent when the "ghost" failed to walk promptly on pay day. The Tuesday evening performance was given under strong protest from members of the company, and when they assembled for the Wednesday matinee, and their promised recompense was not forthcoming, all hands left the theatre, and the unprofitable venture terminated abruptly. Junius Howe, the accredited manager, disclaimed any interest or responsibility in the financial affairs, stating that the backers of the enterprise had failed to come forward with the promised coin of the realm. Subsequently Mr. Howe filed a petition in bankruptcy, which states that his liabilities are $31,952 and he has no assets, except a possible interest in the contracts for the libretto and music of "Mother Goose," costumes and scenery, etc., which have been forfeited and are of no value to the creditors. Of the liabilities, about $10,000 was incurred this year, principally in connection with "Mother Goose." The balance was incurred in 1897 and in 1898, and mainly as a partner with Matt L. Berry, of Benton Harbor, Mich. Among the creditors are the names of twenty-eight actors and actresses and one hundred singers. The list includes Elvia Crox Seabrooke, $800; Sadi Martinot, $400; Countess von Hatzfeldt, $400; Jessie Villers, $800; Olive Redpath, $300; Marie Celeste, $200; Ida Mulle, $200; Queenie Vassar, $100; Joe Cawthorne, $2,600; John Page, $300; Alexander Clark, $400; Hubert Wilkie, $400, and W. H. West, $400. He owes John Feits $800, money advanced for "Mother Goose;" Louis De Lange and Edgar Smith, $800, royalties on the same; R. A. Bennett, $1,400, royalties on "Excelsior Jr.;" E. E. Rice, $1,500, for rent of costumes and scenery; John Braham, $300, for services as musical director; E. A. Henkle, $2,300, borrowed money.

Casino.—"Erminie" was revived here May 13, on a scale of great magnificence, and with a cast which contained many players who were associated with the opera on its premier, thirteen years ago. The house was completely filled in all parts, and, though the habitual opening night nuisance of demanding encores for everything again and again was not so largely indulged in, enthusiasm was by no means lacking, and the success of the revival was never in doubt from the rise of the curtain. Surely the pretty numbers of the piece were never better sung, nor did its fun ever appear more spontaneous and keenly enjoyable, the production in its entirety proving of unusual excellence and receiving its full equivilent from the audience in sincere applause. The stage settings were pretty and appropriate, the costumes proved a feast for the eye, the roles were, with but one exception, all well cast and most entertainingly played, and the chorus work was a prominent feature of the performance, "Good Night" being a gem of vocal beauty as a result of the excellent concerted work. When Francis Wilson's droll work and acrobatic capers in the character of Cadeaux are now viewed it does not seem at all surprising that this part should generally be conceded his best. That his interpretation towered head and shoulders over all others is a foregone conclusion. If he would omit the unpleasant eating scene his work would shine brilliantly, with this, its only blot, removed. Lillian Russell appears to have at last been able to cope successfully with her stubborn enemy, surplus averdupoise, and she now looks once more the conquerer as of yore. She sang sweetly and the lullaby had a capable rendering, although her voice seems to have lost a great deal of its power. Thomas Q. Seabrooke appeared to be very ill at ease as Ravennes. His memory led him a merry chase, and an acute attack of stage fright had him at its mercy almost the entire evening. He may play the part better later on, but it was impossible to get a line on his ability at the opening performance. Javotte was entrusted to Lulu Glaser, and she overdid it terribly. She seemed to feel sorry at not being able to build a little fence around herself in the centre of the stage, where she might be in full view of the audience, and relegate her stage associates to the background. It hardly seems possible that this is the same young lady who used to have her hair combed back so straight and prim in her pictures, and who talked so modestly to her interviewers. She sang the shepherdess song charmingly, though, and if she agreed not to make attempts at being the whole show we might very easily grow to like her again. W. T. Carlton got several encores that he well merited for his solo singing, and Max Freeman played the Chevalier De Brabazon with a thorough appreciation of its possibilities, and he made the title role stand out most prominently. Jennie Weatherby laughed and gushed in true old maid manner as the Princess, and the minor characters were all well taken care of. Taken all in all, the production was a most entertaining one, and the evening was to many as productive of pleasure as the opening night of a new play, and an uncommonly good one at that. The sweet charm of "Erminie's" music seems always to make another hearing something to look forward to with delight. The cast: Erminie, Lillian Russell; Javotee, Lulu Glaser; Cerise, Josephine Knapp; Princess de Gramponeur, Jennie Weatherby; Marie, Miriam Lawrence; Captain Delaunay, Mathilde Preville; Cadeaux, Francis Wilson; Ravennes, Thos. Q. Seabrooke; Eugene Marcel, Clinton Elder; Chevalier de Brabazon, Max Freeman; Marquis de Ponvert, W. T. Carleton; Dufois, Murry Woods; Simon, Edmund Lawrence; Viscomte de Brissac, Charles H. Bowers; Sergeant, Joseph Chaillee; Benedict, E. B. Knight.

Koster & Bial's.—The management considered last week's bill to be sufficiently strong to hold over without the addition of new members, and an audience of good proportions gathered together May 15 to witness the performance. The bill included: The Phasey troupe of dancers, eight in number; the Beaumont Sisters, in songs and dances; Ethel Levey, comedienne; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, in the skit, "When Two Hearts Are Won;" Silvern and Emerie, on the flying rings; Josie De Witt, violiniste; the Griffiths Brothers and their Blondin donkey, Frederick Clarenze's Quintet, Leonidas' trained cats and dogs, Johnson and Dean, colored comedy duo, and the Fredericks troupe of demon acrobats. The Sunday concert 14 drew an immense audience. The bill included: Lottie Gilson, Monroe and Mack, Lizzie Raymond, Ed. Lateli, Simms and Graham, Tom Brown, Maude Courtney, Master Francis, Henri French, Wiseman Quartet, the Hulmes, together with nine acts on the current bill.

London Theatre.—The Merry Widows opened here, to fair business, Monday, May 15, with a bill that contained several enjoyable features. "Widow Gay's Reception" is the first part, and served to dish up the usual rounds of song and comedy. Lottie Williams appeared as the Widow Gay. The Merry Widows' Quartet, consisting of Harry Miller, Edward De Mos, James Chapman and J. W. Jones, opened the olio in good shape. Tom and Gertie Grimes, the Sisters Powell, with songs; Beeson and Miles, in exchange of repartee; Bijou Mignon and Lulu Beeson, in some clever buck dancing, for which they were roundly applauded; Thomas W. Mack, in parodies and monologue; Saville and Young, in "A Tramp's Reception," and Howard, equilibrist, completed the list. "A Trip to the City," the burlesque, finished the show. T. W. Grimes is representative; R. B. Francis, proprietor; Oscar Leiben Kanem, musical director. Next week, Graham's Southern Specialty Co. Treasurer Edwin Bull's benefit is announced for Tuesday evening, May 30.

Fourteenth Street Theatre.—Martin J. Dixon's production of "The Victorian Cross," seen locally earlier in the season, went on for an engagement of indefinite duration Monday, May 15, when a fair house turned out to witness its introduction. The stirring scenes of the play appealed strongly to the melodramatically inclined audience, and the clever work of the presenting company merited the warm approval accorded. The cast: Jack Raynton, Charles Hagar; Sir Richard Aubrey, Harry Markham; Colonel, Phil McCarthy; Mr. Graham, Phineas Leach; Andy Cregan, Lew McCord; Nana Sahib, Joseph Fitzpatrick; Pandeen, Frank Binkhurst; Azimullah, Frank Hilton; Gen. Sir Hugh Wheeler, Clint G. Ford; Gen. Havelock, Wm. Stanley; Corporal Johnson, Frank Jones; Sentry, F. S. Durand; Kate Maynard, Jesse Wallack Dixon; Mrs. Raynton, Renie Persell; Norah, Katherine Blythe; Lady Aubrey, Bertha St. Clair.

Star Theatre.—"Yon Yonson" opened a week's engagement here on Monday, May 15, when a big house greeted the clever play and company. Ben Hen tricks carries the leading dialect role with uncommon ability, and has the support of a company well chosen for the work in hand. The cast: Yon Yonson, Ben Hendricks; Amos Jennings, Edward J. Mack; John Holloway, James H. Bradbury; Gerald Harcourt, James A. Marcus; Roly, Bertie Conway; Harkens, E. J. Mack; Vanderbilt Botts, Wendel Phillips, Arthur Earl; Mr. McSorley, George Lynne; Jennie Morris, Bertrice Norman; Grace Jennings, Belle Francis; Mrs. Laflin, Annie Mack Hericlu.

Miner's Eighth Avenue Theatre.—"The Hot Air Club Burlesque Co." is the way the programme puts it for the week of May 15. The olio introduces Swor and Devoe, the Granams, Mitchell and Cain, Kine and Gotthold, Lewis and Blakely, and the Madisons. A majority of the specialty folk engaged in the burlesque, which ends the programme. Next week the Rentz Santley Co. entertains.

Herald Square Theatre.—"An Arabian Girl and Forty Thieves" is now in its third week at this house, and is meeting with success. Some aerial dancers were new features May 15.

New York.—"The Man in the Moon" began May 15 its fourth week with a burlesque on scenes from "Romeo and Juliet" introduced. Sam Bernard was Juliet, Marie Dressler Romeo, and Walter Jones Mercutio, and the skit added new zest to the main piece.

Manhattan Theatre.—"A Female Drummer" began May 15 its second and last week here, to satisfactory business.

People's Theatre.—This house closed the season May 13. It will be opened in the Fall, with drama in Hebrew.

Keith's Union Square Theatre.—The quality and quantity of the offerings here continue to advance with the waning season, Booking Manager Sam K. Hodgdon evidently being bent on atoning for earlier indiscretions in the matter of maintaining the house standard. For the week of May 15-20 he has furnished a half dozen genuine feature acts, backing them up with nearly a dozen specialties worthy of commendation on their merits. The most interesting number, perhaps, brings Cissie Loftus into the continuous performance field for the first time. Her imitations were received with the same appreciative applause as has followed her remarkably clever efforts in other fields, making the engagement a complete success. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sidman presented their new act, "Back Home," for the first time here, and scored a hit, pronounced and amply merited. They rightly style their offering "A Few Restful Moments," as the quiet atmosphere which pervades the scene is alike soothing and entrancing, free from exaggeration and depicted with delicate attention to every detail. The stage settings and properties, down to the rag carpeted floor, are in full accord with correctness, and the character delineations are drawn with an artistic finish unsurpassed in any sketch seen here in the vaudevilles. Both players have congenial roles, and work in such perfect harmony that no blemish finds place in a home scene, which for quaintness and life like simplicity makes no improvement. Chin Ling Foo remains for another week of mystification, his feats of legerdemain continuing sensational in their way to a degree provoked by few vaudeville specialties the current season has disclosed. Falke and Semon were accorded a warm welcome on their return to friends gained through previous good work, and gave their comedy musical act its usual clever inning. Watson and Hutchings gave their lively character sketch in the same effective manner which has always characterized their efforts, and Ray L. Royce scored his accustomed hit with bright character delineations which have won him a creditable place among monologue entertainers in vaudeville. The Vilonl Sisters, Hayes and Bandy, Mudge and Morton, the Harpers, Clayton and Clarice, and Alice Carmelo offered entertaining specialties of various sort, and the animated pictures projected by the American biograph were strong in favor, as usual.

Proctor's Theatre.—The current bill is full up to the high standard given at this resort, and the opening performances, May 15, drew good attendance. Minnie Seligman returned to the scene of her vaudeville debut, and scored her usual success. She presented "Therese," a one act drama, played by Sarah Bernhardt in Paris. The playlet is very dramatic, and gave Miss Seligman opportunity to display her well known ability. She received able support from Walter Hale and Horace Lewis. Press Eldridge, who delights in the lengthy title of "Commander in Chief of the Army of Fun," gave full satisfaction. Van and Nobriga presented their "Komical Koons," and scored well. The Johnson Bros., xylophone experts, came in for a liberal amount of applause for their excellent playing. Emma Carus, than whom there are few more popular female "baritone" singers, rendered a budget of pleasing songs, and was well rewarded with applause. Rosco's trained pigs moved down from Manager Proctor's uptown house and scored a success. Florence H. King, violiniste, although she did not have a very prominent place on the programme, proved a very clever performer. Her selections were well chosen and well rendered. She plays with feeling and expression, and her work is sufficiently meritorious to succeed without the aid of calcium lights and the "clinging" airy costume which she affects. E. J. Holland, in a gymnastic act; Welby, Pearl, Keys and Nellis, in their dancing act; the Nondescript Trio, in a negro act; E. M. Hall, banjoist; Leavitt and Nevello, in a double juggling act; Joe Coalan, in his Irish biddy specialty; L. M. Granat, whistler, and Tobey's Day's Doings were other numbers which gave satisfaction. The Sunday concert bill, 14, included: Marshall P. Wilder, Lillie Western, Mimic Four, Thomas and Quinn, Maria Heath, Hines and Remington, Yarrick, Colter and Starr, Foreman and West, Seymour and Dupree, Joseph Natus, Forrester and Floyd, Hubbard's Illustrated Travels, and Josephine Arthur.

Tony Pastor's Theatre.—The attractive offering furnished for the lovers of the continuous, who hold this house in high esteem, drew a big crowd to mark the opening of the week of May 15, the attendance on Monday, afternoon and evening, being large and generally enthusiastic over the long and strong bill, provided for current entertainment. Topping the bill the Russell Brothers, John and James, gave their capital Irish servant girl specialty its accustomed lively inning, and scored their usual hit thereby. Irving Jones, Burt Grant and Sadie Jones invited the audience to "Get Your Money's Wort," and then proceeded to give much more than full measure of genuine "coon" amusement. Edwin Latell scored his usual pronounced success through the medium of his clever musical specialty, so cleverly done that it never seems to grow old, in spite of frequent repetitions at this house. Celeste reappeared in America after a long absence abroad, and won renewed favor for his sensational feats on the single wire. Swan and Bambard were welcomed as old favorites, and executed their acrobatic act with their usual skilfulness. Sid Forrester and Nellie Floyd presented their newest comedy sketch effectively, gaining considerable applause, and the excellent bill was made complete by specialties introducing various styles of entertainment, including Rachel Renard and J. A. Preston in a sketch, "A Husband in Clover;" Derenda and Breen, club jugglers; Estelle Wills, comedienne and vocalist; Lew Simmons and Clark Gibbs, "The Echo Band," a clever black face turn; Letto and Dello, an acrobat and clown; Griffiths and Hastings, in songs illustrated, and the Zarnes, in a flying ring specialty.

Empire Theatre.—Maude Adams began on May 15 the second and last week of her engagement. Her success as the heroine of "Romeo and Juliet" has been almost beyond precedent. The house has been crowded at every performance, and the audiences have been almost as enthusiastic as the one which greeted her upon the first night. There will be a Wednesday and Saturday matinee, but an early application will be necessary to secure seats for any performance.

Madison Square Theatre.—"Because She Loved Him So" started on May 15 upon the eighteenth and last week of its run. The one hundred and fiftieth performance was given on that date, and souvenirs were distributed, as usual. The run of the play comes to an end, not through lack of patronage, but because the play is booked to open in Chicago. It is likely to be a success wherever it goes.

Fifth Avenue Theatre.—De Wolf Hopper, in "The Charlatan," entered on May 15 upon the third week and last fortnight of his engagement. The opera, in its revised form, has found much favor, and it is well that this second opportunity to hear the work has been given to our public, for it is in every way deserving of the metropolitan endorsement which it is now receiving.

Garrick Theatre.—Mrs. Leslie Carter, in "Zaza," entered on May 15 upon the nineteenth week of her engagement, concerning which there is nothing new to be said. In spite of new attractions of unusual strength the business here continues at high water mark, and week after week it has been necessary to tell the same old story.

Knickerbocker Theatre.—Julia Marlowe, in "Colinette" began on May 15 the sixth and last week of a very successful engagement. She has never given more convincing proof of her great merit than she has displayed in this play, and all who admire comedy of the highest and finest sort should not miss this fleeting opportunity.

Broadway Theatre.—"Shenandoah" is now in its third week and is doing well. It has the advantage of an excellent cast, and is presented with careful attention to effective detail. It is remarkably realistic and thrilling. It will do much to render popular the new management.

Wallack's.—"The Cuckoo" is now in its seventh and final week at this house. It has had a very successful run and has been greatly enjoyed. The company is excellent, and all who have not seen this very amusing play should avoid vain regrets by visiting the house this week.

Pleasure Palace.—Droll little Marshall P. Wilder heads the bill at Manager Proctor's uptown house this week, and his humor shines irresistibly through a half hour of monologue, which comprises recitations, songs, jests and quips, and seemed to please better than ever on May 15. Edward J. Heron, in "A Friend of the Family," was another favorite number, valuable assistance being rendered by Louis Bishop Hall and Ethel Milton. The Mimic Four, in a comedy sketch, convulsed the house by their mimicry, their rapid changes being decidedly clever. Flood Bros., acrobatic pantomimists, secured recognition by their adroitly performed acrobatic feats. Wilson and Leicester pleasingly sang, their efforts being heartily applauded. Ford Bros., a decidedly skillful dancing duo, won well merited approval. Anna Wilmuth Curran took with her vocal selections and was a general favorite. Winstanley and Sullivan found a way into the good graces of the auditors through the medium of their nimble feet. Revere and Fields, a singing duo, commanded wrapt attention in their classic vocal offerings, they making a pretty picture in their neat costumes. Jos. Natus, descriptive vocalist, was another applause winner. Yarrick presented a magical act, the whole winding up with the "Day's Doings," depicting up to date views of timely current topics. Minnie Seligman is the top liner for next week's bill, and Sunday's concert, which was well patronized, employed among others Gilmore and Leonard, Roscow's Pigs, Webb and Hassan, Bryant and Seville, Joe O'Hara, and Fish and Quigg.

Huber's Palace Museum.—Manager Anderson has furnished another attractive list of entertainers upon the stage and in the curio departments for the week of May 15-20. The feature of the bill finds issue in Col. Schult's great Dane dogs, twelve very cleverly trained and intelligent canines. Lane and Suzinetta, cannon ball jugglers, have returned to scenes of former dexterous achievements; Albini and Le Brant, mind readers, are factors in the main floor display, and Prof. Rodney, Duval and Lotta, the last mentioned a trained orang outang, are likewise featured in curio hall. The stage performance for the week will be given by Deaves' Marionettes, Hinds and Davenport, the Fields, Bijou Russell, Montello and Daly, the Murphys, Pearl Van Ness, Rose Carlin, Tom Carlton, Richards and Richmond and others.

Weber & Fields' Music Hall.—"Helter Skelter" began May 15 its seventh week and last fortnight, and was still popular. The burlesque on "Catharine" is still in high favor, and there is every indication that the large business which has been the lot of this resort since the opening of the season, last September, will continue up to the close of the season. In the olio the Van Aukens, triple horizontal bar performers, opened for a return engagement, and scored their usual immense success. Derenda and Breen, club jugglers, also came in for a good share of favor. Manager Leo C. Teller will benefit 28, when a very strong bill will be given.

Miner's Bowery Theatre.—The Rentz-Santley Co. is finishing its season here this week, and the excellent programme, which has been offered repeatedly on the Bowery during the season, met with its usual approval May 15. It includes "Yankee Dewey Dandy," Johnston and Gorman, Engstrom Sisters, Charles Robinson, Ford and Dot West, Richard Ward, Ed. Johnston's pictures and "A Night's Frolic." Next week, the Hot Air Club Burlesque Co., under the direction of Sam Dessauer.

Academy of Music.—"The King of the Opium Ring" started on May 15 upon the second week of its run, with good prospects. An added feature this week is the appearance of five Chinese actors.

Atlantic Garden.—Among the attractions this week are Takezawa's Japs, Hartley and Amann, Morrell and Evans, Alexander and Morton, and the Elite Ladies Orchestra.

JOHN DREW will open the Empire Theatre on Sept. 4, with "The Tyranny of Tears," Mr. Haddon Chambers' new play, which is now being presented at the Criterion, in London, Eng.

Harlem.—The Harlem Opera House is dark this week. "A Runaway Girl" did fairly well, May 8-13. Next week, Olga Nethersole.

COLUMBUS.—"Gettysburg" is here, 15-20. Last week Black Patti's Troubadours did well. Next week "Too Much Johnson."

OLYMPIC.—"The Real Widow Brown," presented by A. Q. Scammon's company, is here this week. Tom McIntosh's Specialty Co. had fair patronage. Last week The Merry Widows.

HURTIG & SEAMON'S HARLEM MUSIC HALL.—Last week's business was big. Another excellent bill is presented this week, including Louise Thorndyke Boucicault, assisted by James Herne; Hallen and Fuller, Garnella and Shirk, Farrell and Taylor, Fisher and Carroll, Larry Le Roy, George C. Davis and Gertie Gillon.

Brooklyn.—"Faust" is the selection of the Castle Square Opera Co., to be presented at the Montauk Theatre during the current week, opening May 15, before a large audience. It was plainly evident that Gounod's work is one of the best to display this admirable company at its best. Adelaide Norwood as Marguerite sang very acceptably, and was liberally applauded, as was Lizzie Macnichol as Siebel, who is a great favorite here and counts her friends by the legion. Others who gave satisfaction were: E. C. Hedmondt as Faust, O. P. Regneas as Mephistopheles, and Harry Luckstone as Valentine. Curtain calls were numerous. During the week Yvonne de Treville will alternate as Marguerite, Joseph F. Sheehan as Faust, Homer Lind as Valentine, and E. N. Knight as Mephistopheles. Next week, "Romeo and Juliet."

STAR.—Phil Sheridan's City Sports Burlesquers is the attraction Manager W. L. Bissell has for his patrons this week, and the afternoon and evening performances given 15 attracted two fine audiences. The opening sketch is called "Maloney's Visit," and it is highly amusing. This is followed by the olio, which includes Ruth Beecher, soprano soloist; Alice Leslie, the "sporty boy;" the Monte Myro Troupe of pantomimists; Scanlon and Stevens, in a comedy sketch; Whitelaw and Stewart, in their specialty; Furman and Nelson, acrobats, and A. C. Lawrence, monologueist. The performance ends with an extravaganza, called 'The Troubles of a King," which is handsomely staged and serves to introduce the entire company. Next week, Rose Sydell's London Belles Big Show.

HYDE & BEHMAN'S.—Minnie Schult heads the bill here this week. Others are Idaleno Cotton and Nick Long, Dooley and Tenbrooke, Morton and Revelle, W. H. Windom, Rappo Sisters, Jessie Conthoui, the Blackstone Quartet and Dave Meier. Two large audiences witnessed the two performances given 15.

AMPHION.—Manager Cohen brought the season to a close here night of 13. He reports the season's business as satisfactory.

GAYETY.—With William Gillette's remarkably successful farce, "Too Much Johnson," which occupies the stage this week, the house will close its season. The farce is presented by a company of clever players. The stage settings are up to the house's reputation. The house was crowded on the opening night, 15, when souvenirs were given out. Manager Wilson's benefit, 21, will bring out a strong array of talent.

EMPIRE.—There was a fair sized house present night of 15, when the American Burlesquers began a week's stay. The olio: Mildred Murray, Leslie and Curdy, W. B. Watson and Jeanette Dupre, Perry and Burns, and the Sisters Munroe. The picturesque reflex on the Spanish-American War, "Kosha, or Levy's Military Social," and the burlesque, "A Goose Chase," are presented. Good business last week.

UNIQUE.—Manager Frank Carr had a big house night of 15, when Tom McIntosh's Comedy and Vaudeville Co. began their week's engagement. The entire company of pretty girls and clever comedians are introduced through the medium of a one act farce, called "When Do We Eat." The olio: Richard Franklin, Russell Brandon, William Mozambique English, Christian C. Turner, May Bohn, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom McIntosh. The performance is brought to a close with a grand challenge cake walk.

NOTES.—One of the most interesting events to be held in this borough this season will be the testimonial benefit to be tendered by Manager Harry C. Kennedy and his friends to Business Manager Edwin C. Mason, at the Bijou Theatre, Monday evening, May 22. Mr. Mason has made many friends on this side of the big bridge, and is much esteemed by all who have had any business relations with him, and it is proposed to make the affair a grand success in every sense of the word. Many persons prominent in theatrical circles have offered their services, and a strong and attractive vaudeville bill will be given. Among those who have volunteered their services are Minnie Schult, Castans and Fenwick, George Felix and Lydia Barry, John Leonard, of Gilmore and Leonard; John P. Brown, whistler; Maud Myring, Pat and Mattie Rooney, Florine, Mlle. Beatrice, and Magic King. A feature will be an exhibition of how scenes are set.....Articles of incorporation of the Hyde & Behman Amusement Company were filed May 13 with the Essex County Clerk, at Newark, N. J. According to the papers, the company will purchase, lease, own and manage theatres, opera houses and similar places of amusement in the city of Newark and elsewhere in New Jersey, as well as in the boroughs of Brooklyn and Manhattan, in the city and State of New York, and elsewhere outside of New Jersey; to sell, let, mortgage or otherwise dispose of such theatres and other places of amusement, and carry on a general theatrical business. Richard Hyde, Louis C. Behman, James Hyde and Henry W. Behman, of Brooklyn, and George M. Keasbey, of Newark, are the incorporators.....Wednesday night, 10, will long be remembered by the patrons of the Unique, as well as Manager Frank B. Carr. The house was packed from pit to dome and hundreds were turned away. This was the night of Manager Carr's annual benefit. The show was bright and sparkling and was given by the High Rollers, with several volunteers. Manager Carr was called to the footlights and was presented with a very beautiful stand of flowers from the attaches and several smaller floral offerings, and Lawrence F. Carroll, in behalf of the business men of Grand Street, presented Manager Carr with a diamond stud. After the performance a grand collation was served at the rooms of the Carroll Association, who were joined by the entire company.....Kuller and Plaquette, imperial song illustrators, have volunteered their services to appear at the testimonial to Manager Wilson Bennett on May 21. They are well known in the profession for their ability as song illustrators.

NEW YORK STATE.

Albany.—The regular season has about ended here, and announcements are already made for the Summer attractions.

THE EMPIRE THEATRE was open but one night during last week, Andrew Mack appearing May 10, in "The Ragged Earl," before a packed house. The large audience showed its approval by frequent curtain calls for the star. Commencing Monday, 15, the Wilbur Opera Co. will make a stay of four weeks, producing light opera, at popular prices. COURT STREET THEATRE.—Phil Sheridan's New City Sports finished a profitable engagement 13. The show was one of the season's strong cards, and among the several meritorious features petite Alice Leslie was an immediate winner. This ends the season of this popular house, which has lasted thirty-eight weeks, and Managers Bagg & Wegefarth, and assistants Harry Ferren and Marcus Moses, have used all efforts to place it in the front rank of burlesque homes with not a little success. Lampe's orchestra sustained its splendid reputation for good work.

SHEA'S GARDEN THEATRE.—Henri French, Felix and Barry, Todd Judge Family, Al Leech and Rosebuds, Whirlwind Deforeests, Meeker-Baker Trio, Irene Franklin, Maud Beall Price and the biograph. Warm weather does not seem to disturb the customary big attendance. George Wilson scored well last week.

This will afford ample opportunity for Buffalo Bill's Wild West and similar displays.....There has been a very strong pressure brought upon Mayor Diehl by the clergy and citizens to refuse to re license the city's free concert halls, but it is thought that under a new ordinance that is being framed the evils of these resorts that have been the subject of complaint may be largely overcome.

RIALTO MUSIC HALL.—There are no new arrivals announced for this week. Business good.

Newburg.—The Academy of Music is dark this week and will remain so until June 1, when the regular season will close here with Sousa's Band as the attraction. Andrew Mack was accorded a rousing welcome on his return May 8, in "The Ragged Earl," as also was "The Heart of Maryland," 11, the latter being a return date also. Otherwise the house was dark all last week, Turner's "Komedy Koons" having canceled 10..... The Forepaugh and Sells Bros.' Consolidated Shows, due here 23, have an elegant display of paper this season, several extra large billing stands having been erected in and around town especially for that purpose.....Glenwood Park opens Decoration Day for the midsummer season with a fine line of vaudeville attractions.

Poughkeepsie.—At the Collingwood Opera House, May 8, Joseph Jefferson presented "The Rivals," to a fair sized audience, Vassar College being largely represented. "The Heart of Maryland" played a return engagement 12, to an audience that filled every part of the house, the occasion being the annual benefit of Manager E. B. Sweet. Alma Kruger, as Maryland Calvert, was the recipient of several curtain calls. The presentation remains perfect. This event closed the Collingwood for the season.....Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show is due June 8.

Utica.—At the Utica Opera House Andrew Mack did well, in "The Ragged Earl," May 12. Frank Daniels, in "The Wizard of the Nile" and "The Idol's Eye," 13, delighted good houses. Booked: The American Opera Co., week of 15, presenting "Amorita," "The Mikado" and "Fra Diavolo."

Geneva.—At the Smith Opera House "A Contented Woman" came to big business May 10. Frank Daniels, in "The Wizard of the Nile," came to S. R. O., 9. This practically closes the season of the Smith, which has been a very successful one.

Middletown.—At the Casino Willie Collier, with a good company, presented his new comedy, "Mr. Smooth," to a large and appreciative audience, May 10, which closed the regular season at this house.

Under the Tents.

RINGLING'S CIRCUS opened May 8, in St. Louis, Mo., for a week. Two weeks before the show opened in Chicago, in the Coliseum, and did a good business. As last year's engagement in St. Louis indoors was not very profitable, it was decided to open under canvas and the results justified the move. The attendance was very good the opening nights and after Tuesday was a regular jam. Every evening of the last of the week saw hundreds turned away, and this is literally true. The staff is about the same as last year. All the Ringlings are in their old places. Alf. Ringling is outside man and with "Doc" Freeman attends to all of the press work and tickets. Al. Ringling has charge of the performance, assisted by Ed. Shipp. The ringmasters are John Slater, John Rooney and Dan Lean. The band of thirty-five pieces is a big feature this year, under the direction of Geo. Ganweiler. Among the performers are: Yammamoto Bros., Aronson and Ashton, Hogohara and Obeo, the Adairs, Bertha Dorian, Albo Boise and Pickard, Minnie Fisher, Clark and Ingram, Bessie Leon, Otamo, Geo. Zalio, Amie, Nettie Carroll, the Leander Bros., the Da Coma Family, Bros. La Rue, Jules Tournour, F. Williams, Olga Reed, Joseph La Fleur, Coriosa, Bertha Dorian, Millie Tournour, Dot Adair, Emeline Fredricks, the Flying Fishers, and Redell and Herbert, in mid air walk and acrobatic and juggling specialties. The equestrians are: Olga Reed, Julia Lowanda, Elena Ryland, Lizzie Rooney, Kate Mayo, Ada Costello, John O'Brien, Allie Jackson, Wm. De Van, Michael and John Rooney and Cecil Lowanda. The clowns are: Wm. Marks, Jules Tournour, Alf. Miaco, Geo. Zammert, F. La Rue, Steve Miaco, Lew Sunlin, Geo. Hartzell, Art. Adair, Geo. Metz, Al. Johnson, F. De Lardmont, F. Wilson, Frank Jones, Geo. Cole, Carl Mayo, C. Roberts. Lew Sunlin, with his trained bull, is a strong feature, as is Crandall on his mule "Thunderbolt." The three trained elephant herds are directed by Jean Marchand, Prof. Lockhart and Edouard Sanders. Of the acts that catch best with the crowd are: John O'Brien and his sixty-one horse act, Nellie Tournour on the trapeze and the clown brass band.

SPARKS FROM THE GUS SUN BRILLIANT SHOWS.—Our opening at Reynoldsville, Pa., May 6, was most auspicious. The canvas, 80x120, was packed and hundreds turned away, and each night sees a repetition. The show is the cleanest, brightest and best we have ever had the pleasure to present, and as a paying investment beyond expectations. Following is a complete and correct roster of show: Gus Sun, sole proprietor and manager; Jack Holmes, assistant manager; William Attele, secretary and treasurer; William Snow, amusement manager; Sam Drane, manager of concert; Frank Caston, general agent; Robert Leland, charge of advance; Jim Wilson, superintendent of canvas; Tom Burns, charge of stock; James Edwards, charge of properties; Red. Higgins, chandeliers; Charles Logan, superintendent Hotel de Sun; Mike Sanders, charge of sleeping department; Joe Baker, advertising privileges, banners and programmes. Mr. Sun controls refreshment privileges. Orchestra of seven pieces, conducted by Emil Behr, furnishes music for show. Mr. Sun leaves the show 1st of August to assume the management of the Gus Sun Rising Minstrels (thirty-five people), and Jack Holmes assumes the management of this show. THE CLIPPER keeps us well informed as to whereabouts of friends and leaves nothing to be desired in the way of news.

NOTES FROM GOODRICH & MCLAUGHLIN'S CONSOLIDATED SHOWS.—Business since the opening at Bridgeport, Ct., April 26, has been far in excess of any previous season, and this, our fifth season, has opened most auspiciously. At Winsted, Ct., we experienced our first rain storm, but still business was large during the past week. Manager Goodrich has purchased several new horses, and now our outfit is second to none, and the stock the finest ever seen with a wagon show. Severn new Shetland stock will arrive this coming week and Mr. Goodrich will immediately break in a new pony act. Our new horse tent has arrived and a new top has been ordered for the annex. The Valorio Brothers joined May 8, at Thomaston, Ct., to do brothers and double trapeze, also their trick house and pantomime act. John Hoffman, cornet, and John Mack, tuba, have joined to strengthen the band. Prof. Brown and his assistants are proving themselves a feature of the show with their up to date music. Mrs. J. W. Goodrich is making the hit of the big show with her high school menage act. Master Lawrence is also scoring heavily. The Simpsons, impalment act, and the Clymer Sisters, dancing specialties, are catching on in great shape in the concert. The concert, as usual with this show, is very strong. Art. L. Selby, our general agent, spent May 14 with us at Bristol, Ct., and reports everything booming along the road. This season our paper is all new, and we are using lots of it. A new advance wagon was put on at Meriden, and is in charge of John A. Coles.

NOTES FROM THE SKERBECK FAMILY & CO.'S GREAT RAILWAY SHOWS.—Fred B. Thompson, our advance manager, left April 25 with two bill posters. We opened our season at Dorchester, Wis., May 6. Our grand military band is a feature, carrying eighteen musicians. Mr. Thompson, our hustling advance manager, is meeting with fine success, and we look ahead for a profitable as well as a pleasant season.

NOTES FROM MARTIN LE ROY'S HONEST SHOW.—We open May 13 the first season of this show. This is as complete a little circus as was ever loaded on seven wagons. 80ft. round top, 30ft. middle piece, 30ft. dressing room, 30x60ft. "kid show," 16x20ft. cook house, and 20x30ft. horse tent. Sixteen head of stock transports the show. All the canvas is new, and the wagons have all been done over and look like new. We have made a radical change in our advertising. Instead of the exaggerated old time method of big adjectives we have adopted a truthful conversational method. All cuts and pictorial matter represent only what will be seen, and are fully as attractive as the impossible. Martine Le Roy, sole owner, is but twenty-two years of age, and made his first appearance in the profession seven years ago, as magician and "Punch" performer, with the late T. K. Burk's Shows, at Covington, Ky. Harry Austin, advance, with one billposter: Jake Segman, boss canvas man, with five men; Charles Crumer, boss hostler, with three men; Harry Dill, leader; James Wilson, Frank Wilson, F. Clymer, Ed. Side show: Martine Le Roy, lecturer, magic, ventriloquism, Punch and Judy and fire king; Mlle. Lenora, Circassian queen and snake charmer, and Fiedardo, strong man. We look for a very prosperous season through Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

Hanson, Pete Murphy, Sammy Wildes, Christian Peipenbrick, billposters, and Lew Taylor, programmer and porter.

WELSH BROS.' "NEWEST GREAT" NOTES.—The "Newest Great" has just finished the fourth week of the present season, to unusual big business. The towns of Lancaster, Columbia, Lebanon and Reading, all in the Keystone State, furnished us with S. R. O. audiences day and night. The big show performance, with twenty-two acts in the programme, is proving a revelation to our patrons, and is conceded to be the best ever offered for review by this management. The Oriental gymnastic specialties and divertisements by the Akimoto Japanese Troupe, the sensational aerial display of West and Zanta, and Harry Mohn's comedy dogs and acting ponies are the feature cards, and their acts are received in a most enthusiastic manner at every entertainment. John Lancaster and Maud Haywood are featured heavily in the concert and after entertainment. The double free balloon ascension and parachute jump given daily by Prof. David McDade and Victoria Mason are proving to be a magnet in drawing large crowds to the show lot. All of the folks with the show are enjoying excellent health, and peace reigns supreme throughout our camp.

NOTES FROM THE R. R. ORTON FAMILY SHOW.—We did not open our tenting season until May 6, at Bronson, Kan., owing to excessive rains, which still continue to fall, but we are on time and doing a good business. We have established a printing office with the show, and believe we are the first show who has ever accomplished it. Having tried it for about a month it is a complete success. We have a 40ft. round top, with 20ft. middle piece, four lengths of seats, 12x14 dressing room, 12x24 horse tent, three wagons. We feature the Kid Band.

CHAS. BERNARD, secretary, telegraphs THE CLIPPER of the organization at Atlanta, Ga., May 15, of the South Eastern States Bill Posters' Association. Myatt, in charge of advance No. 3, with one man and a programmer, this brigade doing all country work. We are now touring Virginia with success. The OLD RELIABLE is an ever welcome guest, and is eagerly sought for by all the boys.

DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

MME. RAFAELA PATTINI, an opera singer, died last week in Berlin, Ger., aged thirty-four years. Mme. Pattini was brought to this country several years ago by Col. Mapleson for a season of Italian opera at the Academy of Music, this city, but failed to meet with any degree of success. She returned to Europe, and after singing for a short season at Covent Garden, London, Eng., she went to Germany to sing in concerts. She finally secured an engagement at the Royal Opera House, Berlin, where she attracted the attention of the Emperor, and was in public favor for some time. From there she went to Frankfort, where she met and married Dr. Falcetti, and retired from the profession. She finally left her husband to return to the stage, and last Winter she went to Berlin, where she had made her greatest success, but, being unable to secure an engagement, she was reduced to poverty.

MELYTHA ADAMS, an opera singer, died May 6, at the home of her sister, in Ridley Park, Pa. The deceased was born in Evansville, Ind., twenty-five years ago, was a sister of George J. Adams, who was killed by an explosion at the Pittsburg (Pa.) Exposition, Sept. 22, of last year, and her death is said to have been caused by the shock resulting from the accident. Miss Adams had been in the profession for twelve years, her first public appearance having been 1887. Later she was a member of the New Orleans Juvenile Opera Co. and had also been with Damrosch and Seidl. The past season she had been a member of Weber's Parisian Widows Co. The remains were interred 9, in Arlington Cemetery.

GLEN D. BROWN, a musician, died May 7, at the home of his parents in Woodstock, Vt., aged twenty-three years. He played the slide trombone and had at various times been connected with the Castle Square Theatre Orchestra in Boston, Mass., and other orchestras in that city. Last Summer he was a member of a band which played at Revere Beach, on Boston Bay. His mother and father survive him.

ANSON M. STRATTON, who built the first concert hall at Coney Island, N. Y., died May 13, at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., from heart disease. He was sixty-two years of age and was called the pioneer of Coney Island. He was among the first to buy property at that place, when it was little more than a swamp, and at one time controlled a large portion of the island. He leaves a widow and one son.

R. A. FURNISS, an actor, died May 11, at Barrie, Can. He made his first appearance in September, 1897, with Fred H. Wilson, with whom he remained for some time. He was filling an engagement with Marks Bros.' Co. at the time of his death.

HENRY LEIGHTON, an actor, died May 13, at the Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa., from abdominal tumor. He was a native of England and was forty-three years of age.

HENRI FRANCOIS BECQUE, a dramatist, died May 12, in Paris, Fr. He was born April 9, 1837, in that city, and after a good education he entered the government service and later became private secretary to a Russian Prince. His first dramatic work appeared in 1867. It was an operatic libretto based on "Sardanapalus." "The Prodigal Son," a five act comedy, followed the next year. Then came "Michel Pauper," in 1870, and "The Rape" a year later. But none of his works met with any degree of success, and it was not until "The Ravens" was produced at the Comedie Francaise, Paris, Sept. 14, 1882, that he won any fame as an author of stage works. "Respectable Women" and "Navette," one act plays, were his next offerings, and these were followed by "The Parisian," which won him a place among the most noted of modern French dramatists. He had much influence over the younger French dramatic writers, who today use his works as a model for playwriting. He was a member of Richard Mansfield's Co.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Charleston.—At Owens' Academy of Music Keogh's Stock Co. played to big business. Confederate Reunion week May 8-13. Week of 15 they play Augusta, Ga., and return here 22, for an indefinite run.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago.—Summer is officially here, as far as several amusement places are concerned. The Masonic Temple Roof Garden has opened up full blast, and is ready to entertain shirt waisted and white ducked patrons with vaudeville or cooling drinks, whether the thermometer be down or up. At the Great Northern Manager E. D. Stair inaugurates his changed policy for warm weather, that of producing burlesque instead of playing combinations. Ward & Vokes' company opens with "The Floor Walker," a take off on bazaars: "Sponging Life," a travesty on "Sporting Life," and "The Three Must Get Theres," which is "The Three Musketeers" done over. The principal other novelties are Otis Skinner, in "Rosemary," at the Grand, and West's Minstrels at McVicker's. Business has been fair. The Adelphi and the Academy have closed the season and are dark.

GREAT NORTHERN.—Ward and Vokes are starting out hoping to occupy in Chicago this Summer the place held by Weber and Fields in New York. The stock burlesque company includes, besides the two principals, Lucy Daly, Margaret Daly Vokes, Eloise Mortimer, Emilie Beaupre, J. W. Early, George Sidney, Will West, Sidney Craven, Charles Pusey and others, and in addition, a large chorus. The opening is Tuesday night, May 16.

GRAND.—Otis Skinner, in "Rosemary," with Gretchen Lyons as his chief support, is the attraction here for the week. He has not been seen here as yet in his production of this play, although the piece itself had a highly successful run in Chicago two years ago. Stuart Robson started out last week with "Two Rogues and a Romance," and finished with "The Meddler." The first named piece, involved, purposeless and thoroughly amateurish, was marked a failure from the start. It lasted until Wednesday night, and then the bill was changed, proving a tonic for the box office. "A Runaway Girl" will be here for the next succeeding three weeks.

MCVICKER'S.—William H. West and his minstrel troupe are here for two weeks, to ladle out black face comedy and coon songs, as Mr. West is known to be capable of doing. Besides Mr. West's regular company additional specialties will be given by the Lykens, gymnasts; Merrill and Newhouse, trick bicyclists, and Golden, magician. "Sporting Life" wound up its twelve weeks' run with a flourish, and the figures of receipts given out by the management for that period run upwards of $100,000. "The Club's Baby" will be given its first American production here 28.

MASONIC TEMPLE ROOF GARDEN.—The house has been gone over and fixed up for the season, and it opened Sunday. The prices are 25 cents for matinees and 50 cents for evenings. The opening bill is headed by Maxwell and Simpson, in illustrated songs, and Reno and Richards, comedy acrobats. Others are: Waterbury Bros. and Tenney, the Dartos, Armanti, Cook and Clinton, Annie Kenwick and Hugh J. Emmett.

POWERS'.—Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre Co., which has long had an established reputation here for producing pretty plays well, has lost nothing of its prestige by "Trelawny of the Wells." This interesting drama of the big hoop skirt period took so well the first week that another week has been added to its allotted time. It will be seen this week and next, and the concluding week of the company's engagement will be taken up with "John Ingerfield." Mary Mannering, as Rose Trelawny, played the part in a way which endeared her to the audiences, while Elizabeth Tyree made a decided hit. Hilda Spong, a newcomer, established herself as a comedienne of ability. The rest of the company have for the most part been before the public so long that the standard of their performance goes without saying. There were Charles Walcot, Mrs. Walcot, Thomas Whiffen, Mrs. Whiffen, William Courtleigh, Charles H. Butler and others.

COLUMBIA.—The Alice Neilsen Co. entered upon its return engagement, in "The Fortune Teller," with large business. The house could not accommodate the crowds which turned out to see the performances earlier in the season, and the rest of the split run is coming out in somewhat the same way. Joseph Cawthorn, Richard Golden, Joseph Herbert and the others in the cast come in for a share of the enthusiasm, as before. The piece will remain at least a fortnight longer.

DEARBORN.—"The Masked Ball" was put on by the stock several weeks ago and it went so well that the comedy is repeated this week. Emmett Corrigan and Julia Stuart play leading roles. "The Two Orphans" drew good houses last week.

HOPKINS'.—The stock draws on Russia for its soul harrowing material, presenting "Michael Strogoff" in place of "Against the Tide," which brought many people to this theatre last week. The vaudeville list is made up of Blocksom and Burns, Annie Hart, Musical Dale and the Angelus Sisters.

BIJOU.—Hal Reed's melodrama, "Knobs o'Tennessee," which brought good business to this house not long ago, is back for a week. "The Prisoner of Algiers" drew fairly well last week.

STUDEBAKER.—The handsome auditorium has been filled at nearly every performance, "The Mikado" proving almost as big a success as when it was a novelty. The Castle Square Opera Co. changes the bill this week to "Trial by Jury" and "The Daughter of the Regiment." It is years since these two old operas have been heard in Chicago. The cast is as follows: "Daughter of the Regiment"—Marie, Laura Millard; Countess, Maud Lambert; Babette, Gertrude Quinlan; Tonio, Tom Green; Sulpice, Henry Norman; Bruno, Frank Moulan; Corporal De Bice, George Chapman. "Trial by Jury"—Judge, Frank Moulan; Usher, George Chapman; Defendant, Reginald Roberts; Counsel, W. G. Stewart; Foreman, C. R. Adams; Plaintiff, Gertrude Quinlan; Clerk, C. W. Meyers. The Castle Square Opera Co. has in preparation for next week "The Bohemian Girl" and for the week of May 22 the double bill, "Pinafore" and "Cavalleria Rusticana."

CHICAGO OPERA HOUSE.—Minnie Palmer is the star of the week at this house. With her company she puts on the sketch, "Rose Pompon." The Streator Zouaves entertain with drills, and then there are: Joe Flynn, Kelly and Violetti, Spence and Sartelle, Baby Mignon, Vouletti and Carlos, Lillian Jasmere, Gordon and Hunt, Walker and Wilson, Fred Cohan, Three Ellsworths, Condon and Norando, Delmonicio, and Traske and Gladdon.

OLYMPIC.—A sketch heads this bill, also, Jennie Satterlee and company putting on "Who's Safe." The rest of the programme includes: Charles A. Gardner, Manning and Weston, Minnie Renwood, boxing kangaroo, William Baxter, Lawrence Sisters, William Lang, Breton Runkel Trio, Mabel Hunter, Leland and Casey, May Hoey, Marion Brothers, Marie De Wolf, and Newhouse and Woodworth.

HAYMARKET.—Kohl & Castle inaugurated this week their new policy of only Sunday shows at this house. The bill is made up partially of performers who are appearing this week at one of their two other houses also, Minnie Palmer and company heading the list. Others are: Joe Flynn, Max Millian and Shields, Lorenz and Allen, Spence and Sartelle, Vouletti and Carlos, Harry Moore, Adams and Adams, George Lashwood and Lisbon and McCoy.

SAM T. JACK'S.—The Chow Chow Burlesque Co., which bears Sam T. Jack's name, is here this week, following a two weeks' successful engagement of the Bowery Burlesquers. "A Garden Party" and "The Female Students" are the burlesques. Nebbe Brothers, Elys and Rochelle, Ginnis and Regan, and Joy and Clayton furnish specialties.

CLARK STREET DIME MUSEUM.—Victorina, woman sword swallower, is the star feature this week. The Midway dancers remain, and there are other attractions.

MILES' LONDON DIME MUSEE.—Bookings on the top floor stage are: In the curio hall, Zola Zuletta, Miss Ponce, Cuban refugee; Tom Williams' trained dogs. On the main stage, vaudeville and Midway.

GOSSIP.—Maude Adams' engagement at Powers', in "Romeo and Juliet," begins June 5, and lasts but a week, after which "Because She Loved Him So" opens for the Summer. The seat sale for the "Romeo and Juliet" production opens May 18..... The Gaiety has been opened with an exhibition of league baseball games played in mimic by electricity..... Lincoln J. Carter will open the Court Theatre, which he has leased for five years, with "Remember the Maine," Aug. 13..... Alice Neilsen will go to Europe as soon as she completes her engagement at the Columbia..... Manager Harry L. Hamlin, of the Grand, is in New York to sign people for the coming production of Augustus Thomas' "Arizona," at his theatre. Olive May will play a prominent role when the piece is put on, June 12. ..... R. A. Roberts will stage the production of "The Club's Baby" at McVicker's, 28. Among those who will take part are Hope Ross, Isabelle Urquhart, Eugenie Blair, Arthur Forrest and Percy Brooke..... Joseph Kilgour, who appeared with Wilton Lackaye in the "Charles O'Malley" production, will play Robert Hilliard's role in "Sporting Life" for the rest of the season.

Bloomington.—At the Grand Opera House the James-Kidder-Warde Combination played to big business May 6. Robert Mantell drew another good crowd 8. The "Passion Play" pictures are booked for 11-13. Seats went on sale Tuesday for Richard Mansfield, who comes 15, and in less than two hours the entire house was sold out. At the advanced prices of $2.50 for parquet and other parts of the house in proportion such a sale is unprecedented here. The receipts on this attraction will easily break all records for this theatre.

Decatur.—At the Powers Grand the Holden Comedy Co. closed a successful week May 6. Robt. Mantell, in "Monbars," 10, had good business. Richard Mansfield's "Cyrano de Bergerac," 12, packed the house from gallery to parquet at more than double the regular prices. With the latter attraction the regular season closed..... Fred and Kitty Owen dropped in on us 7, to spend a few days at home..... Ben F. Dodson leaves here night of 13 for your city to fill an engagement.

MISSOURI.

St. Louis.—Last week was the week of the circus and of the visit of the Nashville. The two novelties, combined with several rainy evenings, pretty well spoiled the theatrical business. The Columbia is the only down town house open now, but one or two of the Summer theatres open this week. Of all the attractions the best in drawing power was RINGLING'S CIRCUS.—This year it opened under canvas, the indoor engagement here at the Coliseum last year not proving very profitable. The features are more numerous and expensive than at any previous engagement here. Some of the best of the features are the sixty-one horse act of John O'Brien, Crandall and his mule, Nellie Tournour and the elephant band. Attendance was very good, indeed, although not what clearer weather would have given. The staff is about the same as in previous years. The Ringlings are all with the show. The press agent is N. W. Freeman, whom all theatrical people know as "Doc." He closed his "At Gay Coney Island" season two weeks ago. From here the show went to Kansas City.

SUBURBAN GARDENS opened May 14, under the management of Mr. Juanaplo and Mr. Gumpertz, of the Imperial. The offering consisted of both vaudeville and minstrel. In the minstrel circle were the familiar faces of Carroll Johnson, Geo. Sully, Lew Sully, Tom Lewis and George Wilson.

COLUMBIA.—Last week's bill was furnished by Hopkins' Trans-Oceanic Vaudeville Co. Among the prominent acts were Kara, Josephine Gossman, Waterbury Bros. and Tenny, Wilson and Leicester, Charlie Case, Polk and Kollins, and the Le Paige Sisters. This week the Columbia is the only regular house open, and its offerings are: Melville and Stetson, the Pantzer Bros., Cressy and Daye, Lizzie and Vime Daly, Knox Wilson, Moreland, Thompson and Roberts, LeRoy and Clayton, and Tovolo.

HAVLIN'S.—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" was the attraction last week. It was the time honored production in the time honored way. Attendance slim.

STANDARD.—Fred Rider's Night Owls were the attractions and drew fairly good houses. Nina Diva was featured in "Diana at the Bath." The vitagraph pictures seemed to be another favorite turn. The vaudeville acts were very good and the burlesquers were of the usual type. This closes the season.

NEWS.—At a meeting of the Columbia Theatre Co. last week Jack W. Tinkler was elected president, Charles Sutter vice president, and Frank R. Tate secretary and treasurer. It was decided to extend the lobby to about twice its present size, build a new box office and refurnish the basement as a bowling alley and billiard hall..... The Grand, last week, was only open Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday, when benefits were given to Manager Giffan, Hobart Bosworth and Grayce Scott, and John B. Mayer, respectively. The receipts were flattering and showed that the public appreciated the really artistic work of the Grand stock company this season..... A benefit was given Minnie Seligman; 8, at the Imperial. The offering was "Forget Me Not."..... At the circus grounds, on the afternoon of April 30, just as the canvas men were raising the big tent, the furious wind of that day struck it. The big crowd of spectators rushed to it for protection from the pouring rain. The foreman—with quick wit—drove them back, and none too soon, for the guys, only partly adjusted, gave way, and the big canvas fell to the ground. Several of the big poles were broken and the canvas badly torn. Luckily only one woman was hurt, and she not severely..... Kate Mayo, an equestrienne at Ringling's Circus, was called to Chicago last week on account of a serious accident to her daughter there..... Uhrig's Cave, with a stock company, headed by Malcolm Williams and Gus Weinberg, opens 21, for a four weeks' season, after which Alex. Spencer will take control with an opera company..... Marian Park will open 24, under management of Prof. Ernest..... Mr. Abrens, treasurer at the Columbia, acts as business manager of the Cave..... Josephine Gossman, the well known black face entertainer, suffered a peculiar loss last week, when the two little black pickaninnies whom she uses in a cake walking turn were kidnapped from the door of the theatre..... W. W. Freeman, press agent for Ringlings, is contemplating putting out a new venture on the line of "At Gay Coney Island," which he has run for three seasons. Mr. Freeman was manager for Frank Daniels for seven years, and is extremely popular in the profession..... Forest Park Highlands opened its season 14 with a week's benefit to St. Louis Police Relief Fund. The entertainment is vaudeville and under the control of Col. Hopkins, who will manage the Highlands again this season. Among the features offered are: Metweep Troupe, McAvoy and May, Lew Hawkins, Three Mortans, Brothers Le Moyne, Gallando and Le Claire, and Haynes.

Kansas City.—The season is surely drawing to a close. Only two houses are booked regularly and they will finish about June 1, and then the vaudeville at Fairmount Park will be the only amusement for pleasure seekers.

COATES' OPERA HOUSE.—Richard Mansfield, in "Cyrano de Bergerac," will appear May 16, 20, to advanced prices. Last week Sauer, the pianist, gave a concert to a well filled house, 8. He played in a masterful manner and delighted his hearers. On 9, 10, "Twenty Years of Freedom" was given by local negroes numbering one hundred and fifty, for the benefit of local charity. "Darktown" turned out those nights and packed the theatre. A very creditable performance was given. Jay Strawn de Silva, treasurer of the Coates, will benefit 22. The programme will be made up by locals.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—May Irwin, in "Kate Kip, Buyer," had a big week at this theatre 8-13. The Thursday and Saturday matinees packed the gallery with ladies. The show (which had its premier here last season) has been much improved, and is a go from start to finish. Miss Irwin sang ten or twelve coon songs, with her usual success. John Sparks, Ignacio Martinetti and Steve Maley all did good work, while Robt. Lowe, in the straight comedy role, deserves special mention. This closes the season at this house, and there are rumors that there will be many improvements in the theatre before the opening next season.

ORPHEUM.—Last week Sunday business was big, and it continued fair throughout the week. The big hit of the bill was made by McAvoy and May, who had more ginger than has been seen in any act here this season. They are rightly billed "The Cyclonic Comedians," for if any act ever went with a rush their's certainly did. They were a hit with a big H. Clifford and Huth had a clever sketch. Mr. Clifford's dancing being especially clever. Florrie West sang herself into favor. Manning and Weston, in "The Irish Pawnbroker," served to introduce Willie Weston's pleasing voice. The Three Franklin Sisters sang, danced and cake walked acceptably. Fred Niblo had a fair monologue. The Gypsy Quintet had a new, good, high class singing act, and De Boe, the upside down man, had a good closing act. This week's roster is the Hengler Sisters, Barnes and Sisson, Hanley and Jarvis, Clarice Vance, Esmereida, Boyle and Graham, the Three De Bollen Bros. and Arthur Amsden.

AUDITORIUM.—The Woodward Stock Company presented "Jim the Penman" in its usual artistic manner last week. Jane Kennark, Willis Granger, Wilson Enos, Gertrude Berkely and James Fulton were all well cast. Hal Davis, who has been out of bill on account of what threatened to be a serious illness, resumed his place in the company and was given an ovation on his reappearance. This week, "The Lost Paradise," and next week, for the first time here, "The Two Escutcheons." The house will close on June 3, and for the final week the audiences will select the play they wish to see. Ballots are given out at every performance.

GILLIS.—This house will set into the game next week, when Fred Rider's "Night Owls" will appear.

CLIPPERINGS.—Ringling Bros.' Circus will show here May 15, 16, and if their business of last season is any indication they will do an immense business..... Lloyd Brown's Pavilion, at Joplin, Mo., will open 14, with the following bill: Houdini, Jess Vernon, De Boe, Martin's canines, St. Clair and Lorena, and Zoa Mathews..... The May Irwin Co. will not close here, as previously reported, but go from here to Indianapolis and Columbus..... M. B Donovan, manager of the Leavenworth (Kan.) Theatre, was in the city last week, the guest of Manager Judah, of the Grand..... (Doc) W. W. Freeman, of "At Gay Coney Island" and "A Railroad Ticket" managerial fame, is the press representative of the Ringling Bros.' Circus, and is in the city doing good work..... Gov. Bob Taylor, of Tennessee, gave his lecture on "Love, Laughter and Song" at the Academy of Music, to good attendance, 12..... Joe Lucacy, the only survivor of the once famous Albino Family, who has been exhibited with Barnum, later with Lemen Bros. and with museums throughout the country, has been taken to the Poor Farm here, and an endeavor is being made to get him in the County Asylum. He has been cared for the last three years by Rade Harnden, an ex-circus man, but had become unmanageable, so this course was decided on..... E. L. Brannan, of the Cooper Show, was in the city 8. ..... Brooks and Carr, knockabout team, were in the city last week..... Gillihan and Delmore, sketch team, passed through, en route to join the O. B. Beach & Co. Repertory Co. 10..... Joe Caldwell, formerly of the stage force of the Coates and Orpheum Theatres, who enlisted in the late war, has been honorably discharged, and is in the city, visiting old friends..... Ruscoe and Simms passed through here 8, to join the Diamond Dick Show at Pittsburg, Kas..... Mrs. Anna Scott will entertain the ladies of the Ringling Bros. Show at her home during their stay here. The male contingent will be looked after by Burt Scott and Harry Gray, at "The Capitol" (the circus headquarters)..... The Woodward Stock Co. will produce a new curtain raiser next week. It is written by Robert Clarke, a local newspaper man, and is called "Too Late."

Springfield.—At the Baldwin Theatre Hoyt's Comedy Co. opened week of April 2?, to S. R. O., playing repertory, at popular prices. Gov. Robert Taylor closed the regular season of this house May 10, in his lecture on "Love, Laughter and Song," to a packed house.

ZOO PARK.—Capt. Bob Cook's water show and fireworks company, presenting "The Battle of Manila" and "The Battle of Santiago," did extraordinarily big business 7.

NEW JERSEY.

Newark.—The Newark Theatre closed its doors for the season Saturday night, May 13. The Corse Payton Comedy Co. finished a highly successful engagement of four weeks on that date. It was an experiment at popular prices, and the result was gratifying. The company closed its long and prosperous season of forty odd weeks, and will take a much needed rest. There is some talk of their returning for a short season in the Summer.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—"The Gunner's Mate," a new melodrama, by W. J. McKiernan and Hugh Gallagher, was given its first presentation here on Monday night, 15. It tells a story of life on a modern warship, and contains strong dramatic interest. It has been well placed in the hands of the stock company, and they have put much intelligent effort in the production. The original cast: Clement Carroll, H. Coulter Brinker; Herbert Quanley, Robert Neil; Philip Farnsworth, John Shaw; Ben Lukens, Frank Richardson; Robert Burns, Joe Totten; Jimmy Legs, Geo. Neville; Frisco Pete, Sedley Brown; Arthur Gladden, Juliette De Grignan; Mildred Emerson, Una Abell; Plum Duff, Sadie L. Handy; Mrs. Lukens, Amy Stone, and Nora, Alice May. The piece requires a large amount of scenery, and Artist Swart has labored diligently and succeeded in embodying the author's ideas with entire satisfaction. A feature of the work is a view of the U. S. S. New York, off Tompkinsville, and another shows the interior of the vessel's fire room. On Monday, 15, the Newark branch of the Naval Reserves received a benefit, and incidentally they executed a drill on the stage. On Wednesday evening the three hundred and fiftieth performance of the stock company will be duly celebrated by the presentation of albums containing reviews of the different plays and likenesses of the company. On Thursday night Messrs. Frank Richardson and Joe Totten will be given a benefit. Next week "The Banker's Daughter" will be the attraction.

WALDMANN'S NEW THEATRE.—The Milton Aborn Opera Co. is in its third week here, and its popularity is unabated. This week is presented "Martha" and "Il Trovatore," and the sale of seat points to increased business. A good house enjoyed the performance Monday night, 15. Manager Rice returned here this week. All the arrangements have been completed for the assuming of the management by Mr. Hyams on June 1.

WALDMANN'S OPERA HOUSE.—Sam Scribner's Morning Glories plays a return date this week. The patrons of this house have always appreciated Mr. Scribner's efforts to give them a good show, and they are taking advantage of the present opportunity. The specialities include: Grant and Graot, Madeleine Franks, Wills and Barron, McCabe and Sabine, McCloud and Melville, and Preston and Balmaine. The Monte Carlo Girls played to fairly good business last week. Flynn's Big Sensation is booked for the week of 22.

EGBERT'S MUSIC HALL.—Mr. Egbert has sold his interest in this place to Jere Mahoney, and Mr. Mahoney has taken control. The policy of the hall will remain about as before. This week the people are: Eva Mitchell, Fanny Burnett, Maggie Bennett, Kitty Walsh, Ellen Dale and Jere Mahoney.

AUDITORIUM.—The season of Sunday concerts which Manager Harry Healey has given here have been highly successful. The last one occurred 14, and the following people appeared: Murphy and Nolan, Eddy Clarke, Barr and Evans, the Marrenelles, Nellie Linton, Lynch and Jewell, Harry Thompson and Miss Tommy Watson. The house is now closed and will reopen Sept. 2.

NOTES.—Virginia Jackson, of California, who has become a great favorite here with the Columbia Theatre Stock Co., left for her home Sunday, 15. After two months' rest she will return and open with the stock in the Fall..... Articles of incorporation of the Hyde & Behman Amusement Co. were filed with the county clerk last week..... Newark Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, will hold its annual benefit at Jacobs' Theatre May 22. The N. Y. Standard Comedy Co. will present "The Politician."

Jersey City.—Wm. H. Crane and his admirable company presented "The Head of the Family," to a large and appreciative audience, at the Academy, May 13. As a matter of record this was Mr. Crane's first appearance in this city.

BIJOU.—With the departure of "Yon Yonson," 13, marks the close of the first regular season at this house. Business during the week was large. The Fresh Air Fund had night of 15, when a fine vaudeville bill was the feature. The people were: Pauline Hall, Lizzie Evans and Harry Mills, Florence Bindley, Harry Edison's dog, "Doc," O'Connell and Mack, Margaret and Lizzie McKigney, Queenie Wilmot, Mons. Galando, Frank Cotton's Donkey Circus, Gilbert Girard, the Greater New York Quartet, and Rosina. The house had been entirely sold before the opening. Manager Holmes deserves a word of praise for his indefatigable efforts in making it a success.

BON TON.—Sheridan & Fanst's Metropolitan Burlesquers is the reigning attraction. The American Burlesquers gave good satisfaction to fair returns week ending 13. The testimonial to Manager Dinkins, 14, was largely attended.

NOTES.—The Forepaugh-Sells Bros.' allied shows visit this city 20..... The Lafayette College Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Club is at the Jersey City Club Theatre 19..... "Yon Yonson" closes the season at the Star Theatre, New York, 20.... Treasurer Harry Hymas, formerly of the Academy, and now the new lessee of Waldmann's New Theatre, at Newark, states that he will have the roof garden open for business July 1. Mr. Hymas is now engaging suitable attractions for the Summe. These people leave the Academy with him: Mechanic John E. Langable, Door Keeper Will Moran and Electrician John Burke..... The American Comedy Four, all this season with "Yon Yonson," join a minstrel company at Philadelphia week of 29. ..... Westlyn, Vincent and Westlyn, members of the Twelfth Regiment, N. Y. S. Vol., band during the recent trouble, are making ready for the road with a novel musical act. They are at present making their headquarters at Detroit, Mich..... Machinist Harry Finkle, of the "Superba" Co., will have a carousel and swings at Orange, N. J., during the heated term.

Elizabeth.—At the Star Theatre the Chamber Music Concert, May 12, for the benefit of the Old Ladies' Home, had a good sized audience. The Kaltenborn String Quartet, of New York, rendered excellent music. Miss Bernardine Sargent, of New York, captivated the audience in several solos, among the number being the "Jewel Song," from "Faust." Mr. Beyer-Hane, 'cellist, elicited much enthusiasm. The concert netted about $300. To arrive: "Tennessee's Pardner," 24, for the benefit of Col. W. M. Morton. A long list of volunteer talent will fill in the programme, making the performance probably the most noteworthy of any of the season locally. Al Reeves' Burlesque Co. comes 27, for the benefit of the stage hands. "The Widow from the West" comes 29, 30. First night will be for the benefit of Hibernian Engine Co. Elizabeth Musical Club 25.

THE LYCEUM THEATRE was dark week of 8, except rental for Orphan Asylum. "The Rajah" is booked for an early date. Drake's Band will soon begin its Friday night concerts.

TIPS.—Manager Elroy, of the Elroy Stock Co., spent Sunday with his family in Elizabeth, and stated that his company opened at Atlantic City 1, and has been doing an excellent business. His Eastern company opens the Lyceum Theatre in Elizabeth in August, and the Western company will open Taylor's Opera House, Trenton, the same month.

Paterson.—At the Opera House the Swan Stock Co. presented "The Man of Mystery," to only fair business, May 8-10. Jim Jeffries was advertised to appear in connection with an athletic co. 13, but owing to his inability to arrive in time the money paid for admissions was refunded. Santapelli, hypnotist, having repudiated his contract, Manager Goetschius has arranged with the Swan Stock Co. for 15 and week. For week of 22 we have Mitchell's Players.

BIJOU THEATRE.—Cliff W. Grant's Little Egypt Burlesquers closed a very satisfactory week 13. The Parisian Belles Gay Burlesquers will occupy the stage at this house 15, and instead of the Monte Carlo Girls Co., previously announced. The Bon-Ton Burlesquers is underlined for 22 and week.

THE ADVANCE GUARD of the Adam Forepaugh-Sells Bros.' Circus has done its work in a very creditable manner, and Paterson, which is said to be one of the best circus towns in the country, will enjoy a holiday 22 in consequence thereof. The people in this burgh never appear to outgrow their love for the sawdust ring.

Plainfield.—Mitchell's All Star Players was the attraction at Music Hall week of May 8, and was well received by good audiences at each performance. Dramatically speaking, the organization was one of the best appearing the entire season, and gave great satisfaction. The plays presented were: "The Galley Slave," "Why Jones Left Home," "The Red Cross Nurse," "The Boy from Boston," "The Middleman," "The Two Kids" and "Kidnapped." The Pecks, Will and Wayde, the Elmore Sisters, Robbie Parkinson and Grace Beebe gave specialties between acts. The performances of the Mitchell Co. mark the closing engagement of the present dramatic season, and the second season of Manager Maze Edwards' management of Music Hall has been fairly remunerative. He has renewed his lease for another year and promises many strong attractions following the opening of his next regular season, which begins Aug. 17 with the initial performance of George Thatcher's new minstrel company. This will be followed by the engagement of Kennedy's Players week of 21. A number of rentals have been made for months of June and July. Before the opening of next season the house will be thoroughly cleaned and renovated, and many improvements made on the stage and in the dressing rooms. Manager Edwards leaves for his proposed California trip the coming week. The Catholic Union of this city is to have a benefit performance Friday, May 26, and has secured for the occasion Al Reeves' big company of whites and blacks. George Roberts, business manager for Harry Jacobs' Burlesque Co., is visiting his father and family in this city..... George Rogers, musical director of Music Hall, has been engaged to supply music and all amusements for the Hotel Hunterson, beginning June 1..... T. R. Perry, manager advance car No. 1 of J. H. La Pearl's Circus, was in town 10. The circus shows here 24. Mr. Perry will be the manager of John F. Leonard's "Two Jolly Rovers" Co. next season. The company will play here Sept. 15.

Hoboken.—The Mitchell All Star Players opened their week at the Lyric May 14, with "The Galley Slave." The Elmore Sisters are billed as a special feature. The attendance was large. During their stay they will change their bill nightly. Night of 22 the Hoboken Elks will have their annual benefit. Week of 29 Harry Clark's Repertory Co. The Bavarian Peasant Players finished a profitable stay 13.

Trenton.—At Taylor's Opera House the Princeton Triangle Club, May 10, produced an original burlesque, entitled "The Pirates of Penzance," to a fair sized audience. "A Spring Chicken," 13, had fair business. The season at this house is closed. ..... The Bijou Theatre is dark 15 and week.

GEORGIA.

Atlanta.—The Grand, after being closed for some weeks, will reopen May 18, with the Thanhouser-Hatch Stock Co., in "The Charity Ball." The company includes: Frank Hatch, in charge of the stage; James G. Brophy, Lorimer Johnson, Allen Patton, Frank Robers, Irving Brooks, Rolette Berthelet, Gertrude Magill, Nan Miffin, Violet Rand, Emma Maddern, Mina Ferry, Lucile Vernon and Sargent Lester.

COLUMBIA.—The season closed at this house 13. The Robson Theatre Co. held the boards 9-13, meeting with fair success.

LAKEWOOD PARK THEATRE did only fairly well week of 8. Fred. and Forrest were well received. They close 13. J. D. Bavies was decidedly clever in his act.

EAST LAKE PAVILION.—The Summer season opens under the management of M. M. Snider, 15. The Peters & Walters Co. will be the attraction.

COLORADO.

DRAMATIC.

A WAGER, Chicago.—The first dramatic conversion of Mrs. Stowe's novel, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was written by C. W. Taylor, and was first produced at Purdy's National Theatre, New York City, on Aug. 23, 1852. It was not a success and was soon withdrawn. George L. Aiken's version was first produced at Troy, N. Y., on Sept. 27, 1852. Prof. Hewett, of Baltimore, Md., wrote a play which was produced in that city Jan. 5, 1852. It was called "Uncle Tom's Cabin as it Is," and was not founded upon the novel, but was intended to offset Mrs. Stowe's work.

W. B., Washington.—Our necrology records contain only the names of those actually engaged in the amusement business in some capacity, and although notice of the death of the one to whom you refer may have appeared in our columns, it would not under our rules be culled for special record, hence we cannot trace it. We advise you to write to the husband, whom you may address in our care.

W. A. B., Canandaigua.—Edwin Booth died June 7, 1893, in his apartment in the Player's Club, in this city. After the death of Lawrence Barrett, which occurred March 20, 1891, Mr. Booth continued to fill the dates made for their joint starring tour, and made his last professional appearance April 4, 1891, in "Hamlet," at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, N. Y.

C. L.—The play was not successful, and the tour was abandoned. May Irwin never appeared in it.

J. F. C., Galveston.—The paramount duty of an advance agent is to so boom his attraction as to secure a good paying house upon the first night. His duties in detail are too numerous to permit of our here setting them forth.

F. W. C., Sac City.—We are not at all versed in hypnotism, nor do we wish to express an opinion concerning the merit of any teacher.

M. I., Trenton.—The company is not known to us. The letter will be advertised and will doubtless reach the party, as much of his mail comes in our care.

MRS. C. B. K., Syracuse.—There is no book published that will serve your purpose. You should engage an agent.

J. F. G., Troy.—The whereabouts of the party is unknown to us. Address letter in our care and we will advertise it.

READER.—We practically know nothing of the company and cannot give you the name of the manager, but we will advertise a letter if you will send one in our care bearing the name of the company.

G. W. F., Sacramento.—Address the parties in care of THE CLIPPER.

O. C. P., Brooklyn.—1. Address A. A. McCormick, Broadway Theatre Building, New York City. 2. We suppose that some changes have been made. 3. No, the case is hopeful.

MRS. E. C. C., Philadelphia.—The banjoist Glynn, to whom you refer, is dead. The whereabouts of the other parties is unknown to us, but if you will address them in our care we will advertise the letters.

V. A. P., North Manchester.—Address Wm. Nelson, 13 Van Norden Street, Cambridge, Mass.

E. M., Williamsport.—We do not know who publishes the song. Write to our song publishing advertisers for catalogues.

MISS M., Lansingburg.—Address the parties in care of THE CLIPPER.

I. K. S., Newark.—We have been unable to learn who put in the attraction. The further information you seek may be obtained by reading THE CLIPPER each week.

J. R.—The company has closed its season and returned to England.

H. L., Chicago.—You will be most likely to secure engagements by advertising in THE CLIPPER. See rates at head of this column.

J. A. F., Wilmington.—If your voice is all that you claim it to be, and has also had the advantage of training, it would be well for you to come to New York as soon as possible. Good tenors are in active demand, but for principal roles in opera you must know something of acting.

M. H., Portland.—Address Geo. A. Kingsbury, manager Castle Square Opera Co., American Theatre, New York City.

D. P., Philadelphia.—We do not suppose that the elder Salvini ever appeared in the "Three Guardsmen" at any time in his career. He did not appear in it in this country, but it was in the repertory of his son, Alexander Salvini, now deceased.

D. M., Detroit.—The description of an act counts for little, and we are consequently unable either to estimate your worth or your chances. You would do well to apply to a vaudeville agent.

W. I. JR., New Orleans.—We never advise anyone to go upon the stage. Read matter with reference to this subject under head of "Review and Comment" in this issue.

K. AND J., Baltimore.—We cheerfully grant the permission you seek.

A. M., Yonkers.—1. Address L. Blum, 1180 Broadway, this city. 2. Yes, as a rule. 3. It is tolerably sure.

A PROFESSIONAL, Newark.—You cannot obtain a copyright for an act.

B. G., Paterson.—The letter for McCoy has been claimed. The other letter is still here.

ANXIOUS, New Orleans.—1. We know nothing more concerning the party than was contained in the obituary notice which appeared in our issue of April 29. 2. The actress Madge Yorke was killed by James B. Gentry, in Philadelphia, on Feb. 17, 1895. 3. He is in jail, the Eastern Penitentiary we think, in that city.

J. E. T., Brooklyn.—Address the party in care of THE CLIPPER.

W. F. B., Pittsburg.—If you are beginners you would probably not get more than thirty-five dollars per week.

B. BROS., Kankakee.—We have as yet no information concerning circus tours in your locality. It might benefit you to advertise the ground in THE CLIPPER. See rates at head of this column.

G. W. G., Sapulpa.—1. Address the parties in care of THE CLIPPER. 2. Advertise in our columns. See rates at head of this column. 3. Address Major J. B. Pond, Everett House, New York City.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

F. D., Chicago.—It was not on the present polo grounds that feat was accomplished, but on the property south of that known as Manhattan Field, and at the time you have reference to, 1889, was called the Polo Grounds. Oliver Tebeau, manager of the St. Louis team, formerly the Clevelands, was the first player to bat a ball over the centre field fence, and he received $100 from Mr. Coogan, now president of Manhattan, for performing the feat. "Buck" Ewing also received $100 from Mr. Coogan for batting a ball over the same fence. But they were the only ones who were ever paid for doing so.

T. J. O'B., Hartford.—D is right. It has been officially decided that the first game is the one regularly scheduled for that day.

A. B., New Brunswick.—1. Not necessarily. 2. There are cases where players have been paid and afterwards appeared in the amateur ranks.

J. S.—There is no question about Arthur Cummings, the once noted pitcher, being the originator of curving the ball. THE CLIPPER of June 25, 1870, gave him credit of doing so in a game between the Star Club, of Brooklyn, and the then famous Cincinnati Red Stockings, played June 18, 1870, at the old Capitoline Grounds, Brooklyn, N. Y.

F. J. B., Philadelphia.—The ball is not considered in play in the case of a foul strike until it is held by the pitcher standing in his position, and the umpire has called play.

E. P., Rochester.—The Richmond team won the championship of the Atlantic League in 1898.

CARDS.

H. K., Brooklyn.—Having 990 points, and melding the "deuce" after taking a trick, the player was entitled to claim game.

J. H. G., New York.—1. A was the only player who had a right to play alone, he having ordered up the trump. 2. A euchre counts only two points, under any circumstances.

A. M., Fort Worth.—1. The player lost the bet on the deuce and won that on the eight. 2. It has not.

G. H., San Francisco.—Forty points are added for a capot, which includes the scores for the last trick and for the odd trick; consequently, the player's score would be 52.

ATHLETIC.

W. McD., Haverhill.—As we answered in a previous issue, we are without the record of the party mentioned. We would advise you to write to The Sporting Life, London, Eng., for the information desired.

TURF.

B. S., Brooklyn.—During the last week of the current month.

RING.

D. H., New York.—We have no record of such a meeting. Perhaps you are thinking of the glove bout between Jimmy Elliott and Dick Egan, "the Troy Terror," which took place at Irving Hall, this city, in 1882, Egan being knocked out.

M. J. F., New Haven.—Jim Corbett and "Kid" McCoy have never fought in the ring.

G. S. W., Portland.—You are right; the regular maximum limit of middleweight, under the rules of the ring, is 154lb.

CONSTANT READER, Port Richmond.—The fight between Jim Corbett and Peter Jackson in San Francisco, Cal., lasting sixty-one rounds, was stopped by the referee because the men were not doing any fighting, he declaring it "no contest." Had he declared it a draw each principal would have been entitled to one-half of the purse, which neither received.

MONTREAL.—We have no record of the bar room fight to which you refer.

MISCELLANEOUS

W. McG., Waltham.—That is a question which no one can answer with positiveness, and we prefer not to guess at it.

H. & K., Worcester.—Write to the Scott Stamp and Coin Company, 18 East Twenty-third Street, New York.

C. C. A., Mazeppa.—A. G. Spalding & Bros., New York; Al. Reach & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

M. L. S., Youngstown.—Write to Robert Ingersoll & Bro., Cortlandt Street, New York.

D. C., Dallas.—Schuyler, Hartley & Graham, and Shannon, Miller & Crane, both New York.

J. E. W., Atlantic City.—See THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1899, which gives fastest railway times at all distances.

C. H., Corning.—According to your diagram No. 2 did not cross either behind or before No. 1, but, being directly behind in the first place, he simply pulled out and passed around No. 1, returning to the road directly in front of the latter. He would have had to be on the right of the other to have crossed to the left.

HANDSOME HAT, Hartford.—We cannot recommend anyone engaged in that line of business.

M. B., Yoakum.—The population of London, Eng., in 1891, when the last census was taken, was 4,231,431.

Checkers.

News of the Game.

James McEntee has been enjoying himself hugely lately. He recently played two matches with Joseph Collins. The score in the first match was: McEntee, 5; Collins, 1; drawn, 2. In the second the result was: McEntee, 4; Collins, 0; drawn, 4. And now there is another on tap. There is to be a match of sixteen games, Mr. McEntee concedes the odds of two wins to Mr. Collins.....Anything in the publishing line that A. Bryson & Co. undertake is bound to be a success. They have secured the copyright of the Scottish vs. English international match games, and will soon put it on the market.....The Chronicle-Telegraph says that: "The preliminary articles signed by C. F. Barker will be forwarded to Mr. Jordan at once, with a letter of definite information regarding the guarantee matches and other important information." "This letter will be signed by R. W. Patterson, Esq., Joseph Maize and H. F. McAteer." The articles and letter carrying the four names as given, will undoubtedly convince Mr. Jordan that America will give him a rousing reception, and while we are not conversant with the "other important information," we wish to be put on record as heartily endorsing the matter entire as sent by the above named gentlemen, hoping that they will see their way clear to increase their guarantees many times.....John Douglass, formerly of New York, now of Dalton, Mass., recently visited this city, and made it very lively for the players.

(a) Mr. Walcott, in Boston Herald, says this move is the introduction of a Boston idea.

(b) B to K 2 is considered more powerful. The text would have some good possibilities, if White 9..P to Q 4; for then the sacrifice of a Kt and B for two Ps and a R would trouble White considerably.

(c) B to Q 3 immediately was better; but even as played he had a good game.

(d) Black's later moves have yielded him the superior position, and this move wins a P, and leaves White's game in a wretched state.

American Chess Publications.

We hardly know whether to be glad or grieved at the revelations of the past week in relation to our A. C. P's. The former emotion was decidedly in the ascendant when The Am. Ch. Mag. came in, even if a month late; for it has quite recovered its old tone and brilliancy, its pictorial department being even more than usually elegant. Its groups of the cable players are every way excellent; the continuation of Mr. Pillsbury's "progress," full and interesting; its portrait and sketch of Bro. Seguin admirably fills a long felt desideratum.

Then comes the cold water douche of the other emotion. A card from Mr. Borsodi announces that the ownership of The A. C. M. is in litigation, supplemented by announcing the early publication of an "Am. Ch. Weekly," to be conducted with all the old time vigor and brilliance backed by an accumulated stock of experience.

Now we have the kindliest feelings for Chess Weeklies. England and Germany both have flourishing examples; but long observation teaches us that this country is not a congenial region for one. Besides, it is greatly to be feared that, under the circumstances, the two publications are quite capable of seriously harming if not destroying each other. Indeed, one writer, copied with evident gusto by Mr. B., sings the requiem of The A. C. M. in no uncertain strain. We hope not; but look upon lawsuits as a terror to every one—lawyers alone excepted.

Flotsam.

The season of the Brooklyn Chess League for 1899 was closed by the victor of the Dutch Arms C. C. Five clubs played the season through, two matches vs. each competitor. A complete summary stands thus:

Clubs.	Matches. Pld.	W.	L.	D.	Games. W.	L.
Dutch Arms	8	6	0	2	31½	16½
Exchange	8	4	2	2	28½	19½
Pillsbury	8	5	2	1	28½	19½
Bishops	8	0	7	1	18½	29½
Caxton	8	0	8	0	13	35

.....On his return from New Orleans Mr. Pillsbury went down to the Staten Island C. C., 5th inst., and gave a simultaneous vs. twenty Richmond Co. players, winning every game.....The much coveted Newnes Cable Trophy reached the Brooklyn C. C. May 5, looking as bright and inviting as though it was conscious of having got home again, no whit the worse for its three trans-Atlantic trips. Will it enjoy another?.....The Brooklyn and Cosmopolitan C. C.'s have had two team matches, ten a side, Brooklyn winning heavily, as follows: First match, Cosmos 1½, Brooklyn 8½; second do., 5th inst., Cosmos 3½, B. C. C., 6½; grand total, 5 to 15. On this second meeting it was not till board No. 7 that the C. C. C. won a game, No. 3, W. Frere vs. O. Roething, producing a draw. On Nos. 1, 2 and 4, P. Richardson, F. J. Marshall and H. Helms distinguished themselves by notable victories, over successively, G. H. Koehler, Maj. J. M. Hanham and J. Halpern. Mr. Bixby and Dr. Taber also carried Nos. 5 and 6 to victory. It would seem the proper caper that some of these come our way. Eh?.....On Sat., 6, Mr. Showalter tried his hand at a simultaneous in the Brooklyn Club vs twelve opponents on eleven boards; but for some reason sort o' came to grief, as it were. Score—drew 2, won 4, lost 5. Mrs. Worrall and W. Frere, consulting, drew.....Honors have been quite showered upon Mr. Barry in Boston, by receptions, etc. He has been elected president of the new Mass. Ch. Association.....The great "tandem" exhibition, previously noticed, came of duly at Norcross Hall, Messrs. Barry and Burille tandemizing at fifty-one boards! At the conclusion of play eleven games were finished, all won by B. and B. This left forty for the umpire, F. J. Young, to pass upon. He promptly gave twenty-nine to the masters. Mr. Y. afterwards pronounced four to be drawn, and three victories for the opponents. Finally, two games were awarded to each side, making the grand total —drawn 4, lost 5, tandem team 42. A thoroughly enjoyable exhibition, and unique, we think.

Harvard Wins from Yale.

In the annual dual field meeting between the athletes of Harvard and Yale Universities, held at the Yale Field, New Haven, Ct., on Saturday afternoon, May 13, the youths from Cambridge succeeding in capturing the majority of events, thus becoming entitled to permanent possession of the elegant cup presented by five graduates of said institutions to become the property of the team whose university won five out of eight dual meetings. The Harvard score of points was 54¼ against 41¾ for their opponents. The defeat was a surprise to the men of Eli and their trainer, Al. Copland, the old Manhattan Club crack, who was extremely confident of success. Dixon Boardman, the Yale freshman, added to his excellent reputation by defeating Quinlan, of Harvard, in the furlong run, after a grand race, while he was defeated by less than four yards by Tommy Burke in the quarter mile run. A new record for Yale was established by C. P. Adams in the half mile run, he accomplishing the distance in 1m. 57⅕s. Summary:

University af Pennsylvania.

The annual Spring games of the students of the above university were held at their grounds in West Philadelphia, Pa., on Saturday afternoon, May 13, but the proceedings were greatly interferred with by rain, which prevented fast time. A. C. MAJOR-LEAGUE.

The Result of the Games Played Are Not Altogether Satisfactory.

New York vs. Washington.

The New Yorks didn't do a thing to the Washingtons on May 9, at the Polo Grounds, this city, but make monkeys of them. Those people who pinned their faith in Pitcher Colcolough quitely exulted over his success, while the "I told you sos" were very much in evidence. They had predicted just this event, and, of course, were fully prepared for it. The New York Club has been the butt of a great deal of unjust criticism and alleged sarcasm, but it has said nothing, but has gone on in the even tenor of its ways, winning about as many games as it was losing, and this, too, with a badly crippled team. At no time since the championship season began has it been able to put out its entire strength or full team in any game. Under these conditions its showing to date has been remarkably good. At times the New Yorks have been minus four of their crack players. Had any of the other clubs been so badly fixed there would have been a howl sent up that would have been heard to the furtherest end of the country's possessions; yet the local club said nothing, but sawed wood. The local enthusiasts are spiting themselves by not going to the Polo Grounds, for they are missing some of the best contested games seen there in many a day. The New Yorks are putting up a remarkably strong game. Their batting is good, hard and timely; their fielding is clean, sharp, snappy, clever and at times decidedly of the sensational order, and their base running is an improvement over that of the past. Whether or not Colcolough will be able to repeat his performance in this game time alone will tell. However, he did remarkably well and deserves all credit for what he accomplished. He allowed the Washingtons only six safe hits, from which they managed to get in one run and thereby save themselves from a shut out; gave six bases on balls and struck out two men. Notwithstanding his poor control he was very effective at critical stages of the game. The visitors tried two pitchers and both showed a decided lack of science, while the whole outfit had an abnormal tendency to make errors, and that was really the only thing they were successful in. Baker started to pitch for the Washingtons, but lasted only two innings, being so severely thumped that he was glad to give way to Dunkle, the latter faring equally as bad, New York making twenty safe hits, including triple baggers by Hartman and Foster, and a two baser by Grady, off the pair. Baker gave two bases on balls, Dunkle did the same, besides making a wild pitch and striking out two men. George Davis and Kid Gleason were very much in evidence. The former made only two safe hits, but he accepted all of ten chances at short. New York made one error and Washington eleven. Gleason made four safe hits and secured seven chances at second base. Time of game, 2h. 20m. The score:

Washington..	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0—1
New York....	0	8	0	3	2	2	0	4	—19

Philadelphia vs. Baltimore.

Superior batting helped the Baltimores to a victory over the Philadelphias on May 9, at Philadelphia, Pa. Both teams played faultlessly in the field, but the visitors bunched three doubles and a single in the first inning and scored three runs, and took a lead which they easily held until the end. In the second inning the Baltimores added another run, but after that, although they batted Fifield quite freely, he kept the hits so well apart that they failed to score. However, they had made one run more in the first inning than the locals got during the entire game and they could rest easy, as the Phillies gathered only a brace of runs from the nine safe hits, including a home run and two double baggers by Delehanty and doubles by Lajoie and Cross, off Kitson, who struck out one man. Fifield was batted safely thirteen times, including double baggers by McGraw, Holmes, Sheckard, Keister and Kitson, gave one base on balls and struck one man. Lajoie at second base and Lauder on third, each put up a great fielding game for the locals. The former accepted all of ten chances, and Lauder all of eight, two of which were off of apparently safe hits that were decidedly brilliant. Thomas, also of the home team, cut off a brace of runs that had been started by the visitors by a sensational catch in the sixth inning. The contest abounded with brilliant plays in which both teams took an active part. Delehanty's stick work was the batting feature. He made only three hits, but stretched them all into extra bases. Time of game, 2h. The score:

Boston vs. Baltimore.

You can't keep the Baltimores down. It was generally thought that they would trail along in the rear of the procession after Manager Hanlon had culled out nearly all the star players for his great Brooklyn team, but they bob up at the most unexpected times, despite their handicaps. On May 10 they visited Boston, Mass., and trounced the champions in fine style, shutting them out without a run. It had been announced as a battle between two southpaw pitchers—Klobedanz for Boston and Nops for Baltimore—but everything went to Nops. He proved a stumbling block in the way of the local players, allowing them six safe hits, including double baggers by Stahl and Long, but keeping them so far apart that they yielded no returns; he gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out five men. Klobedanz was a marker for the visitors, and several of them took advantage of his delivery to fatten their batting averages. He was batted safely twelve times, including a home run by Brodie and double baggers by Holmes and Lachance, gave two basses on balls, hit a batsman with a pitched ball and struck out four men. Each team was credited with two fielding errors. The visitors put up a sharp, snappy game, while the home team played listlessly throughout. Time of game, 2h. 14m. The score:

Boston.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0

The Bostons succeeded in reversing the above result on May 11, in a contest limited to seven innings on account of rain, which began falling at the end of the third inning and continued until the game was called. While it lasted, however, the contest was good for its fielding, only one error being made, and that was charged to the Baltimores. Nichols and McGinnity were the opposing pitchers, and both did good work, the former being the more effective, allowing the visitors six safe hits, including a triple bagger by Sheckard, from which they scored only one run, thereby saving themselves from a shut out. He gave one base on balls and struck out two men. The home team batted McGinnity safely nine times, including a triple bagger by Bergen and a two baser by Collins, gave one base on balls and struck out one man. The Bostons played one of their best all around games, and one that would have defeated any team. Their batting was timely, their fielding sharp, snappy and brilliant, and their base running was of the liveliest order. Then, too, Nichols was in form, had almost perfect command over the ball, fairly toyed with the ambitious young Baltimoreans and had them guessing all the time. Time of game, 1h. 8m. The score:

Boston.....	0	1	1	0	2	0	0		0—4

There was a hot time between these teams on May 12, but the champions managed to pull out a victory after an exciting finish. The Baltimores wanted to win in the worst way, as a victory would have put them on a par with the champions in the percentage table. Their chances for a victory were considerably marred by the wretched work of Magoon at short. His three errors helped the Bostons to several unearned runs. McKenna pitched good ball for the visitors, but his wretched support more than offset his clever work. A sharp double play by Tenney, Long and Tenney, and a brilliant running pick up of a ball in right field by Stahl, all of the home team, were fielding features. The visitors were just beginning to get the range of Lewis' delivery in the ninth inning, when Willis relieved him, and aided by sharp fielding, quickly retired the side. The Baltimores made eleven safe hits off Boston's two pitchers, including a home run by Lachance and a double bagger by Brodie. Lewis gave three bases on balls and Willis one. McKenna was batted safely nine times, including triple baggers by Stafford and Lewis, gave one base on balls and struck out two men. The Baltimores were credited with making four errors and the Bostons two. Time of game, 2h. 6m. The score:

Baltimore.....	0	1	1	0	0	2	0	0	2—6
Boston.....	0	1	0	0	2	1	0	3	—7

The Bostons had a tough proposition to solve in the Baltimores, and at no time during this series did they have a picnic of a time in winning. While the final game, played May 13, was about the best contested one of the four, the winning run being made by Boston in the last inning after two men had been put out. It was a battle royal between Pitchers Willis and Kitson, in which the former outpointed the latter, Willis striking out eight of the Baltimore batsmen, allowing them only four safe hits, including double baggers by McGraw, Holmes and Magoon, giving four bases on balls and hitting four other batsmen with pitched balls. Kitson was batted safely seven times, including a double and triple bagger by Stahl and a tripie by Long, hit a batsman with a pitched ball and struck out one man. Notwithstanding Willis' wildness in giving bases on balls and hitting other batsmen with pitched balls, he was very effective at critical stages and the only run scored by the visitors was the result of a double bagger and two long fly catches in the outfield. The Bostons put up a faultless fielding game, while the Baltimores were charged with one error. Kitson was batted much harder than one would suppose, as eleven fly catches were made by two of Baltimore's outfielders, while only three were credited to Boston's outfielders. Magoon at short for the visitors and Lowe at second for the home team played finely. Stahl's batting was a feature. Time of game, 1h. 46m. The score:

Chicago vs. Louisville.

The Chicagos had as big a snap with the Louisvilles as St. Louis enjoyed at Cleveland, and it is hardly likely that either will lose much in its percentage while the present series lasts. Superior batting helped the Chicagos to a victory over the Louisvilles on May 10, at Chicago, Ill. The locals bunched their hits in the fourth and seventh innings, and made more than enough runs to win. The visitors were weak at the bat, and played poorly in the field. Beside this the team was weakened considerably by the absence of Captain Clarke and Short Stop Clingman. While the substitutes did exceedingly well, they failed to inspire the rest of the players with that confidence the regular men do. Callahan pitched superbly, allowing the visitors six safe hits, including a double bagger by Hartzell, gave two bases on balls, made a wild pitch and struck out three men. Woods, too, pitched fairly good ball, but the hits made off him were bunched to a better advantage than were those made off Callahan. Woods was hit safely ten times, including a triple bagger by Lange, and gave one base on balls. Each team was credited with three errors. Wagner led in batting, making three of the six safe hits credited to the Louisvilles, and scored their only run. Green and Lange, of the home team, fielded finely, accepting all of ten chances between them. Time of game, 1h. 30m. The score:

Chicago.....	0	0	0	2	1	0	2	1	—6

The Chicagos dropped a few points in the pennant race, by losing a game to the Louisvilles on May 11. The home team held their opponents too cheaply, and when the former began to realize their mistake it was too late to rectify it. The error column does not begin to show the stupid work of the home team, the game, which was lengthened into ten innings, going to the visitors by the worst kind of rattled play and foolish base running on the part of the locals; added to this was a childish play on the part of Ryan, who interfered with Kittridge at the home plate, in the tenth inning, and cut off a run for Chicago, which would have given it a possible chance for a victory, or would have lengthened the game into one or more extra innings. The Louisvilles made seven safe hits, including a double bagger by Leach, off Taylor, who gave one base on balls, and struck out one man. Philippi was batted safely eight times, including double baggers by Nichols and Taylor, gave one base on balls and struck out one man. The Chicagos were credited with six fielding errors, and the Louisvilles with three. Time of game, 2h. 10m. The score:

Louisville.....	2	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	1—5
Chicago.....	1	1	0	1	1	0	0	0	0	0—4

The Chicagos succeeded in reversing the above result on May 13, and, singular enough, by the same figures that marked their preceding contest, although the visitors gave them a hard rub before they landed the victory. It was an exceedingly interesting game, in which the locals excelled in fielding and the Louisvilles in batting. The latter, however, could not bunch their hits with as good effect as did the Chicagos. Cunningham allowed the home team only seven safe hits, including a triple bagger by Mertes and a double by Lange, gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, made a wild pitch and struck out one man. Griffith was batted safely ten times, including a triple bagger by Leach and a double by Cunningham, gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, made a balk and struck out one man. The infield work of Griffith and Everitt, of the locals, and Leach, for the visitors, was especially good. Cunningham led in batting with three safe drives. The game ended with a brilliant double play that cut off at least one run for the visitors. De Montreville, of the home team, was badly spiked by Hoy at second base in the ninth inning. The Chicagos were credited with making only one fielding error, while five were chalked up against the visitors. Time of game, 1h. 45m. The score:

Louisville.....	0	0	1	0	0	0	3	0	0—4
Chicago.....	2	0	0	0	2	0	1	0	—5

Brooklyn vs. Washington.

The bargain counter job lot from the national capital were transferred to the eastern portion of Greater New York, met the Brooklyns at Washington Park, Brooklyn, May 10, and the game was full of interesting features, chief among which was the heavy batting indulged in by both teams. The advocates of heavy hitting must have enjoyed the feast given them. Yet, with all the heavy batting, there was chance after chance to score, but the hit necessary to score failed to materialize; still, there were runs enough made to satisfy even the most partisan enthusiast. Al. Maul put in his appearance after much stationery had been wasted on him, and started to pitch for the home team, but he lasted only four innings, when he was replaced by Dunn. During Maul's sojourn he was batted safely six times in four innings, and gave two bases on balls. Dunn was batted safely eight times in five innings, gave one base on balls and hit three other batsmen with pitched balls. The Brooklyns batted Weyhing safely fifteen times, including a home run by Farrell and double baggers by Casey, Dahlen, Anderson and Daly, gave one base on balls, hit three other batsmen with pitched balls and struck out one man. The other long safe hits not already mentioned were a triple bagger by Padden and doubles by Cassidy and Freeman. Daly and Padden led their respective teams in batting, each making four safe hits. The Brooklyns made three errors and the Washingtons two. It is clearly evident that the Brooklyn pitchers are not in proper shape, and that many of the victories credited to Hanlon's men are mostly won by the superb work of that great team. However, they will improve as the season advances. Time of game, 2h. 15m. The score:

Washington...	0	2	0	1	2	0	0	0	2	—7
Brooklyn.....	0	1	0	3	0	0	4	1		—9

It wasn't wholly the fault of the infield that Washington lost the game of May 12 to the Brooklyns. Weakness at the bat had considerable to do with the loss of that game. Yet when they have a batting streak on, their opponents are sure to do a little better, so they are no better off than when they fail to bat. Kennedy was in great form in this game, and had all kinds of deliveries at his command, and the result was that the Washingtons made only four scattering singles, and they were confined to two men, and not one of them could be chased across the plate. Then, too, Kennedy received great support, the fielding of Keeler, Anderson and Kelley was of the highest order. They were everywhere, and always in the right spot when needed. McGuire knocked an apparently safe hit to far centre field in the seventh inning, which looked good for at least two bases, but Anderson ran at full speed with the ball, and turned and caught it as it was falling. Padden sent a high one over into right field in the same inning, and Keeler captured it. Brooklyn's infield also did great work. Kennedy, beside allowing the visitors only four safe hits, gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, and struck out two men, but he was always effective when men were on the bases. Dineen also pitched a good game. He was batted safely seven times, including triple baggers by Farrell and Kennedy and two doubles by Casey, and struck out two men. Dahlen, of the home team, was unable to play, and Pitcher Yeager was sent to short field in his place. Yeager fielded well, but was weak at the bat. Each team was credited with one fielding error. Casey led in batting, with three safe hits, including two double baggers, and made two of the three runs scored by Brooklyn. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

The Brooklyns moved up a rung in the major league ladder by winning a double header off the Washingtons on May 13, while the latter crowded the Clevelands on the very edge of the tail end of the race. There is the greatest rivalry between these two teams for the booby prize, with the odds slightly in Cleveland's favor just at present. It was a decidedly chilly day for the Washingtons in more senses than one. There were black clouds, several showers, a cold, biting wind and two defeats served up to them, and all inside of four hours. The visitors had been strengthened by the addition of Second Baseman Bonner, who has had considerable major league experience, but even this did not make them strong enough to make a respectable showing against the home team. Despite the unfavorable weather condition, there were over four thousand persons present. The Washingtons were outclassed in both games. Notwithstanding the very one sided result, however, there was considerable interest in both contests. The clever pitching, the clean, hard hitting and the fine fielding of the home players put a life and spirit into them that held the attention of the spectators from start to finish. McJames held the visitors down to seven safe hits, including a double bagger by Bonner, gave six bases on balls and struck out two men. The Brooklyns made fourteen safe hits, including triple baggers by McGann, Daly, Farrell and Yeager, and a two baser by Kelley, hit two batsmen with pitched balls, made a wild pitch and struck out three men. The visitors made their lone run in the fourth inning on Yeager's fumble of a bounder by Cassidy, a muff by Daly and Padden's single. Brooklyn's batting was well timed and runs came freely. Brooklyn made two errors and Washington one. Time of game, 2h. 6m. The score:

Brooklyn.....	0	0	2	2	2	1	3	2	—12

The second game was a little more evenly contested, but still ended in an easy victory for the locals. Baker was sent in by the Washingtons to do their pitching, and he did pretty well after the first inning. In this it looked as if his time was limited, as he acted as if he was afraid of the heavy hitters on the home team, and virtually presented them with three runs. Three men reached first base on balls, after which he showed a decided improvement in his work, and the locals found it more difficult to get runs. The visitors were given a puzzle to solve in Hughes' delivery, but they made little headway, and in many cases were obliged to give it up. He had a vast assortment of curves, and the Washingtons met with poor success in trying to straighten them out. Of all the balls that Hughes sent over the plate the visitors connected with only four, which they sent safely into the field, including a triple bagger by Freeman and a double by Bonner; he gave three bases on balls, made a wild pitch and struck out three men. Baker was batted safely by the locals eight times, including a triple bagger by Kelley and a two baser by McGann; gave four bases on balls and made two wild pitches. Keeler led in batting with three singles. Time of game, 1h. 40m. The score:

Washington....	1	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	0—3

FREDERICK A. KLOBEDANZ,

The left handed pitcher, who was recently unconditionally released by the Boston Club, is a finely built young man, who stands 5ft. 11in. in height and weighs about 170lb. He was born June 13, 1873, at Waterbury, Ct., and learned to play ball in his native State. His professional career began in 1892, when he pitched and Lachance (now the first baseman of the Baltimore team) caught for the Waterbury (Ct.) team, but shortly afterwards the pair went to the Portland team, of the New England League, where they finished the season, Klobedanz participating in fifty-seven championship contests, in part of which he filled the pitcher's position and in the rest played in the outfield. He was re-engaged by the Portland Club for the season of 1893, but later was transferred to the Dover Club, same league, and participated in forty-nine championship contests with the two teams, in all of which he filled the pitcher's position. He accepted an engagement with the Fall River team, of the New England League, in 1894, and that season he took part in seventy-four championship games, in thirty-nine of which he played first base. He stood eighteenth in the official batting averages of that league. He was re-engaged by the Fall Rivers for the season of 1895, and that year he participated in fifty-nine championship contests, in thirty-seven of which he filled the pitcher's position. He ranked fourth as a batsman in the official averages of that league. His excellent all around work brought him another engagement with the Fall River Club for the season of 1896. He remained with its team until Aug. 15, when his release was bought by the Boston Club, of the major league, and after he had participated in fifty-one championship games with the Fall Rivers, he joined the Bostons, doing exceedingly well after becoming a major leaguer, although he did not participate in enough championship games to get his name into the official averages, but he was reserved for the season of 1897. On May 7 that year he struck out ten men in a game at Philadelphia, thus making the season's record. One of the best games he pitched that season was that in which he allowed the New Yorks only two safe hits. He also had the credit of winning fourteen straight games that year by his magnificent pitching, participating, all told, in thirty-eight championship games, and ranking high as a batsman and a fielder. At the end of that campaign he was once more reserved for the season of 1898, and last year he again participated in thirty-eight championship contests. He was with the Bostons for a short time this year, and at the start gave promise of doing just as well as in any preceding season; but his work in the last few games he participated in was not of the order to inspire that confidence that he would really improve as the season advanced, and Manager Selee thought he could not afford to take any chances, hence his release followed. He does not at first impress one as being a very wonderful pitcher, but his delivery is more deceptive than it appears, and his effectiveness is due to his excellent command and his curve ball. He is what is styled a fair, everyday, easy going sort of a pitcher, and he has a knack of getting away with many a game without being too severely punished. Beside this, his batting powers make him a very valuable man to any club.

Philadelphia vs. New York.

That the New Yorks can play ball has been demonstrated time and again. Their meeting with the Philadelphias on May 10, at Philadelphia, Pa., was only another evidence of that fact. True, they were beaten, but it took the great Quaker aggregation, who have been repeatedly hailed as prospective champions, eleven innings to beat them by the score of 4 to 3. With a little judicious action on the part of the visitors even this defeat might have been averted. Now, with Rusie and Seymour in line, the New Yorks would be able to hold their own with the best of them. Even as it is they are doing remarkably well, and are giving their friends a good run for their money. Probably no more exciting game was ever played at Quakerdom than the one between these teams. It was a pitcher's battle from start to finish, in which Platt got a shade the best of his New York opponent, Garrick, inasmuch as he was credited with a victory, but it took eleven innings before the Phillies could breath easily, and then they pulled out winners by a nose. Philadelphia enthusiasts yelled themselves hoarse, and were worked up into a state of frenzied jubilation over the Garrison finish made by their crack team. From the way things were going when the eleventh inning was begun it looked as if runs would be as hard to get as flies around the North Pole. In that inning two of the New York players had come to grief in their efforts to place a victory to their club's credit. Then Captain Doyle came to the rescue and placed his bat in the way of one of Platt's very deceptive shoots, and when the ball was returned to the diamond Doyle was resting safely on third base. Gleason followed with a liner to the right field fence for two bases, scoring Doyle. O'Brien added a single and Gleason scored. This put the visitors in the van by two runs. It was short lived, however, as the Phillies made four safe hits, which, aided by an unaccepted chance and error by the New Yorks, netted them three runs and a victory, with no one out. The Phillies batted Carrick safely thirteen times, includinga double bagger by Delehanty, and he gave two bases on balls. Flick was batted safely nine times, including, besides the long safe hits above mentioned, a triple bagger by Hartman, gave a base on balls and struck out four men. The locals put up a perfect fielding game, while the visitors were charged with two errors. Gleason accepted thirteen out of fourteen chances at second base. Time of game, 2h. 15m. The score:

A double header was the attraction presented by these teams on May 12, and the Phillies had the hardihood to throw the visitors down twice. There may not have been anything personal in the two defeats, but to an uninterested person it looked as if the Phillies were doubly resenting the treatment accorded Colonel Rogers while recently in New York. Be that as it may, it is a fact, nevertheless, the New Yorks were treated real rudely. The whitewash brush was applied to them in the opening game, but they were spared that ignominy in the second one. Pitcher Doheny, who had been doing such excellent work all along, was sent in to steer the visitors into a safe harbor, but the steering gear on the larboard side of his anatomy was decidedly out of order, and the visitors became a derelict, the home team took advantage of this fact to assault him and they thumped him unmercifully. The Phillies played a fine game generally. Their batting was clean, hard and consecutive, and their fielding was perfect. Such liberties as they took with Mr. Doheny's delivery, breaking in upon him whenever the occasion seemed appropriate. This was particularly the case with Messrs. Thomas, Delehanty, Lajoie and McFarland, the latter being very aggressive. The Phillies batted Doheny safely fourteen times, including triple baggers by Lajoie and McFarland, the latter also making a double bagger, as did Delehanty. He gave four bases on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls and struck out one man. Frazer allowed the New Yorks seven safe hits, four of which went to Captain Doyle's credit, while the only long safe hit was a two bagger by Foster; gave one base on balls and struck out three men. The visitors were credited with three errors. Time of game, 2h. The score:

Philadelphia..	6	0	0	3	1	0	0	1	—11

The Phillies did not start off so boldly in the second game as they had done in the opening one, but they got there just the same. It was clearly evident that they had set this down as a batting matinee, even if they did not previously announce it as such, and their work in that respect was worthy of anything they have done thus far this season. Twenty-six safe hits for a total of thirty-six bases is not so bad for an afternoon's entertainment. Meekin fared almost as badly at the hands of the home team in this contest as Doheny had in the opening one. Only seven safe hits were credited to the visitors, but they batted much harder tha then face of the score indicates. They hit eleven fly balls, nearly all of which were the hottest kind of liners, which under more favorable circumstances would have been good for two and three bases. There were many brilliant plays made, noticeably by Gleason, O'Brien, Delehanty, Flick and Lajoie. Wheeler allowed the New Yorks seven safe hits, including a homer and a double bagger by George Davis, which were the only long safe hits made by the visitors, and gave two bases on balls. Meekin was batted safely twelve times, including a triple bagger by Lauder and doubles by Flick and Wheeler, gave one base on balls and struck out two men. New York made four errors and the Phillies three. Time of game, 1h. 40m. The score:

New York.....	0	2	1	0	0	0	0	1	0—4
Philadelphia...	2	0	2	0	0	0	3	0	—7

The New Yorks made about as poor a showing in this series with the Philadelphias as it was possible for a team laying any pretenses to being first class in its make up could have done. They were beaten four times. Twice they were ignominiously shut out without a run, the last time occurring on May 13, when they played the final game of the series. They made a total of seven runs in the four games against thirty-one made by the Philadelphias. 'It is evident that the New Yorks did not put up the article of ball that is conducive to victories, known as pennant ball. Colcolough was about as easy a proposition as the visitors could have submitted to the Quakers, and they sustained their reputation as a team of sluggers by giving him the severest kind of a drubbing, with Delehanty and Lajoie as the chief aggressors, each having four safe hits to his credit. Colcolough was batted safely eighteen times, including triple baggers by Lajoie and Flick, and doubles by Delehanty (four) and Thomas, gave one base on balls and hit another batsman with a pitched ball. He would have been wilder in his delivery than he was had the Phillies waited, but they found him such a good thing that they batted at everything he sent toward the plate. The visitors found Fifield anything but easy. He had as many puzzling curves as there are whims in a woman, and they were just as hard to solve; only three safe hits were made by them, and two of these went to Van Haltren's credit. He gave two bases on balls, made a wild pitch and struck out one man. Each team was credited with making only one fielding error. In only three innings did the New Yorks succeed in getting a man on first base, and none of them reached third. Time of game, 1h. 35m. The score:

New York.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0
Philadelphia...	1	0	3	0	0	0	4	1	—9

Pittsburg vs. Cincinnati.

It looks as if Cincinnati will get into the "push" yet. They struck a team on May 9, at Pittsburg, Pa., they had no trouble in routing. At no stage in the proceedings had the locals the ghost of a show to win. The Cincinnatis outplayed them at every point. The former batted opportunely and their fielding was perfect. The Pittsburgs made only two errors, but one of these was a muff of an apparently easy ball by Donovan in the first inning, and it gave the visitors two runs; the other was a wild throw by McCreery that sent in another run for them in the second innings, so the brace of errors proved damaging. The locals could do little with the delivery of Taylor until the closing innings, when a pair of runs bobbed up. Reitz and Ely, of the home team, gave the most damaging kind of evidence that they were in the game. The former accepted all of ten chances at second base, and the latter all of eight at short. Their work was the fielding feature. The Pittsburgs batted Taylor safely eight times, including a two baser by Bowerman, who gave three bases on balls and struck out two men. Tannehill was batted safely nine times, including a triple bagger by Peitz, and gave three bases on balls. For the visitors Irwin, Corcoran and Steinfeldt all fielded brilliantly. Time of game, 2h. The score:

Cincinnati.....	3	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0—5
Pittsburg.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	1—2

The Cincinnatis outclassed the home team on May 10 and won as they pleased. The Pittsburgs played wretchedly in the field, having seven errors charged to them, and, while they batted the ball hard enough to win almost any game, their hitting was so spasmodic that they could gather only five runs, and they were made in the opening and closing innings. The all around game played by the visitors was far better than that of the home team. Cincinnati batted hard and timely, and was charged with only two errors. The visitors made thirteen safe hits, including a two baser by Peitz, off Hoffer, who gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out three men. The Pittsburgs made eleven safe hits, including a triple bagger by McCarthy and a double by Clark, off Hawley, who gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out one man. Time of game, 2h. 10m. The score:

Pittsburg.....	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	4— 5

The Pittsburgs appear to be playing in hard luck. No matter how good a game they put up, their opponents are sure to play a little better ball, or at least manage to win. On May 11 they again tackled the Cincinnatis, and as at former meetings, drew the short end. The visitors did not have a great deal to spare, but they had enough to win, and that was all they could expect. It was a battle royal between Pitchers Hahn and Leever, and both pitched gilt edged ball, making it the lightest batting games of the season. It was one of those contests well worth going many miles to see. It was a sharp, snappy game, quickly played and was decided by the smallest possible margin—one run. Leever had better control over the ball than did Hahn. The visitors batted him safely four times, including a triple bagger by Pietz and a two baser by Smith, and he struck out four men. Hahn held the locals down to three safe hits, including a triple bagger by Clark, gave three bases on balls and struck out three men. The only and winning run was the result of Peitz's triple bagger and a long fly to centre field by Hahn. In the ninth inning with two men out, Clark made a triple bagger, but was left on third base. Each team made one fielding error. Time of game, 1h. 40m. The score:

The locals barely escaped another blank score when these teams met on May 12, and although the visitors made only one safe hit more than Pittsburg, the latter at no time came within speaking distance of a victory. Williams' two bagger and Beckley's fumble in the ninth inning gave the home team its only run, and thereby saved it from the second shut out. Payne pitched a rather good game, as did Sparks who succeeded him, but costly errors were made behind them. Cincinnati made eight safe hits, including a triple bagger by Beckley. Payne gave one base on bails and Sparks two, the latter struck out two men. Taylor allowed the locals seven safe hits, including double baggers by Clark and Williams, gave two bases on balls and struck out two men. Corcoran, of Cincinnati, led in batting, making four of the eight safe hits credited to the visitors, and accepted all of seven chances at short. McPhee, of the same team, accepted all of ten chances at second base. Beaumont fielded finely for the home team, capturing all of six fly balls at centre field. The locals made five fielding errors and the visitors made only one. Time of game, 2h. 10m. The score:

Cincinnati.....	0	2	0	1	1	0	0	0	1—5

Cincinnati vs. St. Louis.

It affords greater satisfaction to the Cincinnatis to win a game from Tebeau's men than from any other team in the league. There has always been such a rivalry between the two teams, and the friends of each look for the meetings between them with much interest. Up to this contest, which was played May 13, at Cincinnati, O., each team had two victories to its credit. On this occasion the locals jumped on the great Young in the opening inning, hitting him hard and consecutively, gathering four singles and a double, which netted them five runs and gave them a lead they easily held until the end. Dammann pitched steadily throughout, the visitors having three men on bases in the ninth inning, but could not score. Young was batted safely seven times, including a double and triple bagger by Selbach, and a double by Beckley, gave one base on balls, and struck out one man. The visitors made eight safe hits, including double baggers by McKean, Tebeau and Young, off Dammann, who gave two bases on balls. After the first inning Young pitched with telling effect, but as all the damage was done in the opening inning his good work went for naught, except to keep down the local team's score. The St. Louis team fielded poorly, six errors being charged to them against two for the home team. Wallace, for the visitors, and Steinfeldt, of the Cincinnatis, each put up a great game at third base, the former accepting all of eight chances and the latter all of six. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

Cincinnati.....	5	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	0—7
St. Louis.....	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0—3

It required eleven innings to decide the contest between these teams on May 14, when the scene of action was shifted to St. Louis, Mo. The Cincinnatis started off like winners in this contest, as they had done in the game of the preceding day, but they did not get lead enough, nor were they able to hold down the home team's score as they had done on the day before, on their own grounds. However, they took a lead and held it until the seventh inning, when the locals bunched their hits with good effect, sent three runs across the plate and tied the score, and finally won out in the eleventh inning. The visitors outbatted the home team almost 2 to 1, but, with the exception of the first inning, their hits were so scattered throughout the contest that they could not reap the benefit they were naturally entitled to. Powell, although batted much harder than Breitenstein, was by far the more steady of the two. The Cincinnatis made seventeen safe hits, including double baggers by Seibach, Smith, Steinfeldt, McPhee and Breitenstein, off Powell, who struck out four men. Breitenstein held the locals down to nine safe hits, including a two baser by Criger, gave eight bases on balls and struck out two men. The nine safe hits and the eight bases on balls put Breitenstein's performance on a par with the seventeen safe hits made off Powell. The outfield work of Seibach was a feature, he capturing seven fly balls. It was announced that 25,000 people attended the game, but this must be taken with a grain of salt to be palatable. The few extra thousands being added to some of the games, especially in the West, might be more judiciously distributed, and would be more pleasing to the eye. The fielding of both teams was very clever, only one error being charged against each of them. Time of game, 2h. 20m. The score:

Cincinnati.....	3	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0—5

Pittsburg vs. Cleveland.

The Clevelands visited Pittsburg, Pa., May 13, and placed another defeat to their credit. This was Cleveland's twenty-second championship game played this season, and only three out of the lot was placed on the right side of its ledger. Dopey playing on the part of the visitors, especially Sockalexis, gave the game to the home team. The big Indian misjudged two fly balls which he should have easily taken, but which gave Pittsburg two triple baggers. While only three errors were charged to them, there were numerous instances of slow, stupid and dreamy playing that could not be charged as errors according to the rules, but they all helped to lose the game. Tannehill was in great form, allowing the visitors only three safe hits, including a double bagger by Tucker, giving one base on balls, hitting another batsman with a pitched ball and striking out two men. The locals batted H

He, Donovan and Beaumont each made three safe hits. Time of game, 1h. 35m. The score:

Pittsburg.....	2	1	1	0	0	0	2	0	—6

Cleveland vs. St. Louis.

The St. Louis team increased its lead in the pennant race on May 9, at Cleveland, O., when it walloped the Clevelands. For seven innings the locals made some show of standing the visitors off, but after that the latter cut loose and raced under the wire easy winners. Young pitched superbly, allowing the locals only three safe hits, but was unfortunate in giving two bases on balls, as one of them resulted in the only run obtained by the home team. He also struck out two men. Stivetti's was also very puzzling for seven innings. In the eighth, however, an error by Quinn, the only one made by the locals, seem to upset him, for a base on balls and five safe hits netted the visitors five runs, practically winning the contest. Two more were added in the next inning, clinching the game. Stivetti's was batted safely nine times, including a triple bagger by McKeon, and gave four bases on balls. The St. Louis players were given a great reception by the local enthusiasts. Wallace, for the visitors, and Cross, of the Clevelands, each played finely at third base for their respective teams. St. Louis made three fielding errors and the locals one. Time of game, 1h. 25m. The score:

Cleveland.....	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0—1

The visitors added another victory to their credit on May 10, when they gave a superb exhibition in the art of batting and base running. Pitcher Jones, who proved such a good thing for the Cincinnatis, was a puzzler to the home team, who made only seven safe hits, including a double bagger by Quinn, off him; he gave two bases on balls and struck out two men. Hill was easy for the St. Louis batmen, who hit him hard from start to finish, and in only the third and sixth innings did they fail to get in any runs. They batted him safely fifteen times, including a triple and double bagger by Childs and doubles by Wallace (twice) and Blake, gave four bases on balls and struck out two men. Each team was credited with two errors. The two errors charged to the visitors were made by Catcher Criger, which were the first he had made this season, and they spoiled his perfect record. Quinn and Childs carried off the fielding honors for their respective teams. The former accepted all of eleven chances at second base, and the latter all of seven. Wallace and Criger led in batting, each making three safe hits. Sockalexis has been assigned a regular place on the Cleveland team, but he is not batting up to his former standard. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

St. Louis.....	3	1	0	1	1	0	3	1	2—12
Cleveland.....	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	0— 2

It was a case of do or die with the Clevelands when they tackled the St. Louis team on May 11, and, although again beaten, they put up a stiff fight and gave the visitors a hard time of it to win. They hit Powell hard, but with little effect. In fact, it was a regular old time slugging match, in which the visitors excelled. The home team batted Powell safely fifteen times, including a double bagger by Sockalexis; he hit a batsman with a pitched ball, and struck out one man. The visitors made seventeen safe hits, including double baggers by Burkett and Wallace, off Sudhoff, who gave three bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, and struck out one man. Sockalexis, of the home team, was very much in evidence with his bat, making five safe hits, and was mixed up in a double play; catching a ball in right field, he threw to Cross, at third base, in time to put out a base runner. The locals made a desperate effort to win out in the ninth inning, when they had three men on the bases, with only one hand out, but Wallace, unassisted, retired the side with a double play, cutting off their hopes while in the bud. The Clevelands were charged with three fielding errors, and St. Louis with two. Time of game, 2h. The score:

Cleveland.....	0	0	4	0	0	0	2	0	0—6
St. Louis.....	2	0	0	0	3	1	2	0	—8

If the Clevelands put up a great game on Thursday they did still better on Friday, May 12, when it took the St. Louis team ten innings before they could win. It was nip and tuck and a tie from the eighth until the tenth inning, when McKean made a home run and won for St. Louis, with no one out. The locals put up a faultless fielding game, and, although they did not bat as hard as did the visitors, they bunched enough to get in sufficient runs to tie the score and make things interesting for awhile. O'Connor's batting and fielding, and the fielding of McKean, with his home run drive, were features of the visitors' work. The other long safe hits were two double baggers by O'Connor and one by Cross, of the home team. Wheeler was batted safely nine times, gave two bases on balls and made a wild pitch. Carsey was hit safely eleven times, gave one base on balls and struck out two men. The only fielding error made was charged to St. Louis. O'Connor and Cross led their respective teams in batting, each having three safe hits to his credit. Time of game, 1h. 40m. The score:

Cleveland	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	2	0—4
St. Louis.....	3	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	1—5

St. Louis vs. Louisville.

These teams put up a remarkably good game on May 15, at St. Louis, Mo. For six innings it was anybody's game, the locals leading by 1 to 0. In the seventh, however, by bunching three safe hits, aided by a base on balls, the home team added three more runs to its credit and virtually clinched the game. Both Jones and Dowling pitched good ball, but the former was more fortunate in keeping the hits made off him better scattered than was Dowling. While St. Louis played faultlessly in the field, and Louisville made only one fielding error, a fast double play by McKean and O'Connor was the only really brilliant piece of fielding done during the game. Dowling held the home team to eight safe hits, including a double bagger by Burkett, gave four bases on balls and struck out two men. The visitors batted Jones safely nine times, including double baggers by Hoy and Ritchey, who gave one base on balls and struck out four men. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

Louisville.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1—1
St. Louis.....	1	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	—4

Pittsburg vs. Chicago.

The Pittsburgs gave their friends and supporters a problem to solve on May 15, when they met the Chicagos at Pittsburg, Pa., that will keep them busy for some time trying to work it out; but it is safe to say that before they have arrived at a satisfactory conclusion they will be given something else to think about. This was the problem: Pittsburg outbatted and outfielded the visitors, and yet were beaten. The Chicagos made five fielding errors and the locals made only two. The visitors made seven safe hits, including triple baggers by Green and Lange and a two baser by Nichols, off Leever, who gave two bases on balls and struck out five men. The Pittsburgs made eight safe hits, including a triple bagger by Clark, off Callahan, who gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out three men. The visitors won out in the tenth inning, when Green, who had struck out three times, made a triple bagger and scored on an error, which enabled Wolverton to reach first base. Time of game, 2h. 15m. The score:

Cleveland vs. Cincinnati.

It was another case of misplaced confidence. The Clevelands put up a faultless fielding game against the Cincinnatis on May 15, at Cleveland, O., hoping to catch the visitors napping, but, as on many other occasions this season, they slipped up in their calculation, and scored up another defeat to their credit. Stivett's poor control over the ball, with the Cincinnatis timely batting, was the chief cause of the home team's downfall. The only fielding error made went to the credit of the visitors, whose eight safe hits, including double baggers by Smith and Miller, off Stivetts, were made at the most opportune times. Then, too, Stivetts aided the visitors by giving four bases on balls and hitting another batsman with a pitched ball. Hawley was at his best, and had excellent command over the ball, allowing the home team six safe hits, including a double bagger by Zimmer, and he struck out one man. Lockhead, of the Clevelands, carried off the fielding honors, accepting all of ten chances at short field. Time of game, 1h. 30m. The score:

Brooklyn vs. Philadelphia.

Excitement was rampant in that portion of Greater New York known as Washington Park, Brooklyn, May 15, and all because the Quakers had come to town. The Phillies had left one State, crossed another and entered the third for a peace conference with the Long Islanders. It was held, and Representative Keeler, from the Eastern District, was the principal cause of the commotion. He started a stampede with a home run thrust that set the natives wild with delight, and was principally the cause of discomfiture to the Quakers. It was an interesting meeting from start to finish. There were no dull moments at any stage of the proceedings. The only thing that caused a shade of displeasure was the poor work of Assistant Umpire Warner. He made several decisions that were more than ordinarily bad, and three of them were unfortunately against the visitors. Still, the Brooklyns won by their timely batting and clever fielding. It was nip and tuck, with the score tied, when the locals went to the bat in the last half of the eighth inning. McGann sent a fly to Thomas. Then Daly smashed the ball out to the picket fence, in left centre field, for a home run. Farrell popped up an easy foul to Lauder and things began to look blue, two men out and only one run in. A couple of errors and a safe hit filled the bases. When Keeler came the bat the Philadelphia outfielders came in, thinking he would merely touch the ball for a little safe hit; but Keeler fooled them and drove the ball clear to the left field fence for a home run, sending in three men ahead of him. The scene that followed as he crossed the plate beggers description; the 5,000 enthusiasts went wild with delight; yelled, cheered, screamed, tossed their hats in the air and danced with delight, while the ladies waved their handkerchiefs. It was a great scene and was well worth going miles to see. Both Dunn and Piatt pitched good ball. The former was batted safely by the visitors twelve times, including a double and triple bagger by Flick and a two baser by Lajoie, gave two bases on balls and struck out three men. The Brooklyns made twelve safe hits, including the two home runs above mentioned, off Piatt, who gave five bases on balls. The Brooklyns were charged with one fielding error and the Phillies two. Time of game, 2h. 20m. The score:

Philadelphia...	1	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	2—5
Brooklyn.....	0	0	3	0	0	0	0	5	—8

Baltimore vs. New York.

It was generally hoped that the New Yorks would improve in their work the further South they went, but if they have, the result of the meeting with the Baltimores on May 15, at Baltimore, Md., does not show it. The game was a little more evenly contested than some they have played lately, especially at Philadelphia, but that amounts to nothing in the standing of the team in the pennant race. Doheny pitched fairly good ball, but received very poor support behind him, the locals making eleven safe hits, including a double bagger by Robinson. He gave two bases on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls and struck out one man. Nops did far better work in the pitcher's position and received perfect support, not a fielding error being charged to the home team, while New York had three to its credit. Nops held the visitors down to seven safe hits, including double baggers by Wilson and Doheny, gave three bases on balls and struck out one man. Four of the five runs made by the locals were due to wild throws on the part of the visiting team. Time of game, 2h. 10m. The score:

New York.....	1	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	0—3
Baltimore.....	1	0	1	0	0	0	3	0	—5

Washington vs. Boston.

The Washingtons treated their friends and admirers to an unexpected victory on May 15, when they defeated the champion Bostons at Washington, D. C. It is said that the locals played better ball than did the visitors. They must have done so, but even that is an unsatisfactory explanation to give to the Boston people for the defeat of their crack team, especially with Nichols in the pitcher's position, and all the other men, except Hamilton, in their regular places, and in Hamilton's case the substitute, Jim Stafford, did exceedingly well, both at the bat and in the field; possibly Hamilton would have done no better. The Washingtons did not bat Nichols so freely, but they connected with the ball at the right time and some of their hits were stretched into extra bases; then, too, they put up a faultless fielding game, while Boston was charged with four errors. The latter made nine safe hits, including a two bagger by Stahl, off Weyhing, who had perfect command of the ball, and struck out three men. Nichols was batted safely eight times, including a home run and a double bagger by Bonner and a triple bagger by Padden, gave three bases on balls and struck out two men. Time of game, 1h. 45m. The score:

DIAMOND FIELD GOSSIP.

Latest Sayings and Doings of the Baseball Fraternity.

A dispatch from Minneapolis, Minn., dated May 14, says: "Today Umpire Mannassau gave the game to St. Paul by 9 to 0, because Wilmot and Andrews, who had been ordered off the grounds, did not move in the time specified. The attendance was so large that ground rules were made. Two Minneapolis runners scored on Geier's hit into the crowd, and Mannassau ordered them back to third and second bases. He was jeered and hooted, the crowd not understanding the rule. The crowd broke into the diamond and threatened the umpire, but with the aid of players and police Mannassau got away in safety."

The West New York team defeated a team of all collegiates by 9 to 3, May 14, on the former's grounds at Weehawken, N. J. Big Jim Jeffries, the pugilist, officiated as umpire and gave entire satisfaction. The management of the West New York Club's grounds has always got something as an unusual attraction at his grounds. If it is not two of the best teams in the country that can be obtained it will be something else worth seeing.

The major league schedule is the funniest one ever drafted for that organization. The more one looks at it the more comical it becomes. Its construction is so laughable that tears come to one's eyes while looking at it. Just think of New York going to Baltimore twice before meeting either Boston or Brooklyn, and then you see where the smile comes in. "Things didn't used to happen that way."

Umpire Smith is the first major league official to haul a player before the Board of Discipline. Bowerman, of the Pittsburg team, is the player accused. THE OPENING GAME of the Australian eleven in England was played May 8, 9 and 10, at the Crystal Palace grounds, their opponents being a strong eleven, representative of the South of England, captained by W. G. Grace. Cablegrams give the result as a draw, the respective totals being: South of England, 246 and 222; Australia, 375 and 7 for one wicket. C. B. Fry scored 81 and 12, and Hayward, who made 50 and 24, were the chief contributors to the home team's totals, and K. S. Ranjitsinhji and W. G. Grace also batted splendidly in the second inning for 63 and 47, respectively. S. E. Gregory and M. A. Noble both batted magnificently, and made a prolongued stand before the fifth wicket fell in the opening inning of the visitors, the former compiling 124 and the latter making 116, not out. The second game of the tour was played May 11, 12 and 13, at Leyton, the visitors then sustaining an unexpected defeat by the Essex County eleven by 126 runs, the respective totals being: Essex, 199 and 144; Australia, 144 and 73. This result was brought about chiefly through the bowling of Young, whose left handed delivery was remarkably effective in the second inning, when he succeeded in taking seven wickets at the cost of only 32 runs. A. P. Lucas scored 46, not out, in the first inning, and A. J. Turner made 54 in the second inning of the Essex eleven. C. Hill made 36 in the first inning, and M. A. Noble got 17 in the second inning of the Australian eleven.

Kelly made 41 of the total of 226 for six wickets scored by team A, of the Knickerbocker Athletic Club, against the Newark team's total of 43. Kelly also bowled effectively, taking five wickets at the cost of 21 runs. C. H. Clarke scored 86, not out, of the total of 162 for three wickets compiled by team B, of the Knickerbocker Athletic Club, against the New York team's total of 61.

YOUNG, who had on May 13, at Leyton, Eng., the remarkable record of bowling seven wickets for 32 runs, against the famous batsmen of the visiting Australian team, first played professionally with the Essex County eleven last season, and is only twenty-three years old. He is a fast left handed bowler, with a high and easy delivery, and took the place of Mead in the second inning of the recent contest. A press cablegram announcing the defeat of the Australian team makes the curious mistake of saying that this result was brought about through the aid of "a young professional left handed bowler" instead of stating that it was through the aid of Young, a professional left handed bowler.

A. M. WOOD scored 101 and then retired, not out, and H. Statzell made 51 of a total of 248 compiled by an eleven of the Belmont Club against the Moorestown team, May 13, at Philadelphia, Pa. Harbour led in bowling for their respective teams, the former securing five wickets at the cost of 31 runs, and the latter taking four wickets for 16 runs.

A. W. JONES scored 82 and S. R. Morgan made 69 of a total of 306 compiled by the University of Pennsylvania team against an eleven of the Belmont Club, May 10, at Philadelphia, Pa. The home team had made 35 with one wicket down when time was called.

A. WINTERBOTTOM, bowling for the Sherwood team against the Kensington International team, May 13, at Philadelphia, Pa., took nine wickets, eight of which were clean bowled and at the cost of only 7 runs. The Sherwood team won by a score of 51 to 27.

TEAMS of the Brooklyn and Paterson Clubs played May 13, at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y., rain then causing the contest to be left drawn. F. G. Warburton scored 51 of the Paterson team's total of 162. The Brooklyn team made 21 for the loss of six wickets.

The Ring.

Frank Erne and George McFadden

Entertained in very enjoyable fashion over five thousand patrons of fistic sport at the Lenox Athletic Club, this city, on Tuesday evening, May 9. They had been engaged to fight twenty-five rounds, at 134lb, one pound in excess of the regular lightweight limit, and both were within those figures. The contest was one of the best that ever took place at this resort, and was marked by earnest, continuous fighting upon the part of both lads, Erne being the cleverer of the twain, and also having the advantage of greater experience, added to superior skill, and he ruled a good favorite; but the advantages he possessed were not sufficient to enable him to put his man to sleep, which he tried hard to do. McFadden is a clever, persistent, game boxer, and he showed up to great advantage on this occasion, his friends thinking that he was entitled to a draw, but the majority endorsed the decision of the referee, who declared Erne the victor on the basis of points.

OSCAR GARDNER AND MARTIN FLAHERTY were the stars at the regular weekly boxing entertainment of the Broadway Athletic Club, in this city, on Friday evening, May 12, having been matched to fight twenty-five rounds, at 126lb. Gardner was the favorite, the quotations before commencing being 100 to 80, at which figures there was considerable speculation. The fighting was of a character interesting to look at, although there was less of dash and pepper than some lovers of the game delight in seeing, and neither man suffered much physical punishment, while neither was able to dispose of the other in the stipulated time, the consequence being that at the conclusion of the twenty-fifth round the referee, Charley White, proclaimed it a draw, a decision which pleased a majority of the spectators.

THE POLICE BOARD OF GREATER NEW YORK, yielding to the pressure brought to bear by the politicians of Brooklyn Borough, on May 15 reversed their former action and granted a license to the Coney Island Athletic Club, as in justice they were bound to do after granting licenses to rival organizations in the big city. So the championship glove fight will take place at the arena by the said sea waves, if it is consummated at all. Both principals are in steady training in this vicinity.

MATTY MATTHEWS AND FRANK BARTLEY engaged in a twenty rounds glove contest in Denver, Col., night of May 8, the latter displaying unexpected cleverness, and holding his own with Matthews, who was the favorite. At the close of the twentieth round the referee decided it a draw.

DIDO PLUMB was the victor over Bill Heffernan, of New Zealand, in a glove fight for the middleweight championship of England, held at the National Sporting Club, London, on the night of Monday, May 1. It was a slugging match all through, Plumb being given the verdict in the ninth round.

ABE HICKEN, the veteran lightweight, has returned to Melbourne, Aus., from a visit to old England, the land of his birth. He has a son at Wantage, Eng., learning to be a jockey, under the capable mentorship of Mr. Morton. Abe says he found himself a stranger among the latter day millerites.

EDDIE CONNELLY AND GEORGE KERWIN were to have fought twenty-five rounds before the Olympic Club, at Buffalo, N. Y., on the night of May 9, but a hurricane fight ended in the fourth round in a knockout for the latter, Connelly being declared the winner.

TIM CALLAHAN AND AUSTIN RICE afforded a goodly crowd some amusement at the Waverly Club, Yonkers, N. Y., on the evening of May 11, when they boxed twenty rounds, terminating in a draw, the fighting being quite heavy throughout. Billy Madden was referee.

JIMMY GORMAN DEFEATED MIKE FARRAGHER, of Youngstown, O., in the fifth round of what was to have been a twenty rounds fight, at 135lb, before the Manhattan Athletic Club, of Troy, N. Y., night of May 9. Farragher was completely outclassed.

HARRY SMITH, who acted as substitute for Oscar Gardner (incapacitated by a broken hand), after being unmercifully pounded by "Crockey" Boyle, was knocked out in the thirteent round of a glove combat at the Ariel Club, Athens, Pa., May 15.

JIM MACE, who is now sixty-eight years old and has a family of five, the youngest of whom is about eight months old, is now landlord of the Black Lion Hotel, in Coleshill Street, Birmingham, Eng., but is not overburdened with prosperity.

HARRY TONGUE polished off Frank Neale in a twenty rounds engagement before the New Olympic Club, Birmingham, Eng., May 1.

CHARLES A. YOUNG, of Springfield, O., in a competition at Peoria, Ill., May 9, broke the unprecedented number of 211 inanimate targets straight, at unknown angles. In a team shoot at the same place and time Young, C. M. Powers, Fred Gilbert, Rolla Heikes and Ed. Fulford smashed 193 straight, which also constitutes a fresh record for team shooting at inanimate targets.

The New York Division.

The annual meet and races of the New York State Division, L. A. W., will, as previously stated, be held at Patchogue, L. I., June 29, 30 and July 1, and the 'cycling townsmen are busy preparing to make the affair a success, which it promises to be. Thursday, the opening day, will be devoted chiefly to the reception of the visitors and getting acquainted. Friday there will be a sail to the beach and a clambake, while there will be an unlimited supply of excursion sail boats to take the crowd to Fire Island, the Point o' Woods, Cherry Grove and other resorts. Friday will, therefore, be salt water day.

Saturday will be the great day. In the morning will be furnished one of the greatest spectacular sights ever presented to the 'cycling public, the nature of which will be disclosed in due time. In the afternoon there will be a race meet. Roe's track, which has been leased by private parties for the season, has been donated, under a special agreement for the occasion, to the Citizens' Committee.

The programme of races has not yet been decided upon. A bicycle parade Saturday evening will conclude the official portion of the programme by the citizens. There will be suitable prizes offered for the clubs appearing in the parade having the largest number, and the usual arrangements in that line. It is possible that a new feature will be scheduled for either Thursday or Friday evening, namely, a horse foot excursion. The idea was offered by H. J. Bishop and will probably be made a part of the amusement to be furnished the visitors.

THE EMPIRE STATE WHEELMEN'S DOUBLE CENTURY RUN, to be held June 4, from the Bedford Rest to Oakland and return, the route to be traversed twice, will be open to both sexes. The first man home from two hundred miles will be given a diamond ring valued at $20, and the first woman to cover that distance will be solaced with a ring valued at $15. There are rings as prizes for the first man and woman to finish one hundred miles, and a gold medal for the first tandem at one hundred and at two hundred miles. There are also two cups for clubs having the largest number of winners over 12. The entries are being received by Captain Roche, 218 Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. In case of rain the ride will be postponed one week.

THE INITIAL RACE MEET in this vicinity will be held at Ambrose Park, Brooklyn, N. Y., Saturday afternoon, May 20, under the management of the National 'Cycling Association. A number of open events are programmed, but the special attraction will be the attempt of Harry Elkes to eclipse "Major" Taylor's feat of riding one mile in 1m. 31⅗s., in which effort he will be paced by M. Fournier's motor 'cycle. A number of other professional bright lights of the 'cycling world will be seen on this occasion, thus appropriately opening what promises to be a very lively season on track and road.

C. G. WRIDGWAY, in a trial on a motor tricycle at the Crystal Palace track, London, Eng., May 5, rode five miles in the unprecedented time of 8m. 40⅖s., unpaced. The times for the intermediate miles were: One, 1m. 41⅕s.; two, 3m. 25⅕s.; three, 5m. 8⅘s.; four, 6m. 53⅘s. A. A. Chase's time for five miles, paced, is 8m. 47⅘s.

THE MUTUAL WHEELMEN, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will hold its initial midnight run on May 29, going to Rockaway. The first division will leave the club house, 2 Eidert Street, at 10.30 P. M. and the second division will start an hour later. Unattached riders are invited.

CHARLES W. MILLER, the American long distance 'cyclist, was the winner of the one hundred hours race at Roubaix, France, last week, he riding 2,253 kilometres.

M. JENATZY, on April 29, near Acheres, Fr., made an onslaught upon M. Chasseloup-Laubat's motor car records for one kilometre, both flying and standing, and placed the figures for the distance to his credit, as follow: Flying, 34s.; standing, 47⅘s. These are not only the fastest times for any system of locomotion, but give an average of 65 miles 433 yards per hour.

A. L. A. W. CONSULATE has been organized at Patchogue, L. I., the first on the island and the third in the State. It is composed of Jesse C. Mills, chief consul; L. N. Green, junior consul; J. W. Ackerley, secretary; J. A. Canfield, treasurer.

THE ANNUAL BORDEAUX-PARIS WHEEL DERBY of 1899 will be held on May 27, 28, the start being made at 9 P. M., so as to finish the journey during daylight.

TOM LINTON, the Welsh rider, when he defeated Walters, Digeon and others in a race in Paris, Fr., April 30, rode 53 kilometres 500 metres in an hour, the greatest distance accomplished in competition.

Sloan's Busy Week.

Reports from England bring gratifying evidence of Tod Sloan's continued skillful riding. At Newmarket, May 9-11, he managed to be "in the money" pretty often. On 9 he won the Trial Plate, mounted on Sir J. Miller's Korosko; was second in the Visitors' Plate, in the saddle for Lord Wm. Beresford on Chinook; won the Newmarket Handicap for Beresford on Grondo, and had a walkover in the Burwell Stakes on the same stable's Caiman. He was unplaced in two races. On 10 he captured the Newmarket Stakes on Pierre Lorillard's Dominie II; won the Spring Two Year Old Stakes on Sir R. W. Griffith's Bettyfield, and finished first in the All Age Stakes on H. Barnato's Sweet Story. On 11 The Flying Handicap was captured by Sloan on H. J. King's Floris Rubattino; the Breeders' Plate went to Sir R Waldie Griffith's Vain Duchess, with Sloan up. The Payne Stakes was won by Sloan on Beresford's Caiman, and he was second in the Bedford Two Year Old Plate on Beresford's Democrat and third in the Selling Plate on Griffith's Kurvenal. He journeyed to Gatwick 12, where he won the Alexandra Handicap, mounted on Beresford's Berzak; took the Worth Stakes, in the saddle on Beresford's Blacksmith, and on 13 continued his streak at the same track by getting place money in the Prince's Handicap and the Marlboro Stakes, mounted on Beresford's Jiffy II and Jolly Tar, respectively. Sam Loates beat him in a match race on Rowanberry, the American jockey riding Chas. Dwyer's Shepperton.

GET A DIVORCE

from the old jokes and back number parodies. Managers will be only too glad to pay you alimony in the shape of increased salary. It's easy to get good new stuff—very easy—but just how easy you'll never know till you send for Madison's Budget No. 4. It's a great publication and no mistake. Chuck full of the newest parodies, monologues, Hebrew talk, end men's jokes, sidewalk conversations, stump speeches, etc., etc., all written by James Madison. Budget No. 4 costs one dollar per copy—money back if not absolutely satisfactory. Such eminent artists as Will H. Fox, Barney Ferguson, Fred Niblo, Wilson and Waring buy every number as issued. If they find it of value, probably you would also. Anyhow, it's a sure thing proposition. You can't lose, for if Budget No. 4 is not way beyond your fondest expectations I return your dollar at once. Nothing embalmed about that, is there? In fact, if such a liberal proposition were made me I'd jump at it in a minute. Better send a dollar to James Madison, 134 East 79th Street, New York City, today and he will mail you the greatest bargain you ever received

FOR A DOLLAR.

"We'll Hold the Philippines."

REFRAIN:

The Yankee Eagle screams, "We'll hold the Philippines,
That her people never more may be oppressed;"
Our flag shall ever wave, to free the true and brave,
And our banner shall by noble deeds be bless'd,
Who mutters "take it down" shall meet the Freeman's frown,
And tremble as the sword hand takes the hilt;
The Yankee Eagle screams "We'll hold the Philippines
Where tyrants reign our altar shall be built."

With stirring new military two step melody, giving opportunity for dramatic effect.

"The Sad Eviction."

REFRAIN:

"Father died to plant the Stars and Stripes on Cuban soil,
Mother scarcely earns enough to keep us with her toil.
We can get no pension yet, our rent we could not meet,
And this is why the landlord put us out upon the street."

"THE HOODOO-DOO-DOO MAN,"

By Geo. Evans, composer of "I'll Be True to My Honey Boy," is the big song hit of "The Arabian Girl" (now running at the Herald Square Theatre), as sung by Eddie Foy, and an overwhelming success as sung by the author, Eleanor Falk, Dot Davenport and Josephine Gassmann and her "picks." Positively the cleverest, quaintest and most effective neat "pickanniny song" of the century. Full of retentive melody, clever ideas and opportunities for singers who like to "work up" a song. WILL H. FOX

ARRESTED

CHARGED WITH AN AWFUL CRIME.

SCENE - - COURT OF JUSTICE.
PLACE - - NEW YORK CITY.
TIME - - LAST MONDAY.

CHARACTERS:

JUDGE FAIRPLAY (A Man of Sound Sense). ATTORNEY CUSH (Out for It).
A. KNOCKER (Cynic, Harpoonthrower and Union Square Macer) The Accuser.
WILL. H. FOX (The Villian).

THE TRIAL:

((Will H. Fox—In Prisoners' Box heavily chained and handcuffed.))

JUDGE FAIRPLAY—Will H. Fox, You are charged with a terrible crime by A. KNOCKER—What have You to say that would prevent a verdict of Hanging?

FOX—Your Honor before I offer Evidence in my behalf, I demand That A. KNOCKER state what crime I've committed, and That He Be Sworn Before He Gives His Testimony (Knocker trembles in his chair).

ATTORNEY CUSH—I object to Mr. Knocker being sworn in, Everybody is aware That A. Knocker knows all about Theatricals and The Crime You Are Guilty of.

FOX—Are You Afraid to believe A. Knocker even under oath?

ATTORNEY CUSH—No sir, Mr. Knocker has a large following, and from the information he has handed in, He knows You, and Your terrible deed like a book.

JUDGE FAIRPLAY—Fox, before we proceed further Just tell the Court Where You Was Born, When You First made Your Debut On the Stage and What You Have Done For A Living up to 1890, because it was In 1890 This Terrible Crime Was Committed.

FOX—I was born in Baltimore, Md., Oct. 19, 1858, and moved with my Parents to Louisville, Ky., in 1864. After going to school for five years I made my first appearance on the stage as a Dutch Song and Dance Artist in 1869. In 1870 I Appeared in the Concert with Hemming, Cooper and Whitby's Circus. I next joined a Dutch Comedian named Charley Fox ((who on several occasions has claimed to be my Father, and for the Benefit of those Who have been Deceived I will state that Both of My Beloved Parents Are Buried In Louisville, Ky., Having Been Dead Over Twenty Years)). I only remained with this Charley Fox a short season. I next appeared at The Washington Varieties, Providence, R. I., under the management of Col. John D. Hopkins and Archie Stalker, where my Success Was So Big as a Dutch Comique That They Engaged Me For The Entire Season. I next joined E. S. Washburn's Last Sensation, with whom I remained all season, doing my Dutch Specialty, Character Songs and Duets With Miss Lillie Washburn. I next joined Fish and Benson's Moral Show, doing my Specialty, The Old Man's Drunk Again Sketch with James Roach, and The Little Frauds with the Brightest Child Performer The Vaudeville Stage Has Ever Seen, Little Baby Benson ((Miss Marguerite Fish)). I next joined M. B. Leavitt's Minstrels for a short Season, and I also played Dates All Over The Country, From The Old National Theatre in Cincinnati to the Howard Athenaeum, Boston, under the late John Stetson's Management, and in 1877 my Voice failed me, and I retired from the Footlights.

ATTORNEY CUSH—How Did You Manage To Live Then?

FOX—I played Piano at Clubs, Entertainments and at Concert Halls In Providence, Boston, Philadelphia and New York, Have Also Earned Many a Dollar at Song Writing.

A. KNOCKER—What Songs did You Ever Write, that amounted to anything?

FOX—On My Twenty-first Birthday, in 1879, I Composed both the Words and Music of "A VIOLET FROM MOTHER'S GRAVE," which was One of America's Biggest Vocal Hits, And Was First Made Popular by Mr. Andrew Mack. Since Then I've Composed Both The Words and Music of Over (30) Thirty Songs, among them "THE BROKEN HOME," "GOD WON'T LOVE YOU IF YOU DON'T BE GOOD," "SCENES FROM LIFE," "REGRET, or MY LOVE REMAINS THE SAME," "PERHAPS—WHO KNOWS," "THE LOVE CUP," "THE LETTER IN MY HEART," "IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN," "THE GALLANT EMMET GUARDS," "MY LIFE, MY ALL," "A STORY EVER NEW," "MY MOTHER'S PORTRAIT," "WOMAN IS JUST WHAT MAN MAKES HER," "UNCLE JASPER SOON MUST GO," "DON'T SHUT OUT THE SUNLIGHT, MOTHER," "PARTED, YET LOVED FONDLY," and "HEART OF MY HEART," And I Composed The Music of "TWELVE MONTHS AGO TO NIGHT," Words by J. F. Mitchell; "SENTENCED TO DEATH," Words by W. C. Robey, etc., etc. "THE ALLIANCE QUICK STEP," "THE LITTLE CLARE SCHOTTISCHE," "ONE LOVE, ONE LIFE WALTZ," "EM'LY CAPRICE," and The Famous "PADEREWSKI OCTAVE MARCH."

A KNOCKER—When Did You First Perform Your Piano Specialty, And What Did You Introduce In Your Act?

FOX—I thought You knew all about Me.

JUDGE FAIRPLAY—I would like You to answer those questions. Just to see If A. KNOCER is correct in the information he has given The Court.

FOX—Before Paderewski ever saw America, I performed My Piano Specialty in Full Evening Dress, at the Standard Theatre, New York City, under J. M. Hill's Management. He was then Giving Popular Sunday Night Concerts, under the Title of Mark Murphy's Sunday Concerts. Barney Fagan Esq., was the Gentleman who had charge of the Entertainment, and Engaged Me To Appear, and during My Specialty I PERFORMED THE FOLLOWING IMITATIONS AND TRICKS ON CONCERT GRAND PIANO: Imitating A Small Hungarian Band on the Piano, Imitating A Music Box on the Piano, Imitating a Clog Dancer on the Keys of the Piano, Imitating a Lady Amateur Pianiste, Imitating a Fife and Drum Corps on the Piano; Playing "The Suwanee River," with My Back To The Piano; Playing the Piano Blindfolded, with the Keys Covered With A Tablecloth; Playing Melodies With the Heel of My Foot, accompanying the same with My Left Hand; Standing up Dancing A Straight Jig, and Playing The Music Whilst Doing the Dance; Playing Popular Music With My Nose, accompanying the Melody With My Left Hand; Spinning the Piano Stool 'Round, and Saying; "No 38 Wins the Barrel of Flour;" A Burlesque Drama—Myself Impersonating the Different Characters, and Musical Courtship—A Story Consisting of well known Songs. This Was Copied in Farce Comedies, In Sketches, Burlesque Shows, and Even Read In Letters From The Stage, Whilst the Orchestra Played the Music Cues For The Same. My Catch Phrase: "NOW WILL YOU BE GOOD," Has Also Done Service for Alleged Comedians. Among the Artists Who Appeared At The Standard On That Particular Sunday Evening, and Who will vouch for the truth of my statements, I need only mention the names of WARD and VOKES, BARNEY FAGAN Esq., THE GOTHAM QUARTETTE, and The Manager of The Theatre, MR. J. M. HILL. After Paderewski Came To New York, and Made Such A Terrific Success, I saw a chance To Give The Public A Single Comedy Musical Specialty Different from Any Act On The Stage, So I Discarded My Dress Suit for a Grotesque Make Up, and I launched what I termed a Satire On Paderewski Manager Tony Pastor gave me my first New York Engagement, and the Novelty of my Specialty was so pronounced that my success was Instantaneous. Col. John D. Hopkins, who controlled the Famous Old Howard Athenæum Co., in '92 and '93, saw My Creation, and Engaged me On Sight for the above Company for the Entire Season—This Engagement Practically Assured My Future Success—As The Howard Athenæum Co. at that time Played The Finest Theatres In America—Was The Strongest Vaudeville Show On The Road—And "Paddywhiski" Was Strong Enough To Close The Olio. The Entire Press of America in All The Principal Cities From The New York Herald To The San Francisco Examiner Proclaimed "PADDYWHISKI" A GENUINE NOVELTY. It Has Been Smooth Sailing For Me Ever Since. My Success In London and Through England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales Will Go On Record With Any Single Comedy Specialty That Has Ever Played Europe Since May 25, 1896. Endorsed By The London Times, Telegraph, Max O'Rell, The Graphic, The Standard and Famous George Grossmith as an Artist, and a Hit Wherever Performed. Now Your Honor What Is This Terrible Crime That I've Committed.

JUDGE FAIRPLAY—Fox, YOU ARE The Original Comedian-Pianist, THE FIRST To Perform An Entire Comedy Musical Act With ((no other Instrument)) only A Piano On Any Stage. Well, Since The Success of Your Creation There Have Been More Pianos Used On The Stage Than Ever Were Used Before. Some Have Used Your Original Ideas, Whilst Others Have Abused The Piano So Much That The Theatregoing Public Have Been Tortured. Therefore I Must Make An Example of You and Punish You. Because IF YOU HAD NOT PUT "PADDYWHISKI" ON THE STAGE Other Piano Acts WOULD HAVE NEVER SEEN THE FOOTLIGHTS, And The Public Would Have Been Spared A Great Deal of Suffering. I will make the Sentence light BECAUSE YOU HAVE ALWAYS USED A REAL PIANO IN YOUR ACT, And Never Had To Depend On Feeders—in front or behind The Footlights—To Make Your Specialty A Success. And Remember Fox—THAT ENVY IS THE HOMAGE INFERIORITY PAYS TO TALENT.

((READ THE ABOVE LINES OVER AGAIN)).

The Sentence of This Court Is—That You Sail From New York City on June 14, '99, and Remain Away From America Until Your European Dates Are Fulfilled—which will be in 1902—Unless Something Unforeseen Should Happen That Would Warrant Your Return.

FOX—All right Judge—Yet before I sail I want to Thank Managers Who Were Kind Enough to offer Me Engagements, and Those Managers Shall Have The First claim on my services when I return, IF THEY WANT ME. "PADDYWHISKI" WILL BE BETTER THAN EVER WITH THE NEW ORIGINAL IDEAS THAT I WILL INTRODUCE WHEN I COME BACK. SO, DICK TURPIN COMEDIANS, WATCH THE ORIGINATOR (who, week of May 1, Took 3 Encores For His Piano Solos. Alone, After Doing 20 Minutes of Trick Playing and Monologue At Hopkins' Theatre, Chicago).

The last deft touch of color in the make-up is often best placed with the finger tip. A quick wash with "Ivory," for it rinses easily, and a feeling of perfect cleanliness ensues.

The properties of Ivory Soap are such that the application of its smooth lather freshens and cools the skin. Repeated and exhaustive tests have proven it to be pure and free from harmful substances.

A WORD OF WARNING.—There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

The pictures when projected show great improvements both in clearness and definition, and have that soft mellow tone which has been so long sought for, but not until now attained.
